HARDING DEDICATES LINCOLN MEMORIAL; BLUE AND GRAY JOIN

President Moved by Presence of Veterans of Both Armies to Emphasize Unity.

Tells How Martyr Endured Criticism—Says Union, Not Emancipation, Was Goal.

TAFT PRESENTS STRUCTURE

Moton Gives Negroes' Tribute—Markham Reads Poem—Wilson Unable to Attend.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The Lincoln Memorial, magnificent and compelling in its purity of line and simplicity, was dedicated this afternoon.

For ten years this white marble shrine with its massive Doric columns, has been slowly rising on the banks of the Potomac at the western end of the Mall, where once was a dismal, marshy waste. Its completion gives to Washington three dominating structures, each different but each fitting into a harmonious whole, on the Mall. At the east is the imposing dome of the Capitol, between the perfectly proportioned Washington Monument points upward a granite index finger, and to the west, glistening like a flawless gem in its setting, stands the memorial that perpetuates in marble, sculpture and fresco, the spirit of Abraham Lincoln.

Today, fifty-seven years after the tragedy in Ford's Theatre, the Civil War tunes, the martial airs of Spanish War days and the stirring songs of the A. E. F. sounded through Washington streets as veterans of three wars marched to visit the graves of their dead. In the afternoon these processions converged at the Lincoln Memorial, where Chief Justice Taft, as Chairman of the Memorial Commission, turned over the building to the Government, represented by President Harding.

Thus a patriotic handful of the fast dwindling survivors of the Civil War, some of whom knew Lincoln, had the satisfaction of witnessing within their lifetime the dedication of a marble symbol of Stanton's announcement that the Great Emancipator belongs to the ages.

Blue and Gray Join in Tribute.

The ceremonies were in keeping with the simplicity of the memorial. Grand Army men, led by Lewis S. Pilcer, Commander-in-Chief, presented the colors and laid symbols of the army and navy at the foot of the structure. Across the aisle sat gray-clad Confederate veterans, and from their seats they could look over the Potomac to the Virginia hills, where Arlington, once the home of Robert E. Lee, nestles among the trees. Robert R. Moton, President of Tuskegee Institute, paid tribute to Lincoln in the name of 12,000,000 negroes. Edwin Markham read the revision of his poem, "Lincoln, the Man of the People."

Chief Justice Taft, under whose administration as President the memorial was begun, gave a short account of the labors of the Memorial Commission and delivered the building into the Government's keeping. President Harding then accepted the memorial and drew a lesson from Lincoln's steadfastness under criticism, eulogizing him as not a superman but as a "natural human being with the frailties mixed with the virtues of humanity." The invocation and benediction were delivered by the Rev. Wallace Radcliffe, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, where Lincoln worshipped.

Thousands assembled at the approaches to the memorial and the crowd extended down along the quarter-mile long mirror basin in which the Washington Monument was reflected with the background of a cloudless sky. Amplifying devices, cleverly concealed so that they did not detract from the beauty of the memorial, carried the speakers' voices several hundred yards, and by the same means the speeches were sent broadcast by radiophone.

Wilson Unable to Attend.

Just back of the east colonnade were seated the official members of the party, the President and Mrs. Harding, members of the Cabinet and their wives, Robert T. Lincoln, the martyred President's son, and Mrs. Lincoln; members of the Memorial Commission; Henry R. Bacon, architect of the memorial; Daniel Chester French, sculptor of the heroic seated figure of Lincoln placed in the centre of the memorial, and Jules Guerin, designer of the allegorical frescoes. Places were reserved for former President and Mrs. Wilson, but early this morning Mr. Wilson sent word to Chief Justice Taft that he would be unable to attend.

To the left along the colonnade were members of the Supreme Court and to the right Foreign Ambassadors and their staffs. On the terrace were other members of the Diplomatic Corps and members of both houses of Congress.

A conspicuous figure at the end of the row of Ambassadors was Otto Wiedefelt, the German Ambassador, who presented his credentials last week. He arrived late and alone and followed the procession with close attention, occasionally leaving his seat and standing against one of the columns to obtain a better view of the speakers and the crowd beneath.

There were two incidents that gave temporarily a touch out of keeping with the dignity of the ceremonies. One was at the end of the exercises, when the Chief Justice requested the people in the audience to remain in their places until the President proceeded to his car, whereupon several dozen members of

Ex-Texas Governor and Wife Candidates for Senate Seat

WACO, Texas, May 30.—Receipt of the application of Mrs. Myriam A. Ferguson, wife of former Governor James E. Ferguson, for a place on the Democratic primary ticket as a candidate for the United States Senate was announced today.

Mr. Ferguson also is an announced candidate for the Senate, but he has not formally applied for a place on the July primary ticket.

REPARATIONS ISSUE NOW UP TO BANKERS

Belief in Paris Germany's Reply to Entente Will Be Judged Acceptable.

ALL NOW HINGES ON LOAN

Allies Would Have to Give Up Some Liens to Enable Berlin to Furnish Security.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 30.—The bankers' committee studying the conditions of a German loan, of which J. P. Morgan is a member, now finds itself elevated to high political place. The German Government's reply to the Reparation Commission's terms, couched in a satisfactory tone, says Germany can do what is asked if she gets a foreign loan. It expresses the conviction that she cannot halt the floating debt and stop paper money issue unless she does get a loan.

The note has two effects: First, it disposes of the May 31 "crisis," because the Reparation Commission will find it does not justify an appeal to coercive measures, and, second, it turns all attention on the bankers' committee. The bankers, least of all Mr. Morgan, did not seek such a situation. It is an instance of having greatness thrust upon them. If a loan is floated and Germany gets a considerable share, the reparations situation will be settled, at least for this year. If a loan is not forthcoming the situation will be most unsettled.

What the Entente Demanded.

The Reparation Commission called on Germany to consent to the following undertakings before May 31:

1. Reduce expenditures and balance the budget.
2. Halt the increase of the foreign debt and the growth of paper money circulation.
3. Accept allied supervision of her efforts in that direction.
4. Take measures to prevent the further flight of capital and to get back $2,000,000,000 spirited out of the country in the last two years.
5. Assure the Reichsbank's autonomy from politics.
6. Resume publication of Government fiscal statistics.

Berlin's note encloses a review of Germany's budget showing it tends to balance. It points out that revised estimates tend to show increased revenue over estimates. It declares subsidy of public services has been abandoned and that subsidies to reduce the price of foodstuffs are less than 1,000,000,000 marks in 1922, compared with 17,500,000,000 marks in 1921. Expenditures for 1922 are 24,500,000,000 marks less than in 1921, and an outline of further planned economies is given. A special Minister has been named to watch over this effort.

The Reparation Commission's demands did not relate directly to reparation payments. They were conditions under which the reduced scale of payments this year was accepted. The most important demand of the commission was that Germany halt the increase in her floating debt, which means increase of paper money.

To this the German Government replies by saying:

"The German Government is determined to make most strenuous endeavors to prevent any further increase of the floating debt. It is, however, convinced that in present financial conditions such efforts cannot be carried through unless Germany receives reasonable assistance in the shape of a foreign loan." Provided such assistance becomes available without delay Berlin agrees that the floating debt of Germany as it stood on March 31—272,000,000,000 marks—should be regarded as the "normal maximum." If at the end of any quarter this is exceeded Berlin agrees to take steps to reduce it.

These promises, however, are subject to the condition that, pending receipts

EX-SAILOR KILLED BY WARD 12 HOURS AFTER HE GOT HERE

New Evidence Produced to Disprove Slayer's Story of Six Weeks' Continuous Blackmail.

SEARCH FOR "ROSS" FAILS

Westchester Officials Begin to Doubt That Alleged Conspirators Really Exist.

WARD COLLEAGUE MYSTIFIED

Police Commissioner Tubbs Tells of Conversation With Slayer on Day of Killing.

The Westchester County officials investigating the shooting of Clarence Peters by Walter S. Ward near the Kensico Reservoir at 4 A. M. on May 16 were convinced yesterday that the youthful sailor arrived in New York less than twelve hours before he was killed and that the first thing he did was to get into communication with Ward and ask him for money.

Sheriff George J. Werner telegraphed the commandant of the marine barracks at Paris Island, S. C., last night, asking for confirmation of reports that Peters told some of the marines that he could get all the money he wanted and that Peters departed on a train that would get him to New York at 4:20 o'clock on the afternoon of May 15.

Harry Schneiderman, 18 years old, of 1,110 Simpson Street, said last night that he left Paris Island on May 11, arriving in New York on May 14, and that Peters did not start until after he had departed. According to Schneiderman, Peters told him that he could always get plenty of money.

Despite this information, the authorities have been unable to trace Peters's movements after he reached New York and before his body was found on the lonely road at Kensico, and have been unable to account for Ward's time from 6 o'clock on the evening of May 15 until after the shooting.

Investigate Peters's Movements.

The investigation is now centered on finding where Peters went after reaching New York, where he left his baggage if he had any, whether he went to Ward's home or office or telephoned him to make an appointment, and when and where he met Ward the night of the killing.

All these questions remain unanswered. They are among the questions Ward refuses to answer, because to do so probably would expose the secret that he says he paid blackmailers $30,000 to keep, and to do so might give away the real motive for the shooting of Peters—if it was not self-defense, as Ward alleges.

District Attorney Frederick E. Weeks said he hoped to answer some of these questions this week. He appears confident that the real story of the blackmailing and the shooting is about to become known.

Hopes that the truth would come out through "Charley Ross" and "Jack," alleged by Ward to have been accomplices of Peters in the extortion plot, went aglimmering yesterday. The lawyers and detectives of the Peters family failed to find the two blackmailers or any trace of them in Boston, where they were supposed to meet detectives yesterday. Last night a representative of the Peters family admitted the unlikelihood of being able to produce these men.

Search Made for Woman.

A search is also being made for the young woman who is said to have got $1,000 from Ward after a Pittsburgh gang of extortionists persuaded her to sue him for $10,000 in 1915, when he was Secretary of the Pittsburgh Federal League baseball club, owned by his father, George S. Ward, and his uncle, the late R. B. Ward.

District Attorney Weeks said he had sent to Pittsburgh for a description of this woman. Newspaper dispatches from Pittsburgh merely describe her as a beautiful brunette of 31 years. She is said to have disappeared from the night life of Pittsburgh some time ago.

Some of the unofficial investigators of the case have attempted to link the Pittsburgh girl with the young woman who offered a bus boy in a Broadway restaurant $500 if he would go to the Ward home at New Rochelle last Sat-

Baby Abandoned at a Fifth Av. Hotel; Women Beg to Be Permitted to Keep Boy

Nearly a dozen women who live at the Buckingham Hotel, Fifth Avenue and Fiftieth Street, pleaded with the management late on Monday night to be permitted to keep a two weeks' old baby boy who had been left in one of the hotel rooms. The baby's cries in Room 188 had caught the ear of a watchman, George F. Thomas, and he and a bellboy had found the child.

The baby was in good health, for when the bellboy had warmed milk that some one had left the youngster drank it greedily. He did not seem to mind a bit having been deserted for about six hours.

At o'clock Monday afternoon Paul R. Snyder, assistant manager of the hotel, said two young women arrived at the place in a taxicab, one carrying a suitcase and a baby. She registered as Mrs. Morgan Carter of Boston, and Room 188 was assigned to her. In half an hour she left her key at the desk and went down Madison Avenue in the taxicab, which her friend had kept waiting for her. She was not seen again. The suitcase she had brought contained only copies of last Sunday's newspapers.

She was dressed like a maid and looked like one," Mr. Snyder said. "She was doubtless paid to leave the baby here. That often happens in hotels, but it is our first experience. It is known that we are going out of business and closing up on June 1, and the parents probably thought that some wealthy woman here would adopt the child. As a matter of fact, ten or a dozen of the women here were scurrying around last night trying to get us to give one of them the baby."

The police were notified at once and sent "Morgan Carter Jr." to Bellevue Hospital, where up to last night no one had claimed him. Detective William J. Jones, assigned to the case from the East Fifty-first Street police station, reported yesterday that he had made no discoveries. The child eventually will be turned over to the Department of Public Welfare.

The baby has blue eyes. He had on a white muslin dress, a silk cap, woolen underclothing and white stockings. The woman who brought him to the hotel was about 24 years old, of slight build. She had dark hair and complexion.

The name of Morgan Carter does not appear in the Boston telephone book.

Nation-Wide Auto Theft Ring Is Alleged With 'Con' Shea at Head; 'Field Agent' Held

CHICAGO, May 30.—Operations of an alleged nation-wide automobile theft ring with headquarters in Chicago and of which "Con" Shea, labor leader now under indictment for murder in connection with the deaths of two policemen, following labor bombings, is said by the police to be the head, were revealed by the authorities today following the return from St. Louis of officers with William Smith. Smith was arrested as an alleged "field agent" of the ring.

Assistant State's Attorney Hodges also said today he would question Smith in connection with recent bombings and the murder of two policemen for which Shea, "Big Tim" Murphy, Fred Mader and several others are now under indictment.

According to the police, operations of the alleged automobile theft ring extended into cities of the East and South and resulted in the theft and disposal of more than 300 cars, valued at about $500,000.

John Rogers, garage owner, and Claud Bullier, arrested yesterday with an automobile alleged to have been stolen, are also being held.

Thomas Carey, who signed the bond for the release from jail of Mader and Murphy on condition that they withdraw from all activities in connection with the Chicago Building Trades Council, said today that union labor here would be investigated in public by a committee of twenty representative citizens and officials. The committee, he said, would consist of Aldermen, bankers, Judges, members of the clergy and persons "not friendly to union labor."

"I want the public to know that I do not intend to appoint a committee that will whitewash this matter," he said. "We are going to get to the bottom of the labor troubles in Chicago."

He asserted that if the committee decided certain men should be removed from offices in union labor, they would be removed and added that every one having a grievance against union labor would be asked to testify.

The committee which has taken the responsibility of enforcing the Landis building trades award issued a statement that jobs on which Landis workers were employed now total $83,000,000. More than 3,000 Landis award workers were given jobs during May, the committee said.

M'CORMICK ROMANCE UP IN COURT TODAY

Mathilde Goes Back to Chicago Instead of Boarding Ship Here, as Was Expected.

TAKES SIDES WITH FATHER

Reopening of Her Guardianship by Mother Is Seen as Move to Block Oser Match.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 30.—The appearance of Miss Mathilde McCormick before Judge Henry Horner in the Probate Court tomorrow to settle for herself the matter of her guardianship, which has a definite bearing on her romance with Max Oser, Swiss riding master, and the announced plans for their wedding, looms as a possibility as the result of her sudden return to Chicago today.

Harold F. McCormick, her father, whose appointment as guardian has been reopened by a court order obtained by his divorced wife, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, met the Twentieth Century Limited from New York today to welcome Miss Mathilde. It had been stated that she would sail today on the Berengaria for a trip to Switzerland and a June wedding there, and her recent trip to New York was believed to have been in preparation for the voyage abroad.

Her unexpected return here today is taken to mean that she thought it necessary to take sides with her father in what might later develop into a court fight over her marriage, inasmuch as Mrs. McCormick is represented as being opposed to the match. But Miss Mathilde is not revealing any secrets.

When she stepped from the train today into her father's arms he greeted her with: "Hello, darling; so glad to see you back."

Says "It's Nobody's Business."

Miss Mathilde, wearing a gray coat suit, a plain shirtwaist and a jaunty brown turban, turned her face aside as the photographers' cameras clicked, and the reporters crowded about to ascertain the latest wedding plans.

"I can't say even a word," she protested. "I've been bothered to death. I can't say anything at all."

Questions came fast. Why did she return from New York? When would she sail? Would she have a statement later?

"I don't know," she replied. "I can't say anything at all."

Then Mr. McCormick chuckled when she added: "And, after all, it's nobody's business but my own. It's really my affair. I don't see why other people should be so interested in it."

But the reporters wanted to know who could explain if she could not.

"You might ask the kitchen cat—maybe it would know," Mathilde replied archly.

"Is there any one who can speak for you?" was the last question.

"Only the gods in heaven," she laughed, as her father hurried her to an automobile.

Mr. McCormick paused long enough to say that his daughter had no intention of calling on the Berengaria, but merely had gone to New York to bid her friend, Miss Julia Mangold, Oser's former secretary, good-bye aboard the Cunard liner. But why did she not remain in New York to see her guest aboard the liner, which was leaving the pier about the time she arrived in Chicago? Mr. McCormick would discuss the matter no further. He put his finger to his lips when asked to make some statement regarding the action of his divorced wife in halting the issuance of guardianship papers.

Expected to Select Father.

Despite the fact that counsel for both Mr. McCormick and Mrs. McCormick intimate the proceedings to morrow will be merely of a formal nature to see that the law is strictly complied with and that no dispute as to the guardianship is likely to develop, Miss Mathilde, under the law, is entitled to name the guardian she chooses. And, as she has made her home with her father ever since she returned to America to announce her engagement to Oser, there is little doubt as to whom she would select should the question be put to her by Judge Horner.

The Illinois law is very explicit on this point and those members of Chicago society who are adherents of Miss Mathilde and her father in the controversy are confident that she will win out. The contention of Mr. McCormick's lawyers is that Miss Mathilde has the right under the Illinois law to select her father as her guardian inasmuch as she is more than 14 years of age. They quote the

100,000 MORE SEATS ON SUBWAY TODAY

Interborough to Add 246 Trains in Non-Rush Hours to Meet New Transit Order.

NEARLY ALL LINES BENEFIT

Headway to Be Cut and Trains to Be Longer—Further Improvement in September.

Approximately 100,000 more seats than there were yesterday will be provided for passengers in the subways of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company today, when the first increase in service during non-rush hours recently ordered by the Transit Commission takes effect. The company will increase its schedules by 246 trains a day. Many trains will be lengthened and the number of trips of cars in service will be increased by 2,014.

The service will be further augmented when the second part of the commission's order takes effect on Sept. 18 at the close of the Summer vacation season. At this time a further increase of 114 trains a day will be made, making a total of 360 more trains a day than have been operated, and increasing the total number of trains each day from 2,775 to 3,135.

Engineers of the commission have estimated that the total increase in September will be approximately 5,000,000 car miles a year, equivalent to 400,000,000 car seat miles. The immediate increase a day in car miles is 29,935 and in car seat miles 1,046,750.

To Use Full Reserve Force.

The increased operation beginning today requires the employment of the Interborough's full force of reserve crews, numbering 300 men. The September schedule will require another increase of 300 men, who will be employed and trained for the service during the Summer.

The increase today affects nearly all the lines and branches of the Interborough's subway division, except the Queensboro subway, where it is expected that the institution of a shuttle service in the near future by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company will provide for additional service. The commission is now holding hearings with a view to providing increased service on the Interborough's elevated lines and in preparing an order for increased service on the B. R. T. subway and elevated lines, and is holding or will hold hearings looking to the improvement of surface car service.

The order to the Interborough Company carries with it a direction for the purchase of 350 additional cars, 100 of which have already been ordered. While some increase in rush-hour service will begin today, improvement during the rush periods will be slight until these additional cars are delivered, as the company is already running at maximum track capacity during the peak hour periods and will not be able to lengthen this maximum operation until more cars are provided.

Service on the main trunk lines of the Interborough are put on the three and one-half minute interval upon both local and express tracks during non-rush hours by today's schedules. When the September order goes into effect, this interval will be further reduced to three minutes. Heretofore the minimum period between rush hours has been four minutes.

Most Lines Benefit.

Nearly every part of the city served by the Interborough subways will be benefited. The Washington Heights section has a 15 per cent. improvement in non-rush hour service, Van Cortlandt Park expresses, now operated on eight-minute intervals run every seven minutes. The local service terminating at 137th Street, has a similar decrease in headway. In September these intervals will be further improved, going to a six-minute basis.

On the Lenox Avenue branch both local and express trains run on a seven-minute interval instead of an eight-minute, and the expresses are lengthened from eight-car to ten-car trains. This is a 62 per cent. increase in express service and a 20 per cent. increase in local service.

The Bronx gains substantially by the commission's order. On the West Farms branch, between Mott Avenue and 177th Street the old schedule called for fifteen trains an hour and 300 eight-car trains were run. The number of trains has been increased to seventeen and all are ten-car trains, an increase of 1,700 seats each hour and an increase of 25 per cent. in service.

Two more trains an hour will be run on the Pelham Bay Park branch as far as Hunt's Point Road. There will be no immediate increase on this branch beyond this point, but additional trains and cars will be put into service as traffic may increase during the Summer.

In the Jerome Avenue branch, the interval has been reduced from four to three and one-half minutes and the number of cars in each train increased from six to eight. This means more frequent service and a 51 per cent. increase in seating capacity.

At Borough Hall station in Brooklyn, where the Seventh and Lexington Avenue subways converge, there will be a train on one line or the other every two and one-quarter minutes. This will be a 33 per cent. increase in the service Beyond Atlantic Avenue.

IRISH REPUBLICANS SEIZE ULSTER STRIP; BORDER WAR RAGES

Belfast Surrenders Fermanagh Salient and Southern Troops Take It Over.

FIRST CLASH OF MILITARY

Fighting on the Donegal-Tyrone Line Where 1,000 Sinn Feiners Are Concentrated.

LONDON REACHES DEADLOCK

Cabinet Decides Not to Force a Crisis After Premier's Conference With Irish Leaders.

BELFAST, May 30 (Associated Press).—Strong forces of the Irish Republican Army are now well within the six-county territory, and are consolidating the ground won. It became necessary for the special constables comprising the Ulster forces to withdraw from a considerable section known as the Belleek Salient in Fermanagh County, and this is now in possession of the Republicans.

The military are confining themselves to sending out observation parties, which remain for a brief time and then return to Enniskillen.

The Tyrone-Donegal border, in the vicinity of Lifford and Strabane, was the scene of sharp clashes between Ulster and Southern Irish forces today. The engagement began shortly after midnight and continued until some time after daylight, with armored cars and machine guns in action and snipers on house roofs constantly active.

The fighting opened at a place called Camels Hump, when strong forces of Republicans fired on Ulster specials at a bridge. The latter replied and sent out a call for assistance, but the Ulstermen were forced back to their own territory, without casualties. It is not known whether the attacking party suffered.

The Republican forces retreated in turn, taking up positions in houses in Lifford, from which they fired continuously, the specials replying from cover. Meanwhile a section of the Fifth Brigade quartered along the Londonderry Road was called upon and took over the garrison posts.

Ulster Military Under Fire.

The military forces were under fire for the first time since the border trouble started this afternoon when firing was begun from across the border at Pettigoe, County Donegal. The firing was returned. Two soldiers were wounded, but the number of Republican casualties is not known.

The specials have evacuated Magherameena Castle in the Belleek area, transferring their headquarters to Rough Island, Lough Erne. The castle was occupied only last Saturday. It was found untenable, owing to the difficulty of obtaining reinforcements when required.

Practically all the large residences in the Belleek and Pettigoe districts have now been commandeered and garrisoned by the Irish Republican Army.

Belleek is a little town famous for its pottery works. It is so peculiarly situated that the land route from it to Enniskillen passes through Free State territory, and the waterway through Lough Erne alone has been available for the specials, who have been using boats in keeping up communication. Owing to the difficulty of maintaining the position it was considered advisable to evacuate it.

Near Belleek is the military Camp Donegal, used by the Ulster Division during the great war, but now occupied by the Republicans, as distinct from the Free State forces.

The Omagh garrison was reinforced this afternoon by a large contingent of the Staffordshire Regiment, and soldiers also arrived at Castlederg, Tyrone County, three miles from the border.

Refugees are fleeing in large numbers from the infested area, leaving their worldly possessions behind.

Ulster Stirred by Incursion.

All thoughts are on the borderland, particularly Fermanagh. The evacuation of the Belleek salient comes as a blow to those who thought that none of the six-county soil would be surrendered.

Events at Pettigoe are also grave, as the military has been involved in the border fray for the first time. It is not so much the territorial loss as the plight of the refugees from the abandoned Fermanagh area that is causing most concern. Refugees are flocking to relatives thoughout Fermanagh, where every able-bodied citizens is either an A or B special, and the tide of wrath is surging.

A thousand Republicans are reported concentrated on the northwest Tyrone front, but this is not as serious as the Fermanagh situation, for the invasion of Derry is not anticipated.

The Northern Government's difficulties have been aggravated by today's demobilisation of the Irish Constabulary on a large scale. This will practically be completed tomorrow. In Lurgan, Lisburn and other country towns the specials are doing duty in relays day and night. It is impossible to go fifty yards without a challenge.

Ulster bears painful resemblance to a war zone and it is considered likely to do so increasingly in the near future. Despite the widespread trouble and unrest, however, Belfast had a day of unusual quietude, there being only A solitary case of wounding and no fires.

About 70 serious fires have taken place during the present outbreak of incendiarism. The damage is estimated at £500,000. This includes mansions burnt in the rural districts. The O'Neill family is claiming £61,800 for Shanes Castle alone.

Martin Wills, son of a leading Newry merchant, has been captured at Dundalk and is being held by Republicans.

Three Kilkeel, County Down, men who went by boat to Greenore, County Louth, also are being held by Republicans.

Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Co.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 30.—Some of Britain's finest art treasures are going abroad. On this subject a grave note was struck today by Sir Robert Witt, presiding at the annual meeting of the National Art Collection Fund, at Burlington House.

"It is my duty to warn the society," he said, "that at the present moment more than one great masterpiece is in imminent danger of leaving this country; more than one masterpiece which no country, however poor, can afford to lose. We are so impressed with the gravity of the position that we are prepared to support the Chancellor of the Exchequer in any method short of confiscation which will keep these masterpieces in this country."

ORDER STRIKE VOTE ON RAIL WAGE CUT

Maintenance of Way Executives Will Send Out Ballots at Once to 550,000.

WOULD WALK OUT ON JULY 5

Shopmen Threaten Strike if Pay Is Reduced or Old Rules Are Not Restored.

DETROIT, May 30 (Associated Press).—The Executive Council of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes and Railway Shop Laborers this afternoon unanimously adopted a resolution instructing H. F. Grable, the President, to send out strike ballots to all members of the organization and to all non-union workers in the crafts affected by the wage cut ordered by the Railroad Labor Board to go into effect on July 1.

President Grable said the ballots would be sent out immediately, and that if the workers decided to strike in protest against the reduction the walkout would be effective about July 5. He estimated that 478,000 members of the union and about 72,000 non-union workers would be asked to vote, virtually every railroad in the country, with the exception of short lines and electric roads, being affected.

Mr. Grable expressed the belief that other railroad brotherhoods also would conduct strike referendums within the near future, and declared that if the others voted to strike the maintenance of way men would join them, in the event the members of his organization favored such action.

The brotherhoods' financial condition is the best it ever has been, and sufficient funds are available to conduct a strike, the President said. He declined to state the amount the Brotherhood has in its treasury.

A strike on the part of the Brotherhood would, according to the President, affect all mechanics, maintenance of way men, including section hands and foremen, trackmen, bridge builders, painters, coal chute men, cinder pit men and carpenters on all principal roads.

Mr. Grable said he based his belief that other unions might take a strike vote on the attitude shown at the recent meeting in Chicago of representatives of the railway department of the American Federation of Labor, at which he said sentiment was favorable for a strike vote in the event of wage reductions.

In explaining the move of brotherhood officials, he said all believed the wage reductions were "unwarranted and unfair" at this time, and that the Labor Board's ruling would reduce wages of the workers on an average of 12.2 per cent., while living costs in the country over, he insisted, had not declined more than 3 per cent.

The resolution adopted by the Executive Council, which is composed of the officers of the union, specified the ballots should ask whether or not the workers were willing to accept the cut and declared if they were not "the union will use the full economic powers of the organization to resist the reduction of wages ordered by the Labor Board."

President Grable said he expected the returns would be in by July 1, explaining that in case of a strike vote he was empowered to call the men out.

SHOPCRAFTS THREATEN STRIKE ON TWO GROUNDS

Wage Cut or Refusal to Restore Old Working Rules Would Cause Referendum.

CHICAGO, May 30.—The Federated Railroad Shop Crafts through B. M. Jewell, President of the Railway Employes Department of the American Federation of Labor, today issued a strike ultimatum. They threaten a strike if their wages are reduced in the decision expected to be handed down by the Railroad Labor Board this week. They also threaten to walk out, irrespective of the wage question, if the board does not force the railroads to re-establish working conditions which the union contends were established by the board but have not been put into effect.

Mr. Jewell said a strike ballot would be sent out if, as expected, a further wage reduction is ordered. But he also asserted that the letting out of shop work by contract by many roads and the elimination of time and one-half for overtime were in violation of the Labor Board's orders, and he demanded that the board assume jurisdiction in all cases in which it is alleged the carriers are violating these orders and direct the roads to re-establish the conditions prevailing prior to the alleged violations, pending a definite settlement.

If the Labor Board does not do this or if the roads do not comply with its orders, the strike ballots will go out at once, regardless of the wage issue, Mr. Jewell added. That the shopmen would vote strongly for a walk-out is generally conceded, as they polled a very heavy strike vote about a year ago in protest against the 12 per cent. wage reduction

MANY REPUBLICANS TURN TO HARDING TO RESCUE PARTY

BUT THEY WANT ACTION

President, They Hold, Should Use Roosevelt Methods in Handling Congress.

THINK OUTLOOK IS BETTER

Leaders Expect to Pass Tariff Bill in July and Hope to Adjourn in August.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Republican Senators are encouraged over the outlook of the legislative program, and are now figuring on the passage of the Tariff bill in the first week of July. Democratic Senators, who are in a position to delay legislation, are of the opinion that the bill will be passed somewhat later, but possibly by the middle of July. Republican Senators say that what they allege to be a Democratic filibuster against the tariff measure has been abandoned. There seems to be a general idea that Congress will adjourn by the middle of August unless President Harding insists that the session shall be prolonged to dispose of other legislation.

The President is keenly interested in the Ship Subsidy bill drawn by the Shipping Board and heartily endorsed by the Administration. It is dearer to his heart than any other pending measure. He has been an advocate of a large American merchant marine ever since he has been in politics, more than thirty years. A score of years ago he made speeches in Ohio in favor of Government encouragement to shipping.

The Presidents plan is to have the Senate consider the Ship Subsidy bill while differences over the Tariff bill are being harmonized by a joint conference committee of the two houses, this being based on the intention to have the House pass the subsidy measure soon after it has been perfected by a joint Senate and House committee which is now redrafting it. Optimistic advocates of ship subsidy claim that the House will pass the measure by July 1. The general impression, however, is that the Senate will not pass the Subsidy bill at the current session unless President Harding insists that Congress shall sit until it is disposed of.

The more probable outcome is that the Senate, while it may give consideration to the measure at the present session, will defer action on it until the regular constitutional session, which will be opened in December. The House will have plenty of time on its hands soon, waiting for the Senate to act on the Tariff bill, and it is planned that, except for the period necessary to pass the Subsidy bill, the House shall meet only twice a week and then only to adjourn immediately without transacting any legislative business.

Political Aspect of the Program.

While these matters of legislative program and adjournment are chiefly interesting to the personnel of the Executive Government and the Senate and the House and to those whose stay in Washington is dependent upon the session of Congress, they have an important political aspect.

The entire membership of the House of Representatives and more than one-third of the membership of the Senate in the next Congress will be elected this year, and as there are indications of a spirited campaign, Senators and Representatives who are candidates for re-election or expect to be renominated are anxious to get to their constituencies as soon as possible.

Some Republican members of Congress profess to see an improvement in the chances of their party this year. They contend that there has been a lessening of the criticism that this is a do-nothing Congress, and that business interests particularly now are inclined to concede that the legislative branch of the Government has not been so dilatory in carrying out pledges made by the Republican Party in the campaign of 1920 as has been charged. Whether there is justification for this optimism remains to be seen. In spite of it, there is considerable worry over Republican prospects in the November elections.

Many political observers believe that unless a marked impetus is given to the transaction of executive business the people will hold the Republican Party responsible for failure to help the economic situation of the country. If the Tariff bill is enacted in August, less than three months will remain before the general elections—a short time for a trial of the new schedules.

The Democrats have already indicated that they intend to make their principal campaign on the tariff issue, with the major contention that the new tariff is an example of high protection gone mad. The Republicans are relying for popularity partly on a return of prosperity before Autumn, and are encouraged over a distinct improvement in business and an ending of unemployment.

Count on Business Revival.

Reports received by Government business agencies appear to show that there has been a sudden and almost unexplainable boom within the past month or two. Great industrial corporations are coming the country for workers, and, in spite of the apparent condition of unemployment, are having a hard time in obtaining them.

Unskilled workmen particularly are in demand, it is asserted, but are scarce, a condition which business men are inclined to attribute to the restrictive features of the new immigration law, which limits admissions of aliens from any country to a percentage of the number from that country who resided in the United States when the decennial census was taken in 1910. Figures for the 1920 population census had not been completely compiled when the law was enacted.

Automobile production has taken a tremendous spurt, and the demand is greater than the production. This has had the effect of stimulating industries on which manufacturers of automobiles are dependent for their material. The steel industry is making such strides that some of the steel-producing concerns have been obliged to inform customers that orders cannot be filled under five months.

In April, according to the latest Government reports, the number of motor cars manufactured in the United States was 218,454, against 172,096 in March, 122,007 in February and 90,842 in January. The January figures were somewhat below those of November and December, in which months, respectively, there were turned out 116,051 and 116,240 cars. The jump in production between January and April, however, has been tremendous, and, what is more, it is believed to be an improvement in general business conditions instead of a phase of the regular seasonal activity in the automobile industry in the Spring.

Republicans Encouraged.

In these circumstances the party in power finds cause for encouragement over the temper of the voters. At the same time its leaders realize that the criticism that the present Republican Congress is a do-nothing body is widespread and may find expression in adverse majorities in November.

The outcome of recent Republican Congressional primaries is also interpreted as significant. While a majority of those nominated in recent Republican Congressional primaries are members of the present House, there has been a considerable percentage of defeats for renomination, thus indicating dissatisfaction with the Congress by many who subscribe to the principles of the party in power.

There has been much talk in political circles here as to how the unpopularity of Congress may be overcome by the Republicans before the elections. It is believed by the rank and file of Republican politicians that President Harding is much more popular than his party, and that he is in a position to assert party leadership in a way to arouse the enthusiasm of the country. But the President has been reluctant to assume leadership in the manner most commonly suggested, namely, by demanding publicly that Congress speed up its work and enact measures which the Administration has endorsed.

The success of the President's course last year, when he went before the Senate and served notice that the pending soldier bonus bill must not be enacted at that time on account of the condition of the Treasury, is cited as an example of the power of leadership that the President will be able to assume if he cares to assert himself. His course on that occasion struck the popular fancy in spite of a general impression that the bonus legislation had the country behind it. For a time the President was not only the titular but the real leader of the Republican Party, and his leadership extended to the halls of Congress, where the recognized leaders were not able to control those supposed to constitute their following.

Anxious to Avoid "Usurpation."

President Harding, however, has an old-fashioned idea that the Executive must not take any steps likely to be construed as usurpation of the constitutional powers of Congress. As a Senator he was jealous of the rights of the legislative branch of the Government, and as President he is adhering to the principle to which he then subscribed. When he appeared before the Senate to serve warning with respect to the bonus bill, he acted strictly in accord with the constitutional right of the President to communicate his views to Congress. On other occasions he has followed the line of constitutional propriety.

There have been cases in which Mr. Harding has sent letters to Chairmen of Congressional committees giving his views on pending legislation and, to make them more effective, has given them to the press.

The most notable instance of this procedure was the letter of the President to Chairman Fordney of the House Committee on Ways and Means, in which he made known that he would not sanction the bonus bill the committee had prepared, which provided for the imposition of additional direct taxation to raise money to meet the heavy bonus payments provided for, and indicating that he was opposed to all taxation schemes for that purpose, except the sales tax. As a result of this letter the Committee on Ways and Means redrafted the bill so as to make no provision for raising money to pay the bonus charges authorized by it.

The letter-writing practice has not been construed as a form of Executive dictation and has failed, apparently, to grip the imagination of the country. Something more definite and pronounced on the President's part seems to be demanded, according to a widespread political opinion here—something with a Roosevelt an big-stick flavor designed and able to compel Congress to get on with its work and even to put a crimp in the popularity of those whose deterrent effect on legislation they seek to justify by claims to being independent and progressive. This idea is based on the supposition that the country wants legislative action.

Many political observers believe the time has arrived when the President should assert himself, even though by so doing he would appear to abandon his principle that there must be no action on his part savoring of Executive usurpation of legislative right or attempt to dictate to Congress.

There have been reports that the President has been bringing pressure to bear on Congressional leaders with reference to comparatively minor matters of party interest, but no charges that he has exercised his power to compel either action or non-action on important matters before Congress.

More Difficult to Influence Congress.

It is more difficult than it has been in past years for the Executive to influence Congress by behind-the-scenes methods. Just as there appears to be only a nominal Republican leadership in the Senate and the House, so Congress is less amenable to methods of this character. For one thing, there is less patronage than ever before and less demand for public office by party workers.

This has left the average member of Congress freer to take his own course with reference to the White House, and most of the Representatives are inclined to take it by doing the things which will please the people in their districts in each case, instead of pleasing the President or that collective personality known as "the party."

In these circumstances a considerable number of politicians believe that the President's ability to bring Congress to carry out his policies lies in asserting his individuality before the people. One contention is that the people are anxious to have a political hero and that nobody is in better position to satisfy their longing than the President of the United States with the great attention that his words and deeds would attract. In addition to this, the critical attitude toward Congress attributed to the country would emphasize the popularity of any move designed to make that body do its work.

The President, it is being said, has the choice to take such a course without violating in any degree his feeling that he must not trespass upon the prerogatives of the legislature. He has the right under the Constitution to communicate his views to Congress, either in writing or in person. He has adopted the practice revived by President Wilson of communicating his views to the Senate and the House orally instead of through the medium of written messages, and on every occasion of his appearance before the two houses his words have attracted widespread attention and have left a profound impression upon Senators and Representatives.

Nothing has appeared to show definitely that the President is being impressed by his political advisers with the advisability of asserting his leadership in matters of legislation. At the same time expectation seems to exist that he will determine soon, if he has not already determined, whether he shall seek to overcome the critical attitude of the country toward the Congress, which supposedly reacts against the Republican Party and the Washington Administration.

BRITAIN TO GRANT IRELAND MORE TIME

Cabinet Fails to Decide on Main Issues, but Will Avoid Forcing Crisis.

RUMORS OF BRITISH RIFT

Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 30.—Winston Churchill will make a statement tomorrow morning in the House of Commons on the Irish situation and the attitude of the British Government toward it, and until then the result of the negotiations proceeding between the Cabinet and representatives of the Irish Free State is kept a guarded secret. It is being watched with intense interest, for all expectations have been contradicted today by failure of the Irish delegates to meet the British Cabinet. It has been understood that such a conference would be a preliminary to Churchill's statement and would, it was hoped, settle doubts which British law officers are said to hold concerning the possibility of reconciling the Collins-de Valera agreement with the treaty.

The Daily Chronicle's political correspondent writes:

"The result of the conversations between the Government and the Irish representatives in London is a deadlock. The Government stands by the treaty and the Free State leaders claim they are not violating the treaty by the coalition pact. It is expected Churchill in his statement to the House of Commons will describe the position as grave, but will not have any decision to announce because there has not been any decisions on the general issues. The Government considers it would be undesirable to be hasty or to precipitate a crisis. They will still exercise patience and may discuss again with the Irish leaders the eventual possibilities. But there is a crisis, and it may be precipitated when the general elections are held in Ireland. These elections would seem under the coalition pact to be involved."

Griffith and Collins saw Lloyd George today. They arrived at Downing Street soon after 10 o'clock and remained with him for an hour and a half. As they walked away they passed the British Ministers arriving for the Cabinet council, notably Churchill. They greeted the latter, but it was remarked that the salute was of the most casual order. From the reply Collins made to a question as to whether arrangements had been made for the next meeting, "No, not yet, but they will be made during the day," it appears that the Irish delegates realized there was still a good deal to clear up.

But the meeting is not to be held. The British Cabinet sat for two hours, and when it was over it was learned that there would be no further conferences with the Irish until after Churchill's statement tomorrow. No explanation is forthcoming. Rumors of a serious divergence of opinion in the British ranks persist, but official spokesmen profess to consider them unworthy of belief. The Prime Minister, they point out, hopes to leave Downing Street for Criccieth-on-the-Whitsun holiday on Thursday and will there occupy himself in such peaceful pursuits as opening a new golf course and laying a foundation stone. But when they are asked to be more explicit as to the course of the negotiations or the day for the next meeting the Irish representatives they declare there is nothing more to say.

In the House this afternoon Churchill was cross-examined on a number of controversial points and he promised to include some of them in his speech. Thus he will explain why there are any British troops still left in Dublin and steps that are being taken to help the ex-soldiers leave Ireland if they wish. He made one interesting admission that since the Collins-de Valera compact had been concluded the supply of munitions to the Free State Government had been suspended.

LONDON, May 30 (Associated Press).—British troops are being kept in Dublin, not at the request of the Irish Provisional Government, but because the process of evacuation has been temporarily suspended, Winston Churchill, Secretary for the Colonies, stated in the House of Commons this afternoon.

The British Government, Mr. Churchill stated, had suspended the delivery of all supplies of munitions to the Provisional Government since the date of the agreement reached between Michael Collins and Eamon de Valera.

Mr. Churchill was vigorously heckled by the Ulsterites and "Die-Hards" on what one heckler said was the "confessed failure and refusal of the Government to use British troops to defend Ulster."

Asked if he were aware that several munitions factories in Ireland were working full blast, the Colonial Secretary said that if the Provisional Government was working munitions factories in Dublin it was within its rights, but he agreed that the manufacture of munitions on a great scale was a matter which the British Government would have to consider seriously.

"We are obviously approaching one of the recurrent crises in the Irish situation," he continued. He said he would deal in his speech tomorrow with the new Parliament summoned for July 1, to which the Provisional Government would be responsible, adding that the only authority which could give validity to the election for that Parliament was the authority of the Crown as signified through the Lord Lieutenant.

Mr. Churchill said the military authorities no longer believe that the three British officers and a private who were captured at Macroom several weeks ago are alive, and their relatives had been so informed.

A more optimistic feeling prevailed in official circles late in the afternoon, despite the Ulster reports, and, serious though the situation is, the difficulties of the negotiations are expected to be surmounted.

In the House of Lords Lord Birkenhead quieted discussion on Lord Salisbury's Irish motion by explaining that a full and candid explanation of the Government view of the situation would be presented. Lord Salisbury expressed willingness to postpone his motion on this basis, but declared that the situation was so critical it seemed important that the position of many members should be set forth without delay, as it followed that attacks by the Republican organization upon Ulster could not be tolerated and that the treaty ought to be maintained in letter and spirit on both sides.

It was not necessary to say that the status of a republic, either actual or virtual, in any part of Ireland must be absolutely resisted. If the Government felt that it was its duty to advise his Majesty to take measures necessary to vindicate these principles, the House of Lords, for whom he spoke, would give the Government its fullest support.

From Dublin it is reported that the prolongation of the London conference has given rise to the general hope of the success of the negotiations, and Mr. Churchill's statement is eagerly awaited. In the meantime increased political activity for the forthcoming elections is evident. Business and professional men, having formed an Election Committee, plan to enter candidates in professional and commercial interests, but the organization is described as non-partisan.

With labor, farmers, ratepayers and professional and commercial candidates in the field it is believed that the election will prove more interesting than at first expected. Miss Mary MacSwiney and Lord Mayor O'Callaghan were selected as the Republican candidates for the Parliamentary Borough at the Republican Convention at Cork, and Count Plunkett was nominated at a similar convention at Carrick-on-Shannon for the joint constituencies of North Roscommon and County Leitrim.

CRUSHED TO DEATH BY WHIPPET TANKS

WOMAN DIES UNDER AUTO

Children in Procession Bolt When They See Elevated Train Run Over Two Veterans.

Observance of Memorial Day in this city yesterday was marred by the death of a soldier who was crushed between two whippet tanks after the G. A. R. parade up Riverside Drive, and by a near-panic in a procession of several hundred children in Second Avenue who saw two men run over by an elevated train. The cries of the two men and the sight of their bodies between the ties frightened the children and they bolted, but the police were able to calm them.

The veteran killed was Julian Stahlschmidt, 21 years old, a bank clerk, of 138 West 129th Street, who had been a member of the Tank Company of the 27th Division for three years. He was caught between his tank and another while he was trying to stop the motor of one of the whippets which had been started accidentally.

He was operating one of six tanks put in the G. A. R. parade as part of the Twenty-seventh Division contingent, and had finished the march up Riverside Drive. After the parade had disbanded, at Ninety-second Street, the tanks started east through that thoroughfare, on their way to take part in the parade attending the unveiling of the Washington Heights Memorial. Low speed in the parade had heated up the motors, and they halted at Ninety-second Street and Amsterdam Avenue for a short cooling-off process.

Tried to Shut Off Power.

Stahlschmidt's tank was in the middle of a file of three tanks, when, in some manner yet unexplained, the motor started. Stahlschmidt jumped up to try to shut off the switch, but slipped and fell to the pavement. Before he could get out of the way he was crushed between the two tractors. His companions quickly backed up the tractor and extricated the body. Dr. Jenkin of the Knickerbocker Hospital said that death had been instantaneous. The body was taken to the West 100th Street Police Station, where relatives took charge of it.

Hundreds of persons homeward bound from the Riverside Drive parade crowded around the tanks after the accident, and the members of the Tank Company carried the body quickly to the St. Agnes Protestant Episcopal Church, so that it would be out of the view of the curious. The cadets were drilling in the gymnasium there under their leader, Edward Tower, and they lined up while taps was sounded by their bugler, Frederick Williamson of 214 Riverside Drive. The police and the officers of the regiment started an investigation of the accident. The unit is in command of Major D. C. Mansfield and Captain Oliver Bell, who will prepare an official report for the National Guard headquarters. One report being investigated is that the motor was started by a meddling bystander.

Veterans Fell From Platform.

The commotion in the children's procession in Second Avenue occurred when two men, who were scuffling, fell off the platform of the Seventy-second Street station and were caught under the wheels of a train. One of the men was a war veteran, Michael Cube, 40 years old, of 29 Woodside Avenue, Woodside, who was on his way home after taking part in the G. A. R. parade up Riverside Drive. He was accompanied by George Roch, 47 years old, of 32 Meta Avenue, Winfield. They started a good-natured scuffle on the platform just as the train was pulling into the station. Roch fell off the platform, and Cube, seeing the incoming train, leaped down to try to save his companion. The forward truck of the train caught both of them.

The children underneath the structure heard the cries of the men, the grinding of the brakes, and on looking up at the structure could see the men under the car. They broke ranks and ran. Fearing that a serious panic would develop, Captain J. H. Wall of the East Sixty-second Street Station immediately sent in a call for reserves, and thirty-five policemen rushed to the danger point to calm the children. Captain Wall was waiting there to assist in the parade arrangements for the Thomas Farley Association. No injuries among the children were reported.

During the work of extracting the bodies of the men it was necessary to cut off the electric power for several minutes from Fifty-ninth Street to 130th Street, as well as upon the Second Avenue elevated line crossing the Queensboro Bridge to Queens Plaza. Both men were taken to the City Hospital on Blackwell's Island, where it was said that their condition was critical.

In another peculiar accident attending Memorial Day ceremonies, Thomas Curry, 66 years old, captain of a grain barge in Hoboken, was injured while he was watching the Memorial Day parade there. In the parade was a float representing a ship, and at intervals rubber balls were fired out of a small gun. Rowdies were scrambling for the balls and they knocked Curry down and trampled upon him. At St. Mary's Hospital it was said that he might lose the sight of an eye.

Mrs. Anaca Concetta, 68 years old, of 306 East 112th Street, was run down and killed in Long Island City while she was on her way home after placing a wreath on the grave of her daughter's husband in the Calvary Cemetery. She was knocked down while she was crossing Queens Boulevard at Rawson Street, just after leaving the cemetery. Charles Farmer of 161 Radde Street, Long Island City, was held in $5,000 bail on a technical charge of homicide.

HELIUM AIRSHIP COMING.

Major Gardiner Says It Will Be Flown From Germany in 10 Months.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, May 30.—The first helium-filled airship to cross the Atlantic will be flown from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to the United States within ten months, according to Major L. D. Gardiner, publisher of Aviation, who is here attending the flying meet at Logan Field.

"The big rigid airship is being built for the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics," said Major Gardiner, "and Rear Admiral W. A. Moffat, Chief of the Bureau, has assigned several officers to watch its construction.

"Approximately 5,000,000 cubic feet of helium, the non-explosive gas, will be sent to Germany. This will be used for all flights of the big airship before and during the long hop from Friedrichshafen to the world's largest hangar, which is ready at Lakehurst, N. J.

"The ship has a capacity of 27,000 cubic meters. It will be able to carry 100 passengers. On its arrival in this country Admiral Moffat plans to keep it cruising over the larger cities, and one of the first objectives will be Baltimore."

Major Gardiner said he believed the dirigible to be the most practical carrier in air transportation of both freight and passengers. He emphasized the fact that helium, which is a by-product of natural gas, is absolutely non-explosive, therefore obviating some former dangers.

Major Gardiner explained that the helium extracted from natural gas at the Government plant at Forth Worth, Texas, would first be put into tanks and then into cylinders in which it would be shipped to Germany.

TWELVE BALLOONS IN RACE TODAY

Navy's Two Helium-Inflated Bags Feature of National Contest at Milwaukee.

MAY BAR SPECTATORS

Gas Company Filling the Racers Takes Precautions Against Accidents.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 30 (Associated Press).—Twelve big bags, contestants for honors in the national balloon race starting from here tomorrow afternoon, were filled tonight with thousands of cubic feet of gas and otherwise made ready for their flight, the destination of which depends entirely upon the whim of the wind. Indications were that the direction of the wind would be basically from the west, with the prospects that the balloons would be carried toward the northeast.

Attracting the greatest interest among hundreds of spectators were the two bags to represent the United States Navy. These will not be eligible for place honors because they are inflated with helium. This non-inflammable material has a greater lifting power than gas and will be used for the first time tomorrow in a free balloon race. In addition, one of the balloons will carry a secret radio outfit recently developed. Three army balloons also are in the race.

Whether or not the balloons will ascend unwitnessed by the public was undecided tonight.

The Milwaukee Gas Company announced last night that no spectators could be present, attorneys for the company deciding that it would be held responsible for any accidents from an explosion. Tonight, however, it was thought that spectators might be admitted at 8 P. M., when the company turns off its mains, half an hour before the first ascension.

The first balloon to go on will be that of Roy Donaldson of Springfield, Ill., and the others will follow in at short intervals. Donaldson's balloon is the smallest in the race, being of only 50,000 feet capacity.

Other entrants will ascend as follows:

Major Oscar Westover, Washington; balloon capacity, 80,000 cubic feet.
Ralph Upson, Detroit; 85,000 cubic feet.
Captain John Berry, St. Louis; 78,000 cubic feet.
Lieut. Commander J. P. Northcott, Lakehurst, N. J.; 75,800 cubic feet.
Lieutenant W. Freed, Pensacola, Fla.; 80,000 cubic feet.
J. C. McKibbon, St. Louis; 77,300 cubic feet.
Warren Rasor, Brookville, Ohio; 80,000 cubic feet.
Lieutenant James T. Neely, Ross Field, Cal.; 80,160 cubic feet.
Captain Harold Weeks, Langley Field, Va.; 80,000 cubic feet.
Bernard von Hoffman, St. Louis; 86,000 cubic feet.
Ward T. Van Norman, Akron, Ohio; 77,600 cubic feet.
H. E. Honeywell, St. Louis; 78,500 cubic feet.

FRENCH OFFICIAL ARRESTED.

Ducousso Confesses That He Defrauded His Government at Mayence.

PETERS KILLED SOON AFTER GETTING HERE

urday night and "kill somebody," but the authorities say there is no information to connect the two.

"Going to Hang Around New York."

The significance of Peters's arrival here within 12 hours of the shooting lies in the almost certain proof it gives that Ward and Peters were known to each other before Peters left his home at Haverhill, Mass., on April 25 last. If this is true, it would indicate that whatever the hold Peters had upon Ward, he gained possession of Ward's secret a comparatively long time ago.

Peters was arrested in Haverhill on April 26 and was taken to Milford, N. H., on suspicion that he was implicated in a series of robberies there. After his release the same day, he went to Boston, where he enlisted in the marines and was sent to Paris Island.

According to information received by the Westchester authorities from Paris Island, and which they are now checking up, Peters made a bad impression upon the marines at the recruiting station there while he was waiting to see whether his application for enlistment would be approved. He was regarded as a boaster and "lightweight," because of his bragging about the money and automobile rides he could have if he were home.

After his application for enlistment was rejected because of his bad conduct discharge from the navy at the Charlestown Navy Yard in Boston in 1919, he is quoted as having told some of the marines at Paris Island that he was going to "hang around New York" for a time before going to his home in Haverhill. He told them he had friends who would take care of him in New York.

Peters Known as "Boston."

One of the men at Paris Island while Peters was there was Harry Schneiderman of New York. Harry, who is 18, had some trouble with his father and ran away from home to enlist in the marines. After his application was in he changed his mind and asked for his discharge. While waiting for his release he met Peters and talked with him several times.

Schneiderman was not in when reporters called at his home at 1,110 Simpson Street, the Bronx, but his sister, Mrs. L. Friedman, said Harry had told her the story. She said that Harry enlisted in New York on April 24 and was sent to the receiving station at Yemassee, where recruits for Paris Island are received.

Peters came through the station from Boston and was called "Boston" by the other men. He did not tell why he had enlisted. But he did boast about himself and the easy money he could get.

One day Schneiderman showed Peters a money order for $80 he had received from his sister in New York to help him get back home.

"How would you like to have a little bit of money like this?" Schneiderman asked.

"Oh, I don't have to beg like you fellows," Peters replied. "I always can get plenty of money."

Goes to Ward's Attorneys.

Mrs. Friedman said her brother left Paris Island on May 11 and arrived in New York on May 15. He did not give Peters another thought until he read about the Ward case in the newspapers. Then he went to Ward's lawyers and gave them the information he had about Peters. They took his name and address and said they might call upon him for assistance in the future.

When Schneiderman left Paris Island, he said, Peters was still there. Direct advices from the marine barracks say that Peters was rejected on May 12, and that he left for New York on the morning of May 14, reaching here at 4:20 o'clock on the afternoon of May 15.

Private detectives said to represent Ward have been investigating Peters's movements at Paris Island. It is understood that they have learned that Peters boasted of being able to get money merely by asking for it. If this is so, it would fit in with the theory that Ward actually was the victim of blackmailers for six weeks. When this was mentioned to the Westchester authorities they said they would try to find out if any telegrams passed between Ward and Peters during the Paris Island period.

The Westchester authorities are still seeking for information that will enable them to disprove Ward's story of the time and place of the shooting. They do not believe that he killed Peters at 4 A. M. at the place where the body was found, but so far they have been unable to get any information to show that the killing occurred at any other time or place.

In view of the failure to develop any more information, Coroner Edward F. Fitzgerald continues to say that he will delay holding an inquest for the time being. He says he wants to give the prosecutor as much time as he can, so any evidence on which the defendant may be held for the Grand Jury. Unless some information of this sort is produced within the next few days, it was said in White Plains yesterday, Ward's attorneys are expected to move to have the $50,000 bail, under which he is held, reduced or withdrawn.

Doubt Cast on Ross Theory.

The failure to produce "Charley Ross" and "Jack" yesterday just about convinced the Westchester authorities that no such persons existed in the Ward case. The officials suspected this before, but apparently were misled by statements of attorneys and private detectives that the two missing blackmailers would be brought to White Plains to clear up the mystery.

Yesterday was the third day that has passed since William J. Fallon, the New York criminal lawyer representing the Peters family of Haverhill, Mass., promised District Attorney Weeks that he would produce Charley Ross. In the meantime, lawyers and detectives and the blackmailers, if they exist, apparently have been playing a game of hide and seek over New York and New England.

Fallon first said that the extortionists would be produced at White Plains, then at his office in New York and finally at Boston. Harry Conners, an operative of the Val O'Farrell Detective Agency, was hurried to Boston early yesterday to keep an appointment with Ross and Jack in Young's Hotel, Boston, yesterday morning. As far as could be learned, however, neither the detectives nor the men he was supposed to be looking for went near Young's Hotel.

"Fishing in a Bathtub."

It was announced at O'Farrell's office that Conners had telephoned from Boston that he had failed to find the blackmailers and was on his way to Salem, Mass., in the hope of getting information that would put him on the trail. Michael L. Sullivan, the Salem lawyer who retained Fallon in the case, said he had not seen anything of the detective in Salem, and would like to know if and why any such visit had been made. Latest reports were that Conners was to return to New York empty-handed.

Val O'Farrell himself said he had heard nothing from Conners, and was inclined to believe that searching for Charley Ross and Jack was "like fishing in a bathtub." Asked if he meant that the fishermen wouldn't catch any fish because there weren't any fish there to catch, he said he thought that was about the size of it. The detective then intimated that if such characters as Charley Ross and Jack exist, he does not think they had anything to do with the Ward case or were present at the shooting of Peters, as Ward alleges.

Fallon did not go to Boston or Salem, and Sullivan said he had not heard from the New York lawyer. According to Sullivan, Ross and Jack are not in Massachusetts, and the New York detectives hitherto believed.

Officials Give Up Hope.

District Attorney Weeks and Sheriff Werner waited patiently at White Plains throughout the day to hear from Fallon that Charley Ross and his companion had been located. They hinted that they had given up any hope they previously had entertained that Fallon would be able to make good on his promise. Mr. Weeks said he had heard nothing at all from Fallon since last Saturday evening, just after Ward was released from the county jail on $50,000 bail. It was then that Fallon and Salem lawyers called on Weeks and had a conference lasting two hours. At the end of that conference Fallon told reporters he was going to New York to get Charley Ross and expected to bring him to White Plains in a few hours. Weeks announced at that time that Mr. Fallon had given him valuable information.

Despite the failure of the Charley Ross inquiry, District Attorney Weeks expressed confidence last night that the mystery would be explained within a few days. He said that with so many lawyers, private detectives and newspaper men working on the case he thought that the solution ought to be found pretty soon.

The Westchester authorities appear to be sitting back and letting the newspapers and the attorneys and detectives on both sides look to get the answer of the puzzle for them. Mr. Weeks spent the day in his garden yesterday planting lima beans, while Sheriff Werner busied himself with overhauling his automobile.

Tells of Ward's Movements.

Although the Westchester officials have admitted their inability to get any information about Ward's movements preceding the shooting, reporters at New Rochelle yesterday were able to account for Ward's time on May 15 up to 6 o'clock in the evening. This was ten hours before Ward says he shot Peters at an isolated spot on a lonely road near the Kensico Reservoir. It was also, two hours after the time Peters is said to have arrived in New York from Paris Island.

Palmer P. Tubbs was the source of the information as to Ward's movements on May 15. Mr. Tubbs is assistant to Ward in the purchasing department of the Ward Baking Company in the Bronx and is a member of the New Rochelle Police Commission, from which Ward resigned after admitting that he killed Peters.

During the war Tubbs was a Lieutenant Commander in the navy, stationed at Pelham Bay. He was an instructor in the United States Naval Auxiliary School. After the armistice he went into the merchant marine, but left it to settle in New Rochelle. Becoming a member of the Police Commission, in January, 1920, he met Ward, and later was employed by the baking man. He lives at 7 Locust Avenue, New Rochelle, with his wife and children.

"On Monday, May 15, the day before the shooting," said Tubbs, "Walter Ward took me home from the office in his automobile. We had been at the office during the day. We reached New Rochelle about 6 o'clock. He let me out of the car at the corner of Locust Avenue and Main Street, near my home. I never saw him in better spirits. I did not see or hear from him again that night.

Fails to Appear at Office.

"On Tuesday morning, May 16, the morning Peters's body was found at 8 o'clock, Ward did not come to the office. About 11 o'clock I received a telephone call from the maid at the Ward home, who said that Ward was not coming in, but that he wanted me to find out what time the Majestic was expected to dock as he wanted to meet his father, who was returning from abroad.

"I got the information and telephoned that the ship would dock about 3 o'clock. The maid took the message. About 2 o'clock that afternoon, Ward walked into the office and went to his desk for a minute. He said, 'Hello, Tubbsie, is everything all right?' I said it was, and he remarked that he was going to meet Beryl and Laura, meaning his wife and mother-in-law. Then he went out.

"I saw little of him for the next few days. He came in occasionally, stopped for a few minutes, barely spoke to me, and then went out.

"On Monday, May 22, the day he gave himself up, he came into the office about 11 o'clock, asked me if everything was all right, and left. An hour later the newspapers were delivered at the office and one of the men came over to me and said, 'My God, Tubbs, have you heard the news?' I told him I had heard nothing. He said, 'Why, W. S. has confessed to killing a man. He's out on $10,000 bail.'

Tubbs Says He's Mystified.

"I have never been in Ward's house except on three occasions. Once I went there with city officials when we were framing a charter revision to cover the Police Pension Fund. The second time I went was when Ward was sick. That was to have some police vouchers signed. The third time was the night of the day that the confession was reported. I went to him, took him by the hand, and said: 'Walter, I'm sorry.' He simply said: 'Thank you.' I went right out and we never have spoken of the affair since.

"I am as much mystified as any one."

Tubbs denied a report that Ward telephoned to him at 8 o'clock on the morning of May 16, an hour after the shooting. It was noticed that Tubbs did not say that he talked with Ward himself over the telephone at 11 o'clock on the morning of May 16, but with a maid. In this connection it was recalled that Custom House officials reported the other day that Ward called at the office of the Collector of the Port at 10 A. M. on May 16, asking for a pass to meet the Majestic. He was refused at first because a pass to meet George S. Ward had already been issued to R. E. Baker of the Baker-Perkins Machinery Company of New Rochelle. Ward finally got a pass for himself and another person, whose identity he did not reveal. He did not see Collector of the Port George Aldrich, although Aldrich is a friend of the Ward family.

DIAZ REVOLT FAILS TO IMPRESS MEXICO

His Movement Regarded as One of Many Disconnected Efforts to Renew Civil War.

OBREGON SHOWS STRENGTH

Rebel Leaders Active Along the Rio Grande in the Big Bend District —Nuevo Laredo Placarded.

MEXICO CITY, May 30 (Associated Press).—Press dispatches from the United States indicate that the rebellious activities of Felix Diaz are considered more seriously there than in Mexico. The War Office reports show that the incipient revolutionary movements in Mexico have been effectively stopped by Federal troops.

So far as is known here the rebel situation has not materially changed within the last month except for scattered flurries which are described by military observers as evident attempts to embarrass the Administration during the absence in New York of Secretary of the Treasury de la Huerta.

A survey of the situation indicates that virtually every State in the Republic harbors rebel bands ranging from four or five to several hundred, but there is no unity of purpose or command and none of them at present can be said to offer serious threats to the central Government. Until these scattered troops are consolidated there is reason to believe that President Obregon is justified in his optimistic declarations that the uprisings are not political and not important.

Of the numerous alleged revolutionaries in the United States, Diaz is the most widely proclaimed here, and his adherents are said to be most numerous in the Vera Cruz isthmus territory and in Oaxaca.

Gonzales and Cantu are especially strong in the north, but there have been no official statements to support the border rumors that these former Mexican Generals contemplate aggressive action. It is generally understood that the rebels operating between Saltillo and San Luis Potosi intended to make a demonstration against Secretary de la Huerta's train as it passed northward last week, but the Secretary changed his route at Queretaro and entered the United States through El Paso without incident.

Disquieting reports have been received during the past few days from Yucatan, where radicals and conservatives are indulging in more than usual hostilities, but these disturbances are not aimed at the central Government.

Secretary of War Serrano at present is engaged in an inspection trip throughout the entire southern part of the republic, following his reported pacification of Tabasco. The revolutionary threats emanating from that region are not taken seriously here in Government circles, where it is claimed that the rebel history of Mexico shows that all important movements have originated in the northern or central States.

It is claimed here that no popular leader yet having appeared under one banner in revolution, President Obregon's power may safely be said to be in the ascendancy. Proof of this is stated to be Obregon's ability to stifle every rebel movement of moment within a few days of its inception.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 30.—Within the last few days four Mexican refugee generals are reported to have left San Antonio, and agencies watching the threatened trouble along the Mexican border say they are inclined to believe that the departure may have some bearing on that situation.

EL PASO, Texas, May 30 (Associated Press).—Colonel Luis Maitos, who in news dispatches from San Antonio is reported to be under arms in a revolt against the Mexican Government, is aided by General Lucio Blanco and General Alfredo Ricau, according to Federal agents in El Paso, who are keeping in close touch with affairs in Mexico.

The two generals, according to reliable information received here, recently organized on the Texas side, near Brownsville, a small filibustering force. The force was to have crossed the line Sunday to meet a force of Federals, the commander of which was to have joined the rebels, it is said, Mexican officials, however, discovered the plot and blocked it.

Meanwhile General Juan Flores, at the head of a small band, caused Federal garrisons trouble in Coahuila, the reports say. They also add that General Flores is still active and that Federals are hunting for him and his band.

The new revolutionary movement appears to be confined almost entirely to the country around the Big Bend of the Rio Grande on the Texas and Mexican sides, the reports indicate.

Nuevo Laredo's population is alarmed, the place being "almost plastered" with Felix Diaz manifestos declaring that "Obregon and his constitution" are to go, one report reads.

General Eugenio Martinez's visit of last week to Juarez, when several parades through the streets were held, is said to have been to strengthen the morale of the Federal troops in this section. General Martinez commands Mexican troops in Chihuahua and General J. J. Mendez commands the Juarez garrison. General Mendez announced new colors are to be given to his regiment within the next few days.

Two-thirds of the Juarez garrison, about 200 men, paraded through the streets with newly polished mausers, said also to be for the moral effect on anyone with revolutionary tendencies.

WILL PROTEST TO HOOVER.

Retail Coal Dealers Hear Operators Agreed on $3 a Ton.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Asserting that coal producers who were here in preparation for a conference with Secretary Hoover tomorrow on coal prices held a preliminary meeting today and agreed on a price program calling for a minimum of $3 a ton at the mines, representatives of retail dealers' associations prepared tonight to file protests with the Department of Commerce head against official approval being given to any such figures.

The conference has been called for a discussion with bituminous coal operators with a view to preventing an advance in prices during the strike.

HUERTA AND PARTY HERE FROM MEXICO

Treasury Secretary to Enter Conferences Soon on the Debt and Oil Differences.

LAMONT ARRIVES ON LINER

Payment of Interest on Bond Issues Is Expected—Rubio Belittles Diaz Uprising.

Adolfo de la Huerta, Secretary of the Treasury of Mexico, and his party arrived in New York at 9:30 A. M. from Mexico by way of Chicago yesterday, and went to the Hotel Pennsylvania. Thomas W. Lamont, representing the International Bankers Committee, arrived last evening on the Olympic, and conferences on Mexico's debt and other questions will begin soon.

In financial circles it was said yesterday that the termination of the negotiations about to begin between de la Huerta and the American bankers would have vital bearing on the future of Mexico. Mr. Lamont will be host at a dinner to the conferees on Friday evening.

Mr. de la Huerta felt well enough yesterday afternoon to take a motor ride with Mrs. de la Huerta and his children, Adolfo and Arturo. He will begin conferences today with Mexican conferees.

It has been reported that Mr. de la Huerta's visit probably foreshadows the early payment of interest on Mexico's bond issues, which have been in default since 1914. The payment of $6,000,000 by American oil producers to the Mexican Government for oil taxes on an adjusted basis within the last month has made such payment possible.

Mr. de la Huerta will remain in New York for some time, and, it is believed, will attempt an adjustment of certain differences with the American petroleum interests which were not solved during the recent visits of American oil men to Mexico.

The presence of Leon Salinas, Chairman of the Executive Board of the National Railways of Mexico, indicates that he will attempt to arrive at an agreement which will possibly open the way to the relinquishment of the railway lines by the Government to their original owners. Mr. Salinas will confer soon with the railway shareholders.

Accompanying Mr. de la Huerta are Mr. and Mrs. Martin L. Guzman and secretaries, Julleta Trovar, Luis Gayon and Olallo Rubio. Mr. Rubio scouted the possibility of an overthrow of the Obregon regime when asked about the report of an uprising led by Felix Diaz.

Mexico needs real leaders," he said. Diaz couldn't lead a bunch of chickens. All he has is a name. He is a nephew of Porfirio Diaz, but he is powerless. There is no cause for alarm."

In the party arriving with Mr. Lamont, who went abroad early in April, were Edward R. Peacock, Director of the Bank of England; J. Chevalier of the Bank of Paris and Eugene W. R. Masson of the Credit Lyonnaise. Mr. Lamont said that while on the other side he had conferred with bankers regarding Mexican finances.

TO CHANGE "LITTLE GIANT."

Will Become Local Division of Central Lines, Report Says.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, May 30.—The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad, known as the Little Giant, is soon to lose its identity, according to a report current in downtown Pittsburgh Monday and which is declared to be well authenticated. It is to become known, it is said, as the Pittsburgh Division of the New York Central Lines, with J. B. Yohe, now Vice President of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, continuing in that capacity in full charge of this territory.

This move is said to be in line with the plan of the New York Central to make all New York Central subsidiaries local divisions of that corporation. This would include the properties now known as the Lake Shore & Michigan Central, "Big Four," Toledo & Ohio Central, Zanesville & Western, Kenawha & Michigan and Indiana Harbor Belt Line.

An important change in the Pittsburgh Division of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie will be, it is said, the annexing of what is now known as the Franklin Division of the New York Central, extending from Youngstown, where the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie now terminates, to Ashtabula, Ohio.

A. H. Smith, President of the New York Central, is expected to make an announcement within the next month as to just what will be done. The New York Central owns 51 per cent. of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie stock. Five per cent. of it is held by Colonel J. M. Schoonmaker, now Chairman of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, and other Pittsburgh interests. The Vanderbilt family owns the remainder.

To make the change reported to be under contemplation, the New York Central, it is said, must buy out the other holders of the stock, including what is held in Pittsburgh.

Clothing Workers Make Compact With Baltimore Firm for Year.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, May 30.—An agreement between the joint board of Baltimore Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and Schloss Bros. & Co. of Baltimore, binding on both parties for one year and providing among other things that there shall be no strike or lockout within that time, has been signed by Howard Schloss and Samuel Rudow of the clothing workers.

The agreement stipulates that the workers in the Schloss shops will accept a 10 per cent. cut, effective immediately; that a working week is to consist of forty-four hours with as little overtime as possible, such overtime to be paid for at time and one-half the regular pay, and that requests for changes in wages or working conditions may be made by either party when conditions in the industry change so as to warrant them.

CROWDED FLOAT SINKS, HAD 25 ABOARD

Panic Among Men, Women and Children, Who Are Plunged Into the Delaware River.

RESCUES MADE QUICKLY

One Man Dives From Pier and Saves Two Children — Many Fell Into Shallow Water.

BURLINGTON, N. J., May 30.—Panic was caused this afternoon at Park Island, in the Delaware, when twenty-five men, women and children fell into the river as a float on which they were sank. Shrieks came from 200 excursionists on a pier. About 10,000 persons at the island became more or less excited. The water where the accident occurred was shallow, and all who fell overboard were rescued with little difficulty.

Late in the afternoon about two hundred persons started to take a launch back to Bristol, Pa., where most of them lived.

The float held about twenty-five persons. It was crowded as the launch came in. Something gave way on the float to cause it to sink, but no one seemed to know what the cause was.

James O'Donnell of Bristol dived from the pier and rescued two children who had become separated from their parents. Other men in the throng waded into the water and aided women and children to safety. The crew of the launch took some of the women on board.

Another pier was used after the accident to enable the excursionists to board the boats.

CAUGHT TWICE BY SAME MAN

Supposed Burglar Battles Policeman and Breaks His Wrist.

Romeo Goulet of Montreal, alleged to be a burglar, was captured early yesterday by Benjamin Carpenter, a special policeman, in a fight in the rear of the home of Isadore Bledbort at 1764 Forty-seventh Street, Brooklyn. Neither knew the other at the time, but under an arc light there was a mutual recognition. Carpenter previously had arrested Goulet. Made more determined by this knowledge, Goulet resumed his struggles to get away and in one of his twistings broke a bone in Carpenter's right wrist. Carpenter drew his revolver then and forced Goulet to yield.

Carpenter said a rear window of the Bledbart apartment was open and that Goulet was in the yard. Goulet was arraigned in Flatbush Court on a charge of burglary and was held without bail for the Grand Jury. When he was arrested before sentence was suspended.

HARDING DEDICATES LINCOLN MEMORIAL

Congress poured down the steps, holding up the Presidential party.

The other was during President Harding's address. Despite strict orders that no airplanes should fly over the assemblage and interfere with the radio broadcasting, a commercial airplane flew over the Mall and circled the Memorial at a low altitude. Apparently under the impression that it was an army plane, Secretary of War Weeks left his seat, projected his bulk between two marble columns and by semaphore signaling endeavored to catch the pilot's attention and signal him to move away.

Harding Exalts Lincoln's Patience.

Mentioning the lampoonings and venomous attacks to which Lincoln was subjected, President Harding described them as "one of the abused privileges under popular government." Apparently conscious of attacks that have been made upon his Administration, Mr. Harding spoke half defiantly when he declared that "there is compensation in the assurance that when men * * * do the best they can * * * they come out all right in the end, and all the storm does not amount to anything."

In this connection, he said a friend had sent him an illuminated and framed quotation from Lincoln in which he said:

"If I were trying to read, much less answer, all the attacks made on me, this shop might as well be closed for any other business. I do the best I know how, the very best I can; and I mean to keep on doing it to the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me will not amount to anything. If the end brings me out all wrong, ten angels swearing I was right would make no difference."

The President's reading of this quotation was received with laughter and applause.

Speech of the President.

President Harding's address was:

It is a supreme satisfaction officially to accept on behalf of the Government this superb monument to the savior of the Republic. No official duty could be more welcome, no official function more pleasing. This memorial edifice is a noble tribute, gratefully bestowed, and in its offering is the reverent heart of America; in its dedication is the consciousness of reverence and gratitude beautifully expressed.

Somehow my emotions incline me to speak simply as a reverent and grateful American rather than one in official responsibility. I am thus inclined because the true measure of Lincoln is in his place today in the heart of American citizenship, though half a century has passed since his colossal service and his martyrdom. In every moment of peril, in every hour of discouragement, whenever the clouds gather, there is the image of Lincoln to rivet our hopes and to renew our faith. Whenever there is a glow of triumph over national achievement there comes the reminder that but for Lincoln's heroic and unalterable faith in the Union these triumphs could not have been.

No great character in all history has been more eulogized, no rugged figure more monumental, no likeness more portrayed. Painters and sculptors portray as they see, and no two see precisely alike. So, too, is there varied emphasis in the portraiture of words, but all are agreed about the rugged greatness and the surpassing tenderness and unfailing wisdom of this master martyr.

History is concerned with the things accomplished. Biography deals with the methods and the individual attributes which led to accomplishment.

Union His Great Object.

The supreme chapter in history is not emancipation, though that achievement would have exalted Lincoln throughout all the ages. The simple truth is that Lincoln, recognizing an established order, would have compromised with the slavery that existed if he could have halted its extension. * * * Hating human slavery as he did, he doubtless believed in its ultimate abolition through the developing conscience of the American people, but he would have been the last man in the Republic to resort to arms to effect its abolition. Emancipation was a means to the great end—maintained union and nationality. Here was the great purpose, here the towering hope, here the supreme faith.

He treasured the inheritance handed down by the founding fathers, the ark of the covenant wrought through their sacrifices, and builded in their inspired genius. The Union must be preserved. It was the central thought, the unalterable purpose, the unyielding intent, the foundation of faith. It was worth every sacrifice, justified every cost, steeled the heart to sanction every crimsoned tide of blood.

Here was the great experiment—popular government and constitutional union—menaced by greed expressed in human chattels. With the greed restricted and unthreatening, he could temporize. When it challenged Federal authority and threatened the Union, it pronounced its own doom.

In the first inaugural he quoted and reiterated his own oft-repeated utterance—"I have no purpose, directly or indirectly, to interfere with the institution of slavery in the States where it exists. I believe I have no lawful right to do so, and I have no inclination to do so."

Stood for Majority Rule.

He believed in maintaining inviolate the rights of the States, but he believed no less firmly in the perpetuity of the union of the States. The Union, having been contracted, could not be dissolved except by consent of all parties to the contract. He recognized the conflicting viewpoints, differing policies and controverted questions. But there were constitutional methods of settlement, and these must be employed.

In the first inaugural address he stressed the great general principle that:

"In our constitutional controversies we divide into majorities and minorities. If the minority will not acquiesce, the majority must, or the Government must cease. There is no other alternative, for continuing the Government is acquiescence on one side or the other. If the majority in such case will secede rather than acquiesce, they make a precedent which in turn will divide and ruin them. * * * Plainly the central idea of secession is the essence of anarchy. A majority held in restraint by constitutional checks and limitations, and always changing easily with deliberate changes of popular opinions and sentiments, is the only true sovereign of a free people. Whoever rejects it does, of necessity, fly to anarchy or despotism."

Here spoke the statesman, proclaiming deliberate public opinion as the supreme power of civilization, easily to be written into law when conviction should command. It ought to be tonic to the waning confidence of those of today who grow impatient that emphasized minority views are not hurried into the majority expressions of the Republic. Deliberate public opinion never fails.

His Appeal for Reconciliation.

Later, closing his first inaugural, when anxiety gripped the nation, there spoke the generous, forgiving, sympathetic man of undaunted faith:

"I am loath to close. We are not enemies, but friends. We must not be enemies. Though passion may have strained, it must not break our bonds of affection. The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriot grave, to every living heart and hearthstone, all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union, when again touched, as they surely will be, by the better angels of our nature."

But he appealed in vain—passion was aflame and war was made the arbiter. Americans fought Americans with equal courage and valor. There was an ambiguity in the Constitution which only a baptism in blood could efface. One may only speculate on what another might have done, but fate seems to have summoned the one great hero best fitted to lead to the Union's salvation.

His faith was inspiring, his resolution commanding, his sympathy reassuring, his simplicity enlisting, his patience unfailing. He was Faith, Patience and Courage, with his head above the clouds, unmoved by the storms which raged about his feet.

No leader was ever more unsparingly criticised or more bitterly assailed. He was lashed by angry tongues and ridiculed in press and speech until he drank from as bitter a cup as was ever put to human lips, but his faith was unshaken and his patience never exhausted.

Perseverance in His Aims.

Some one sent me recently an illumined and framed quotation which fell from his lips when the storm of criticism was at its height.

"If I were trying to read," he said, "much less answer all the attacks made on me, this shop might as well be closed for any other business. I do the best I know how, the very best I can; and I mean to keep on doing it to the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me will not amount to anything. If the end brings me out all wrong, ten angels swearing I was right would make no difference."

He knew, of course, before the assassin robbed him of fuller realization, that the end was bringing him out all right. He knew when swords were sheathed and guns laid down that the Union he saved was riveted anew and made forever indissoluble. He knew that in the great crucible of fire and blood the dross had been burned from the misdirected patriotism of seceding States and the pure gold restored to shining stars in the dear Old Glory again.

He knew he had freed a race of bondmen and had given to the world the costly proof of the perpetuity of the American Union. But I cannot restrain the wish that he might somehow know of the monuments to his memory throughout the world and that we are dedicating today, on behalf of a grateful nation, this matchless memorial, whose forty-eight columns, representing forty-eight States, in the concord of Union, testify that the "end brought him out all right."

Reflecting now on the lampooning and heedless attacks and unjustifiable abuse which bruised his heart and tested his patience, we may accept its expression as one of the abused privileges under popular Government, when passion sways and bitterness inspires, but for which there is compensation in the assurance that when men have their feet firmly planted in the right and do the very best they can, and "keep on doing it," they come out all right in the end and all the storms do not amount to anything.

Growth of His Leadership.

He rose to colossal stature in a day of imperiled union. He first appealed, and then commanded, and left the union secure and the nation supreme. His was a leadership for a great crisis, made loftier because of the inherent righteousness of his cause and the sublimity of his won faith.

Washington inspired belief in the Republic, in its heroic beginning, Lincoln proved its quality in the heroic preservation. The Old World had wondered about the New World experiment, and was quite ready to proclaim its futility when the Civil War was threatening; but Lincoln left the Union unchallenged for all succeeding time. Not only was our nation given a new birth of freedom, but democracy was given a new sanction by that hand of divinity itself which has written the rights of humankind and pointed the way to their enjoyment.

Abraham Lincoln was no superman. Like the great Washington, whose monumental shaft towers near by as a fit companion to the memorial we dedicate today, the two testifying the grateful love of all Americans to founder and savior—like Washington, Lincoln was a very natural human being, with the frailties mixed with the virtues of humanity.

There are neither supermen nor demi-gods in the government of kingdoms, empires or republics. It will be better for our conception of government and its institutions if we will understand this fact. It is vastly greater than finding the superman if we justify the confidence that our institutions are capable of bringing into authority, in time of stress, men big enough and strong enough to meet all demands.

Faith in Popular Rule.

Washington and Lincoln offered outstanding proof that a representative popular government, constitutionally founded, can find its own way to salvation and accomplishment. In the very beginning our American democracy turned to Washinton, the aristocrat, for leadership in revolution, and the greater task of founding permanent institutions. The wisdom of Washington, Jefferson, Hamilton and Franklin was proven when Lincoln, the child of privation, of hardship, of barren environment and meagre opportunity, rose to unquestioned leadership when disunion threatened.

Lincoln came almost as humbly as the Child of Bethlehem. His parents were unlettered, his home was devoid of every element of culture and refinement. He was no infant prodigy. No luxury facilitated or privilege hastened his development, but he had a God-given intellect, a love for work, a willingness to labor and a purpose to succeed.

Biographies differ about his ambition, but Herndon, who knew him as did no other, says he was greatly ambitious. I can believe that. Ambition is a commendable attribute, without which no man succeeds. Only inconsiderate ambition imperils.

Lincoln was modest, but he was sure of himself, and always greatly simple. Therein was his appeal to the confidence of his country. When he believed he was right a nation believed him to be right, and offered all in his support.

Called Greatest of Presidents.

His work was so colossal, in the face of such discouragement, that none will dispute that he was incomparably the greatest of our Presidents. He came to authority when the Republic was beset by foes at home and abroad, and re-established union and security. He made that gesture of his surpassing generosity which began reunion.

Let us forget the treachery, corruption, and incompetency with which he had to combat, and recall his wisdom, his unselfishness, his sublime patience. He resented no calumnies upon himself; he held no man his enemy who had the power and will to serve the Union. His vision was blinded by no jealousy. He took his advisers from among his rivals, invoked the patriotism and ignored their plottings. He dominated them by the sheer greatness of his intellect, the singleness and honesty of his purpose, and made them responsive to his hand for the accomplishment of the exalted purpose. Amid it all there was a gentleness, a kindness, a sympathetic sorrow, which suggests a divine intent to blend mercy with power in supreme attainment.

This memorial, matchless tribute that it is, is less for Abraham Lincoln than for those of us today and for those who follow after. His surpassing compensation would have been, in living, to have his 10,000 sorrows dissipated in the rejoicing of the succeeding half century. He loved "his boys" in the army, and would have reveled in the great part they played in more than a half century of the pursuit of peace and concord restored.

National Feeling Cemented.

How he would have been exalted by the soldiers of the Union after the "mystic chords" were touched by the better angels of our nature." How it would comfort his great soul to know that the States in the Southland join sincerely in honoring him and have twice, since his day, joined, with all the fervor of his own great heart, in defending the flag! How it would soften his anguish to know that the South long since came to realize that a vain assassin robbed it of its most sincere and potent friend when it was prostrate and stricken, when Lincoln's sympathy and understanding would have helped to heal the wounds and hide the scars and speed the restoration!

Now, with his love and freedom and justice, this apostle of humanity would have found his sorrows tenfold repaid to see the hundred millions to whom he bequeathed reunion and nationality, giving of their sons and daughters and and all their fortunes to halt the armed march of autocracy and preserve civilization, even as he preserved union.

More, how his great American heart would be aglow to note how resolutely we are going on, always on, holding to constitutional methods, amending to meet the requirements of a progressive civilization, clinging to majority rule, properly restrained, which is the "only true sovereign of a free people," and working to the fulfillment of the destiny of the world's greatest republic!

Fifty-seven years ago this people gave from their ranks, sprung from their own fibre, this plain man, holding their common ideals. They gave him first to service of the nation in the hour of peril, then to their pantheon of fame. With them and by them he is enshrined and exalted forever.

Today American gratitude, love and appreciation, give to Abraham Lincoln this lone white temple, a pantheon for him alone.

Memorial Project Outlined.

A history of the building of the Lincoln Memorial was given by Chief Justice Taft in his address, in which he described some of the features of the shrine. Between the lines of his address was given an impression of the feat of the designers in planning a $3,000,000 memorial to Lincoln that is recognized as one of the most beautiful dedicatory structures in the world. Beautiful as it is, one of the most remarkable accomplishments of the designers, it is considered, is the fact that nothing about it is incongruous with the simple, homely character of the man it commemorates, conforming at the same time in stateliness with the Capitol and the Washington Monument.

Nor has the memorial been complicated by elaborate symbolism. The thirty-six pure Doric columns that uphold the roof from the exterior represent the thirty-six States in the Union maintained by Lincoln, while above the columns forty-eight sculptured festoons typify the States of the Union as constituted at present.

Within Daniel Chester French's seated figure of Lincoln, heroic in proportions of Georgia marble, looks out through the columns in the direction of the Capitol dome and the Washington monument with its reflection caught in the 1,600-foot long mirrored basin. The only other adornments within are Jules Guerin's frescoes, typifying "emancipation" and "reunion," and the Gettysburg address and extracts from the second inaugural inscribed on the walls.

Behind the statue is the following inscription:

"In this temple, as in the hearts of the people for whom he saved the Union, the memory of Abraham Lincoln is enshrined forever."

Chief Justice Taft's Address.

Chief Justice Taft said in his speech that the fifty-seven years during which the American people have waited for a national memorial for "the nation's savior and its greatest leader" were well spent, for in the intervening time not only have "the figures of his contemporaries faded, leaving him grandly alone," but it permitted a generation "instinct with the growing and deepening perception of the real Lincoln to develop an art adequate to the expression of his greatness."

"The influence he still wields," the Chief Justice continued, "one may say with all reverence, has a Christ-like character. It has spread to the four quarters of the globe. The oppressed and lowly of all peoples, as liberty and free government spread, pronounce his name with awe, and cherish his assured personal sympathy as a source of hope. The harmony of his message with every popular aspiration for freedom proves his universality.

"We like to dwell on the fact that his associates did not see him as he was when on earth, and that it was for generations born after he was gone to feel his real greatness and to be moved by his real personality. Not with the lowly only, but with all, rich or poor, ignorant or learned, weak or powerful, untutored or of literary genius, has this aura about Lincoln's head at his death grown into a halo of living light."

Mr. Taft reviewed the origin and work of the Lincoln Memorial Commission, of which he is Chairman, and the gradual development of the plan for the monument. The site, he said, was selected by the Arts Commission appointed in 1901, which reported that the place of honor at the end of the main axis of the Washington city plan should be reserved for a memorial to Lincoln, "as that Arc de Triomphe crowns the Place de L'Etoile at Paris."

A Memorial of Reunion.

"And now, Mr. President," he said, "the ideal of these great American artists has found expression in the memorial as you see it. It is a magnificent gem set in a lovely valley between the hills, commanding them by its isolation and its entrancing beauty, an emblem of the purity of the best period of Greek art in the simple Doric, the culmination of the highest art of which America is capable.

"Here on the banks of the Potomac, the boundary between the two sections whose conflict made the burden, passion and triumph of his life, it is peculiarly appropriate that it should stand. Visible in its distant beauty from the Capitol, whose great dome typifies the union which he saved; seen in all its grandeur from Arlington, where lie the nation's honored dead who fell in the conflict, Union and Confederate alike, it marks the restoration of the brotherly love of the two sections in this memorial of one who is as dear to the hearts of the South as to those of the North.

"The Southerners know that the greatest misfortune in all the trials of that section was the death of Lincoln. Had he lived, the consequences of the war would not have been as hard for them to bear, the wounds would have been more easily healed, the trying days of reconstruction would have been softened. Rancor and resentment were no part of his nature.

"In all the bitterness of that conflict no word fell from his lips, tried as he was, which told of hatred, malice or unforgiving soul. Here is a shrine at which all can worship, here an altar upon which the supreme sacrifice was made in the cause of liberty, here a sacred religious refuge in which those who love country and love God can find inspiration and repose."

Moton Says Negroes Are Loyal.

The negro's tribute to the Emancipator and his martyrdom was paid by Dr. Moton, Booker Washington's successor at Tuskegee. His speech was liberally applauded. He said in part:

"But some one will ask: Has such a sacrifice been justified? Has such martyrdom produced its worthy fruits? I speak for the negro race. Upon us, more perhaps than upon any group of the nation, rests the immediate obligation to justify so dear a price for our emancipation.

"In answer, let me review the negro's past upon American soil. No group in all our country has been so loyal. Whether bond or free, he has served alike his country's need. No one is more sensible than the negro himself of his incongruous position in the great American republic. But be it recorded to his everlasting credit that no failure to reap the full reward of his sacrifice has ever in the least degree qualified his loyalty or cooled his patriotic fervor.

"A race that produced a Frederick Douglass, in the midst of slavery, and a Booker Washington, in the aftermath of reconstruction, has gone far to justify its emancipation."

Markham Reads Poem.

Edwin Markham prefaced reading his poem, "Lincoln the Man of the People," with the following sentence:

"On this great day of dedication I humbly inscribe this revised version of my Lincoln poem to this stupendous Lincoln memorial, to this far-shining monument of remembrance, erected in immortal marble to the honor of our deathless martyr—the consecrated statesman, the ideal American, the ever-beloved friend of humanity."

He then recited the poem to the martyred President:

A man to hold against the world,
A man to match the mountains and the sea.

In the concluding stanza, it read:

And when he fell in whirlwind, he went down,
As when a lordly cedar, green with boughs
Goes down with a great shout upon the hills,
And leaves a lonesome place against the sky.

TROTZKY NOW SAYS WAR IS IMPOSSIBLE

Changes His Mind About It in Talk With a Dutch Correspondent.

MUST PLACATE AMERICA

This Is the Only Country Having Sufficient Means to Aid Russia, War Minister Says.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Company.

THE HAGUE, May 30.—Judging from interviews with the Soviet chieftains appearing in Holland since the conclusion of the Genoa conference it would almost seem as though the Soviets were endeavoring to make overtures to America through the Dutch press.

Trotzky, in an interview appearing in the Vaderland, is quoted as saying:

"America alone commands sufficient means to help Russia, so the Soviet's foremost interest is an agreement with the United States. American expansion in Russia can only be of an economic character. Japan's expansion is of a military character and is tremendous. For this reason it is naturally important to arrive at an agreement with the United States in order to obtain further guarantees against the Japanese Government's rapacious schemes."

Trotzky stated that he was not posted as to the United States Government's attitude, but President Harding's most recent statements indicated that "the Wilsonian traditions in the Russian question are undergoing liquidation and the American Government has now adopted a soberer attitude toward Russia," and he added that if this change became permanent an agreement was more than probable.

Speaking of the reduction of the Soviet army Trotzky said this depended on the final success of the conference. At present the plan was to reduce the army to half.

In regard to the Rapallo treaty Trotzky observed that Russia had the same differences of opinion with Germany on the question of property as with the Entente countries, so that this fact of itself would preclude the treaty being a defensive or offensive alliance against other European countries. "The treaty only involved the resumption of elementary economic and political relations," he said, "and the Soviet is ready to make treaties with any other countries based on the same principles."

As to the chances of a new war, Trotzky did not believe this to be a possibility, although he referred to the unrest in the States surrounding Russia. Trotzky thought the Entente's economic proposals diminished the chances of agreement with the powers, but he approved the new plan to separate urgent military and political questions from economic ones and settle the former first independently of the economic questions.

Krassin, interviewed by the Telegraaf, stated that with sufficient foreign credits Russia would overcome the famine two years hence, would export grain five years hence and would be a modern America in twenty-five years. Russia did not require foreign engineers, although a few Dutch Communist engineers were about to exploit mines in West Siberia under the Communist leader, Dr. Rutgers, who was taking 200 experienced American miners, each provided with $200 and sufficient foodstuffs.

Alluding to the proposed international consortium, Krassin said this was not generally approved of in Russia, but if America did not help with credit, he believed an international consortium to be the only possible way to help Russia.

Russia was free to make commercial treaties with any countries and he suggested that Holland should organize the river traffic on the Volga, Don and Dnieper and improve the harbors.

Answering questions regarding oil concessions, Krassin said:

"All reports of contracts hitherto published are completely false. There is no word of truth in them. Certainly, negotiations are going on in the Shell group. I spoke of oil in London, but the negotiations have not reached results. It cannot be imagined that in the present unpropitious circumstances we will bind ourselves hand and foot. It is also against our principles to grant a monopoly to one company."

BRINGS UNDERSEA CANVAS.

Asa Cassidy Has Picture Painted in Bahama Waters.

Sir Harry Cardeaux, Governor of the Bahamas, arrived here on the Munargo of the Munson Line yesterday to interest American capital in a $1,000,000 hotel to replace one burned last March in Nassau. He said tourist trade had been affected as a result of the fire. He said he would confer with steamship officials regarding better service to the Bahamas, which he described as one of the greatest regions in the world.

Asa Cassidy, an artist, exhibited a canvas 24 by 42 inches depicting marine fauna and flora which, he said, he had made undersea in the Bahamas. He averaged four hours a day in a period extending over several months in executing the canvas, which was entitled "The Garden Spot of the Sea." Mr. Cassidy said he used a $50,000 bell-shaped device, equipped with windows, which enabled him to see a distance of 400 feet and work in perfect comfort. The device also had been used by Captain Ernest Williams in making an undersea film, he added.

John L. Wilson, manager of a bank at Guantanamo, Cuba, arrived, on his way to be married "real soon" to Miss Mary Chichester, daughter of Supreme Court Justice R. H. G. Chichester of Fredericksburg, Va. He paused long enough to say that Cuba anticipated a bumper crop of sugarcane this season. Conditions on the island were much better, although credit was still limited, he said.

Dr. Leon N. Hirsel of Havana arrived to visit the Mayo Sanitarium at Rochester, Minn. George W. Donaldson, a veteran globe trotter, 51 years old, who has been across the Atlantic more times than he could remember, was among the Munargo's eighty-one passengers.

STEAMER HELD ON LIBEL.

The H. F. Alexander Stopped When Leaving Chester for New York.

CHESTER, Pa., May 30.—As it was about to depart from the Sun Shipyard for New York, a United States Deputy Marshal today stepped aboard the steamship H. F. Alexander with an attachment for $1,815,600 damages claimed in relation to the sinking of the British steamship Andree in the Delaware River last week.

The vessel's moorings, which had been cast off, were ordered made fast again, and the Captain and H. F. Alexander, President of the Pacific Steamship Company, owner of the ship, were notified not to attempt to move the steamer until security for the full amount of the libel had been entered in the Federal Court.

The libel alleges gross negligence on the part of the master of the Alexander, averring that she was running at a 25-knot speed in the harbor when she ran into the Andree.

REPARATIONS ISSUE NOW UP TO BANKERS

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

from a foreign loan to equal the amount of reparation payments subsequent to April, 1922, Germany shall issue amounts in paper marks to equal any such payments. Any receipts from foreign loans would then be applied to reducing this excedent over the normal maximum back to the March figure.

It will be seen that these provisions may easily be interpreted to mean that Germany agrees to make reparation payments only from a foreign loan, or, failing that, keep on issuing paper money to meet reparation payments.

Supervision Is Accepted.

As for the supervision asked by the Allies, Germany accepts it with the understanding that it in no way affects the sovereignty of the German Government nor violates the secrecy of the private affairs of taxpayers. Germany agrees to furnish to the allied committee guarantees for all her new proposed legislation and report regularly on the execution of the promised laws. The Committee on Guarantees, which is to exercise the proposed supervision, will receive full reports on German finance receipt and expenditure. As for the flight of capital, Germany says she has not yet been able to stop it, but that she attaches great importance to the return of evading capital and will willingly listen to any suggestion the Allies have to make on the subject.

Autonomy of the Reichsbank, the German note says, is guaranteed by a law of May 25, 1922. Germany agrees to resume publication of Government statistics as before the war.

Although there will be much complaint from the French Nationalists the German note is about as satisfactory as could have been expected and whatever the details of the Reparation Commission's reply will be, it will unquestionably find that the Germans have come near enough to meet the allied conditions to obviate the necessity of recommending the use of force at this time. In other words, it is altogether probable that the reparation question proper will remain in statu quo until the bankers have finished their work.

Under 720,000,000 marks is the schedule of payments in 1922 of Germany up to date. Acceptance by the Reparation Commission entails continuance of this reduced scale of payment, and it is understood the German Government has every intention of being prompt in paying some 220,000,000 gold marks up to Jan. 1, 1923. So far as payment in materials is concerned this forms the subject of separate negotiations between Germany on the one hand and France, Belgium and England on the other.

Tone of Reply the Best Yet.

The tone of the German note is the best of any of Berlin's reparation communications and is understood to be the work of Finance Minister Hermes rather than of Chancellor Wirth, who always chants to the tune of poor Germany. The Allies want the loan plan to succeed and recognize that an exhibition of the usual bad humor at this time would be the best way of insuring its failure.

The bankers' committee will resume its work tomorrow afternoon and study the guarantees which would be asked from Germany if they undertook to handle the loan. Inasmuch as the Allies now hold through the Treaty of Versailles a lien on all German resources, it is not expected that Germany would object to any conditions the bankers may lay down. The issue is acceptance by the Reparation Commission, which means acceptance by the allied Governments. In other words, will the Allies be willing to relinquish enough of their hold on Germany to give Germany freedom to accept the bankers' conditions?

Acceptance Is Forecast.

PARIS, May 30 (Associated Press).—The impression made by the German reply was not unfavorable. It was said at the French Foreign Office this afternoon unofficially.

The semi-official Temps remarks that the reply is silent on the question of a forced loan, which was expected to produce 40,000,000,000 marks, but the newspaper forecasts its acceptance by the Reparation Commission.

Referring to Germany's reply in the course of an otherwise dull and featureless debate in the Chamber of Deputies, M. Cachin, Communist, declared that even the newspapers supporting the Premier's policy were saying that all danger of a crisis with Germany had been dispelled.

"But I do not say so," interrupted Premier Poincaré.

M. Sembat, the Socialist leader, said France was to be congratulated that the eventuality of the irreparable mistake of occupying the Ruhr region was no longer to be feared.

BRUSSELS, May 30.—Foreign Minister Jasper, speaking in the Chamber of Deputies today, said that Germany's reply to the Reparation Commission justified the belief that an agreement was possible. Should this be realized, he declared, it was because of the firm attitude adopted toward Germany.

Floating Debt 285,680,000,000 Marks.

BERLIN, May 30 (Associated Press).—Germany's floating debt was increased from April 1 to May 20 by 13,750,000,000 marks and now totals 285,680,000,000 marks.

The Nationalists were prepared today to attempt to project the reparations question into the debate in the Reichstag. The Government, however, has declared itself against premature partisan discussions, fearing they would prejudice the German case with the Allies and the international bankers' committee which is considering the advisability of a loan.

The Chancellor's announcement in his speech yesterday that Germany was prepared to volunteer for the rôle of mediator between the Allies and the Soviet representatives at The Hague conference was commented on this morning as one of the most surprising passages, as it had generally been believed that the German Government was reconciled to the fact that it was not to be represented on the official list of invitations to The Hague meeting.

BRITISH ENVOYS TO HAGUE.

Hilton Young and Sir Philip Lloyd-Graeme Are Appointed.

LONDON, May 30 (Associated Press).—The names of the two experts who will represent Great Britain at The Hague Conference on Russian Affairs were announced by Austen Chamberlain, the Government leader, in the House of Commons today. They will be Hilton Young and Sir Philip Lloyd-Graeme, he said.

Mr. Young is the recently appointed Financial Secretary to the Treasury. Sir Philip Lloyd-Graeme, formerly Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade, and more recently Director of Overseas Trade, was one of the British experts at the Genoa conference.

Mr. Chamberlain said it was not contemplated that any other British representatives would attend The Hague meeting.

TELLS OF GERMAN DISTRESS.

Von Buelow Says Berlin Mothers Clothe Children in Newspapers.

ROME, May 30 (Associated Press).—Prince von Buelow, the former German Ambassador to Italy, who is now residing in this country, said to a representative of the Giornale d'Italia:

"The sufferings of our people continue; the humblest classes suffer from hunger because of high prices. I believe that Germany has the highest index of prices in Europe. In Berlin there is a scarcity of the necessities of life; children do not have sufficient clothing and mothers are forced to use newspapers to clothe them.

"Germany has a strong will to return to normal conditions. Her motto is 'Order and work.' This is the cardinal principal of Germany's present policy. It is a vital necessity for her new life."

Asked if he thought the former German Emperor would ever return to power, Prince von Buelow replied, "Who knows?" and then made a negative gesture.

TRUCK KILLS BOY AT PLAY IN STREET

Elliott Boudy, 5 Years, Is Run Down in Front of His Home in 174th Street.

MANUFACTURER IS INJURED

Receives Fractured Skull as a Result of Motorcycle Accident in West Orange.

Elliott Boudy, 5 years old, of 601 West 174th Street, died yesterday at his home soon after he had been hit while playing in the street there by an automobile truck owned by Samuel Wolff of 312 East Ninety-second Street and driven by Henry Goedecke of 318 East Ninety-fourth Street.

Edward M. Bohsen, 42 Franklin Avenue, West Orange, N. J., manufacturer of metal signs and formerly an executive of the Thomas A. Edison Company, was taken to the Orange Memorial Hospital with a fracture at the base of the skull yesterday as the result of a motorcycle accident.

Bohsen was found lying in Ridgewood Road, South Orange, by the driver of a passing automobile, who notified the nearest traffic policeman. His condition was said to be very serious.

Three years ago yesterday a brother of Bohsen was killed in a motorcycle accident at Irvington, N. J.

While crossing Eighty-sixth Street and Twentieth Avenue, Bensonhurst, Brooklyn, late last night, Samuel Ellen, 28 years old, of 8,621 Twentieth Avenue, Bensonhurst, pushed his wife to one side to prevent her from being struck by an automobile but he himself was thrown under the wheels and received injuries which will probably cause his death. Mrs. Ellen received abrasions about the body.

Ellen noticed an approaching car driven by Miss Edith Weiss of 350 Throop Avenue, Brooklyn. He shoved his wife away, but the mud guard struck her and threw her about ten feet. Ellen, however, was caught under the front wheels. Ellen and his wife were taken to the Harbor Hospital at Bensonhurst.

Miss Weiss was served with a summons to appear in court today for not having an operator's license.

In a collision between two automobiles at 145th Street and Lenox Avenue Thomas J. Comerford of 15 Prospect Place, the Bronx, and Thomas Walsh of 449 West 129th Street received lacerations of their heads and faces. They were taken to Columbus Hospital. They were riding in an automobile driven by Richard Rowan of 224 East Forty-second Street. The automobile was overturned. Rowan was unhurt.

Hugo McWinters, a negro, of 410 East 165th Street, was driving the other automobile.

Two men were injured when a motorcycle and a taxicab collided at Fifth Avenue and Ninety-fourth Street. Phillip Cohen of 55 West 119th Street and Solan Rolken of 175 Briffken Street, Brooklyn, were on the motorcycle, the former driving. The taxicab was driven by Fred White of 148 Columbus Avenue. Cohen and Rolken were thrown to the street, receiving bruises. An automobile took them to Mount Sinai Hospital. They went home after treatment.

Five persons, two of them children and one a woman, were pinned under an automobile last night, when it was overturned in a collision with another at 188th Street and Sedgwick Avenue, the Bronx. The injured were attended by an ambulance surgeon and later went home.

They were John Kiackzic of 163 Second Avenue, Michael Kaplick of 324 East Fifteenth Street, Stanley Judickiel, 5 years old, of 324 East Fifteenth Street; Stephan Kraslzki, 3 years old, and his mother, Mrs. Mary Kraslzki, of 193 Second Avenue.

Kaplick was driving west through 188th Street, when another car, going north in Sedgwick Avenue, cut him off. The automobiles crashed, and Kaplick's car went over on its side. All the occupants were pinned under it.

The other automobile veered off after the accident and continued on its way.

Patrolman McNamara of the Kingsbridge Station, with several citizens, lifted the overturned automobile, freeing its occupants. They were attended by Dr. Cruel of Fordham Hospital.

M'CORMICK ROMANCE DRAWN INTO COURT

following section of the Illinois law to sustain them:

Guardian and Ward Nomination.

If a minor is under the age of 14 years, the County Court may nominate and appoint his guardian. If he is above that age he may nominate his own guardian, who, if approved by the Court, shall be appointed accordingly; if not approved by the Court, or if the minor resides out of the State, or if, after being cited, he neglects to nominate a suitable person, the Court may nominate and appoint his guardian in the same manner as if he was under the age of 14 years.

A more important factor is that the appointment of a guardian is absolutely necessary under the Swiss law before Miss Mathilde can wed Oser in that country. Mathilde is only 17 and the law of that European republic requires that she have the consent of her parents or a legally constituted guardian before a marriage license can be issued. In the light of that phase, Mrs. McCormick's action is generally interpreted as a move to delay or perhaps prevent the marriage.

Under Charles A. Cutting, counsel for Mrs. McCormick, who asked that the final order be not entered appointing Mr. McCormick guardian because Mrs. McCormick had not been given the required three days' notice, said he did not know whether Mrs. McCormick would appear in court tomorrow. Both Mrs. McCormick and her secretary were said to be spending the holiday away from Rome and at the Cyrus McCormick home, in Rush Street. Miss Mathilde and her father were reported to have gone to meeting.

"I do not believe any action will be taken by Mrs. McCormick to prevent Mr. McCormick becoming legal guardian of his daughter," said Judge Cutting. "The previous hearing was not legal in that Mrs. McCormick did not receive due notice and the hearing tomorrow will be merely a formal one for the purpose of correcting this flaw in the record."

Made No Reservations to Sail.

Although she was quoted as having said she would sail yesterday on the Cunard Line steamer Berengaria for Europe, Miss Mathilde McCormick had made no reservations so far as could be learned. Miss Julia Mangold, employed as a bookkeeper by Mme. Oser until she came to the United States as a companion to Miss McCormick, was among the outgoers, arriving at the pier fifteen minutes before the steamer left. Miss Mangold, who arrived on the steamer after Miss Mathilde was immediately to her stateroom where her baggage previously had been placed. It was noted that her baggage was marked in care of representatives of the International Harvester Co. in London. Fowler McCormick, brother of Mathilde, was at the pier to see Miss Mangold sail.

The only statement regarding his sister that McCormick would make was that she had changed her plans about going abroad at the present time. He admitted Miss McCormick had returned to Chicago on the Twentieth Century, but would advance no reason.

Miss Mangold was equally reticent regarding the movements of Mathilde, denied whether or not the heiress would sail to join Oser, she replied.

"I can't say. I really do not know."

Saying that she was a good friend of all concerned, Miss Mangold did intimate that she herself would go direct to London to remain there indefinitely.

SUN AND SKY BLESS HOMAGE TO FALLEN

25,000 Veterans Parade and Whole City Pays Memorial Tributes.

GOVERNOR EXTOLS GRANT

Calls Him "Greatest Captain of Them All" at Tomb in Riverside Drive.

ALL CHEER THIN G.A.R. FILES

Veterans of Civil War Make Brave Showing and None Falls Out of Line of March.

Under brilliant skies, unmarred by a single cloud, thousands of veterans of all our wars from 1861 participated here yesterday in solemn exercises in memory of the fallen. They paid their tribute in parades, military demonstrations and by unveiling monuments of stone and plaques of metal. Orators praised the fortitude of the dead and living soldiers and called upon all citizens to build upon the foundation of the soldiers' devotion a greater and more glorious structure of national patriotism.

In each borough of the city there was at least one large, imposing exercise or observance, followed by several community demonstrations. Hundreds of thousands of citizens and about 25,000 veterans of various wars participated in these programs. There were thousands of even more solemn ceremonies than the largest of the parades—those in which bereaved families went to the city's cemeteries and, in sorrowful pride, laid wreaths and flowers upon the graves of those whose names are written in golden letters on the national roll of honor.

Since the last Decoration Day thousands of the bodies of the American soldiers who fell in France have been returned to this country and now rest in graves provided by their relatives. Not alone to those new mounds led the dusty trails of these family pilgrimages, but to the weather-beaten tombstones where rest the dead of the Spanish War and the Civil War. These family devotionals left the cemeteries of the city heaped in wreaths and flowers.

Heat Has No Effect on Crowds.

The solemnities of the day were marred by at least four accidents, which cost two lives. A soldier was crushed to death between two whippet tanks which had been in the parade up Riverside Drive, and an aged woman was killed by an automobile while she was on her way home after decorating her son's grave.

Although the temperature reached eighty degrees at 2 o'clock, or about six degrees above the average for Memorial Day at that hour, there were no cases of illness in the crowds requiring the calling of ambulances. A few persons fainted in the heat while watching the parade up Riverside Drive, but were assisted by policemen and persons living along the Drive, so that there was no need for hospital calls.

Members of the Grand Army of the Republic said that it was one of the most solemn Memorial Day in their recollection, with virtually an entire city of millions turning in solemn reverence to memories and tributes to the dead.

Riverside Drive was lined with thousands yesterday for the annual parade of the Grand Army of the Republic up that thoroughfare, from Seventy-fourth Street to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument at Eighty-ninth Street. A large part of this crowd remained after the parade for the memorial exercises in front of the monument, and many went to Grant's Tomb for the annual exercises held there under the auspices of the U. S. Grant Post of the G. A. R.

New York Troops Head Parade.

The head of the parade column in Riverside Drive was taken by the troops of the New York National Guard and the New York Guard, and hundreds of the men in these ranks wore the gold stripes of foreign service and of wounds on the sleeves of their jackets. After these troops came the Naval Militia, spick and span in white uniforms. After these troops passed a solemn hush settled over the crowd, the bands stopped playing, and the silence was so tense that the rustling of the leaves was audible across the Drive. Then came the shrill piping notes of a marching song of the Civil War—a melody that compelled attention even in this age of jazz.

A wave of battleflags and standards moves slowly into view. Thin files in worn blue uniforms and flat-topped visored caps appear. The noise of the sturdy, pavement-pounding marching of the National Guardsmen has passed out of ear shot, and the units following them march without sound, proudly but a bit unsteadily, because fifty-seven years have passed since they finished their march of victory.

It is the Grand Army of the Republic, marching toward the monument erected to their dead comrades and bearing flowers to lay on the tomb of their beloved Grant. These few files are all that remain of the Grand Army that held the union together, but still the Grand Army of the Republic.

Cheers for Flag of Civil War.

In the procession, carried by a white-haired veteran, is a flag of the Civil War period, and the crowd noticed with a clutch at the heart that the circle of stars in its field would have been halved instead of increased, had it not been for the hammer blows of this Grand Army. A volume of cheers greets this and other tattered flags and their bearers.

Another flag comes by. It is marked, "We were with Farragut." Another cheer. Some one in the crowd shouts "Damn the torpedoes." The crowd cheers and applauds, and the veterans shake their beards in joy.

Now the Zouaves! The crowds have been watching for their baggy red trousers and fezzes. There are three left of one regiment that not so long ago marched hundreds in Memorial Day parades. Behind them walk a few more from another regiment—a mere handful left from the thousands who left this city in the civil war. But the handful puts on an army's welcome.

Then the negro Civil War veterans, who stirred a responsive note in the crowds. Some of the rebelonged to the fifths of the regiment recruited in the war. Behind them, G. A. R. posts named in memory of famous Generals under whom their members fought—Joe Hooker, Phil Kearney, General James S. Wadsworth, Winfield Scott Hancock.

Roosevelt's Rough Riders There.

Behind the Civil War veterans are the Spanish War men, with hundreds more in line than ever before. Rough Riders from Colonel Roosevelt's regiment were there; veterans from the Astor Battery and other famous units—all in the blue shirt and khaki trousers, with their bands playing the tune: "There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

Then the American Legion. Veterans, young and fresh, with agile walk and military bearing, marching close upon the heels of those who fought for the country when these Legionnaires were babies. Scores and scores of posts of the legion and thousands in Canadian, French and British uniforms. All are veterans now. Then in order came the veterans of the Foreign Wars, the Military Order of the World War, Army and Navy Veterans, the American Guard Division, Woman's Overseas Service League and many other military organizations.

Conspicuous in the parade were children, especially grandchildren of the Civil War veterans, and marching with them, so that the demonstration was a kaleidoscope of American history, a mosaic of patriotism, with memories reaching back to the Civil War, and forward into coming generations.

Warship Fires Salute.

After the parade had disbanded brief exercises were held in front of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument, with Job E. Hedges as the orator. Major General John F. O'Ryan, who had reviewed the column, and General Gassouin of the French Army also were speakers. John B. Trainor, Chairman of the Memorial Committee of the G. A. R., who presided at this meeting, told his audience that the Grand Army had failed in all its efforts to induce the Navy Department to send a warship into the Hudson, according to annual custom, to fire a salute of twenty-one guns.

"That's what the present generation thinks of us old fellows," he said.

Later he learned that the Navy Department had sent the cruiser Denver especially for the Memorial Day exercises here and that she had fired a salute of twenty-one guns at noon, but was so far up the river that the booming was not audible near the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument. The Denver, anchored off Grant's Tomb, fired another salute of twenty-one guns during the afternoon exercises at the Tomb.

Mr. Hedges said that it had always been his ambition to speak at a Memorial Day meeting at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument because his father had fought in the Civil War.

"Conflicts of Peace."

"Our duty is to carry on the Government which the men we honor here today sought to save," said Mr. Hedges. "We must remember that the great conflicts of life are, after all, the conflicts of peace. Those conflicts bring the reward of virtue and help to establish individuals and Governments.

"We have a warning to deliver at this time, and that is to those foreigners who are not satisfied or happy here in these United States. I say to them that they are not obliged to stay here. If they are not ready to accept all that is American, then it is time for them to go back whence they came."

He referred also to those "dilettante Americans" who shared with "dissatisfied foreigners" the idea of overturning the present American Government and creating something new. Speaking at the services at Grant's Tomb, Governor Miller eulogized the character of Grant, and said that it was time to pervade American life with his virtues.

"It is natural that on this spot on this Memorial Day," said Governor Miller, "just past the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Grant, our thoughts should turn to the great captain—yes, judged by his accomplishments, the greatest captain of the age. There is no more fitting way to recall the sanctity of this day that to recollect some of the virtues of that worthy man. If I speak of his virtues it is because they typify the virtues of those who preserved the Union.

Says Grant Met All Tests.

"By all tests of character Grant was a great man. It may be but that for the war his greatness never would have been revealed. Yet in high or humble state he was great, if great qualities are the test of greatness. He never planned retreat. That wasn't recklessness. He fought his campaigns in advance. He never trusted to chance, but made allowance for it. He marshaled his resources and counted and staked all on the soundness of his judgment. He had victory in his grasp before he started. In battle he was calm, resourceful, determined. In victory he was magnanimous, sympathetic, solicitous for the fallen foe. In private life he was perhaps too trustful where trust was not deserved, but he was true himself because he never had anything to hide."

Hundreds attended the unveiling of the Washington Heights War Memorial at 168th Street and Broadway yesterday. The ceremony was preceded by a parade of veterans up Broadway from 158th Street. In the line of march were the 102d Engineers, the Twenty-seventh Division special troops and the Defendam Association, comprising veterans of the old Twenty-second Infantry, the old Twenty-second Engineers and the 102d Engineers of the last war.

In the Bronx military units there marched up the Grand Concourse and aided the American Legion in dedicating its 950 tree plaques to men who perished in the war. At Larchmont eight trees were planted in the public square to the memory of Larchmont men who fell in the war. One of them was Joyce Kilmer of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BROOKLYN MARKS DAY WITH TWO BIG PARADES

Crowds Applaud Civil War Veterans—Penny-Throwing Into Flag Brings Protest.

Headed by six units of the National Guard, more than 10,000 were in the Memorial Day parade which passed in review yesterday before Mayor John F. Hylan and Senator William M. Calder at the Prospect Park Plaza, Brooklyn.

Special tribute was accorded all along the line of march, and especially from the throng around the reviewing stand to the veterans of the Civil War. Many in Brooklyn who recalled the first Grand Army of the Republic parade saw the organization represented by 320 posts with a total membership of 13,000. Their ranks were thinned yesterday to the extent that only twenty posts were represented in the parade. Of the 375 veterans who took part 100 elected to march. The remainder rode in carriages, but many of these were compelled to give in to the strain of the long march and ride before their units passed the reviewing stand.

The "Red-Legged Devils," who formed the famous "Fighting Fourteenth" Regiment in the Civil War, could only summon nine for the parade yesterday. There were 1,030 of them who set out for the battle front from Fulton Ferry in 1861. Only twenty-four survive today. Of the nine in the parade four were compelled to drop out of the march through exhaustion. The oldest of the five marchers was Captain Ray Cardoza, who is 83 years old, and the youngest was George Smith, who is 70.

When the Admiral Schley Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, comprising veterans of the Spanish-American War, carried a large American flag horizontally, each marcher holding a small section of the flag, all facing the line of march people threw coins into the centre of the flag. As the post came opposite the reviewing stand Francis J. Rayo, senior Vice Commander of the George C. Strong Post, G. A. R., who was one of the reviewing party, noticed the people throwing coins on the flag and he became indignant. Turning to Colonel W. F. Griffith, Chairman of the Executive Memorial Committee, Rayo said:

"I thought this thing was going to be stopped."

Within earshot of Mayor Hylan, Rayo then turned to those whom he saw near him throwing coins and made a brief appeal which checked further contributions.

"Don't throw any more coins on that flag," he said. "Don't disgrace Old Glory. Stop it."

About 12,000 persons took part in the Bushwick-Ridgewood parade, which began at Myrtle and Knickerbocker Avenues and ended at Irving Avenue and Halsey Street. It was reviewed by Mayor Hylan and a score of public officials who were in a stand at Bushwick Parkway and Gates Avenue. The parade was divided into three divisions. The first contained Federal troops, militia, American Legion posts and Gold Star Mothers. The second was made up of fraternal, civic and political organizations, and the third included Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, church societies and the Juvenile Civic League.

Twenty organizations, including the Women's Naval Service and the Service Star League, attended memorial services yesterday at the Honor Roll in Prospect Park, Brooklyn. The flag was saluted, and the Rev. Lewis T. Reed, pastor of the Flatbush Congregational Church, made an address. There was a ceremony of remembrance for Mrs. Nathaniel O'Benderfer, late head of the Service Star League. James Shields, national President of the United States Naval Association, called on representatives of each of the organizations, who stepped forward and placed streamers on the honor roll.

The Fort Hamilton Memorial Day Committee had a flag-raising in front of the memorial to the heroes of the World War at Ninety-fifth Street and Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon. A military band from Fort Hamilton furnished music.

The Salvation Army dedicated a tabernacle last evening at the rooms of the organization at 518 Fiftieth Street, Brooklyn.

ATTACKS THE "SLAVE MIND."

Walsh Urges Legion Men to Stand for Individual Rights.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—An appeal for independence of mind by Americans was made today by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, who in a Memorial Day address at exercises of American Legion posts of the District of Columbia denounced what he described as tendencies of the Government to restrict rather than enlarge the individual liberties of its citizens.

Senator Walsh urged that citizens "climb out of the rut of slave minds and employ the initiative with which Americans are credited the world over." This, he said, was the only way in which Government could be bettered and the "spirit and soul of Americans preserved." With the former service men, he declared, rested the burden of initiating a move to destroy the practice of "blindly following, blindly voting for, a banner rather than a principle, regardless of the selfishness of the leadership."

Continuation on the part of the Government of efforts to restrict individual rights, the Senator said, meant eventually the cessation of adherence to principles of democracy and a return to autocracy.

"Governmental efforts to control what we eat and drink, how our people amuse themselves, the manner of educating their children and the size of their families," the Senator said, "is the rankest kind of autocracy. When Governments carry this policy to the extreme, they cease longer to adhere to true principles of liberty or to remain democracies."

VISIT GRAVE OF ROOSEVELT.

War Veterans, Headed by Late President's Son, Honor Memory.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., May 30.—More than 5,000 persons observed Memorial Day by visiting the grave of Theodore Roosevelt, in Young's Memorial Cemetery here today. After exercises in Townsend Square, the American Legion Post, the Spanish War Veterans and the Theodore Roosevelt Military Academy cadets from Teaneck, N. J., marched to the cemetery, headed by the former President's oldest son, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and Henry D. Lindsey, first Commander of the American Legion. Dr. Richard H. Derby, son-in-law of the late President, with members of the Quentin Roosevelt Post, placed a wreath on his grave and a salute was fired.

During the afternoon 200 members of the Intercollegiate Association from New York City visited Colonel Roosevelt's grave and left wreaths. Visitors to the cemetery continued to arrive on trains until late in the day.

MEN OF TWO WARS UNITE.

Legion Members at Hammonton Honor Survivors of '61.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMMONTON, N. J., May 30.—The six surviving members of General D. A. Russell Post, G. A. R., all that remain of the 180 original members of that body, were the guests today of Frederick A. Funston Post, American Legion.

They were taken to the cemeteries by members of the Legion and assisted in decorating the graves of the soldiers of '61 and the World War.

GEN. MITCHELL BROKE RIBS.

Injuries Caused by Fall From Horse Diagnosed in Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, May 30.—Brigadier General William Mitchell of the Aviation Service sustained a fracture of three ribs when he was thrown from his horse on Sunday, it was announced today when physicians made a diagnosis of his injuries.

General Mitchell is under a physician's care at the home of his sister, Mrs. Arthur Young, here, and will be confined to his bed for several days at least, it was said.

ASSAIL 2 K. OF C. OFFICERS.

Flaherty and Pelletier Are Asked to Resign by Iowa Branch.

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 30.—Resignation of two officers of the national organization of the Knights of Columbus, Supreme Knight J. A. Flaherty of Philadelphia and Supreme Advocate Joseph C. Pelletier of Boston, Mass., was demanded in a resolution passed by the Iowa Knights of Columbus at the closing session of their annual convention today.

The resolutions follow:

"Be it resolved, That whereas the conduct, of the supreme advocate of the Knights of Columbus, Joseph C. Pelletier, had been complained of to the courts of Massachusetts, and while his case was pending before the Supreme Court of that State, James A. Flaherty, Supreme Knight, published a signed statement in Columbia, the official organ of the Knights of Columbus, to the effect that the court was being influenced by religious prejudice, we deem it right and proper that James A. Flaherty make a public apology to the Supreme Court of Massachusetts and its members for his attitude and statements expressed as his personal views and not those of the order. Representatives of the Iowa State Council to the Supreme Council meeting, are instructed to demand the immediate resignation of Supreme Knight Flaherty and Supreme Advocate Pelletier and to vote as a unit on all matters tending to remove these officers."

The Supreme Council is to be held in Atlantic City in August.

Judge West Dies in Federal Prison.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., May 30.—Judge James A. West, Logansport (Ind.) attorney, who served several years as Police Judge of Indianapolis, died today at the Federal Penitentiary here, where he was received Dec. 6, to serve a sentence of two years on a charge of conspiring to violate the Volstead act.

Judge West was suffering from Bright's disease when admitted to the institution, physicians said, and was unable to walk alone. He played a prominent part in Indiana politics at one time.

Wreaths for Old Monuments in Churchyards of Trinity and St. Paul's.

PLANT MEMORIAL TREES

One for Every Staten Island Soldier Who Died in the World War.

In addition to the main Memorial Day celebrations, services and parades were held in many parts of the city and in the surrounding suburban communities. While for the most part the ceremonies were intended directly as tributes for those who died in the Civil War, the war with Spain and the World War, veterans of earlier wars of the United States were not forgotten. Flags were draped on the monument of Maj. Gen. Richard Montgomery, who fell in the attack of the American Revolutionary Army upon Quebec, in the cemetery of St. Paul's Chapel, Broadway and Fulton Streets. Similar decorations were placed on the monument of Captain James Lawrence, who was fatally wounded during the naval battle between the Chesapeake and the Shannon in 1813, in the churchyard of Trinity. Replicas of the original flag made by Betsy Ross floated over the grave of Alexander Hamilton and other revolutionary heroes in the older cemeteries of the city.

Among the veterans of the Revolution whose graves in Trinity churchyard were memorialized by Betsy Ross flags were General Matthew Clarkson, Colonel George Brewerton, Colonel John Ward, Marinus Willet, Captain Benjamin Parke, Captain Joseph Ruse and the Rev. John T. Todd.

950 Plaques for Bronx Men.

Five thousand veterans of the last three wars, a regiment of the National Guard and many patriotic organizations participated in the Bronx parade on the Grand Concourse. Rabbi Arthur H. Neulander of the Congregation of Tifferath Israel delivered the principal address. In memory of the Bronx men who died during the war, 950 memorial plaques were erected on trees lining the Grand Concourse.

The principal ceremony on Staten Island was that conducted by the American Legion at Hero Park, Stapleton Heights. A tree for every Staen Island man who died in the war has been planted in the park.

A statue designed by Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney and erected in memory of residents of Washington Heights and Inwood who met death in the war was dedicated yesterday at Mitchel Square, Broadway and 168th Street. Preceding the exercises 5,000 veterans led by Colonel William Hayward marched from Broadway and 135th Street and were reviewed by Major Gen. Robert Lee Bullard. The monument was unveiled by Margaret Meyer, sister of Fred H. Meyer, who won the Distinguished Service Cross, and Margaret Geoghegan, daughter of Harry P. Geoghegan, who was killed at the Marne. The memorial bears the names of 357 dead.

Services on East Side.

The Catholic Boy Scouts of America, to the number of 1,200, attended a memorial mass in the Lewisohn Stadium. The Rev. Dominick A. Cirigliano, pastor of the Church of the Nativity, Second Avenue and Second Street, made the principal address.

More than 5,000 persons attended service at Seward Park, Hester and Essex Streets. Addresses were made by Senator Bernard Downing, Magistrate Max S. Levine and Congressman Isaac Siegel.

A service for members of the merchant marine who died in the war was held by W. H. McClelland Post No. 1, of the United American War Veterans at Bedloe's Island. A wreath of poppies was placed at the base of the Statue of Liberty.

Members of the Seventy-first Regiment unveiled a monument to Corporal Robert L. Stead, who died in France in October, 1018, in Mount Hope Cemetery. Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, spoke at the celebration in Queens Village, Queens, following a parade led by Queens Post of the American Legion. Nearly 15,000 persons marched from Woodhaven to Jamaica, in the principal Queens Borough parade.

The burning of the wooden honor roll erected by the village of Port Chester was the most striking event in observance of the day in Westchester County. Veterans of the war had objected to the "wooden honor roll, which contained nearly 1,000 names, as unsightly. It will be replaced by a permanent memorial.

A contingent of 300 Brooklyn exempt firemen, headed by William H. Todd, President of the Todd Shipyard Corporation, was the feature of the Hoboken parade. Mary Griffin, daughter of Mayor Patrick R. Griffin, unveiled a $50,000 war memorial.

G. A. R. Concert in Carnegie Hall.

A memorial monument was presented to Jersey City by Clinton E. Fiske Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Addresses were made by a number of public officials.

The Grand Army of the Republic closed its Memorial Day observances with a meeting and concert in Carnegie Hall last evening, at which Commissioner Grover C. Whalen, son of the late commander of the Peter Cooper Post 313, G. A. R., presided.

"We owe these men something more than a legal re-establishment of the union," said Mr. Whalen in his address. "We owe them its spiritual reunion as well. They have set us the example of self-sacrifice, which, if followed in peace, will make it unnecessary that men shall follow war any more."

After the reading of the general order of General John A. Logan of Oct. 5, 1868, establishing Memorial Day, Lincoln's Gettysburg address was recited by Bertrand Isaacs, the young son of a G. A. R. New York official. Comrade Fred R. Meres, Commander of Mitchell Post 509, G. A. R., recited two original poems.

In introducing Commissioner Whalen, John B. Trainer, Chairman of the Memorial Committee, said that the number of living Civil War veterans in New York State had dropped from 17,000 in 1916 to 8,000 today, and those in the country at large from 160,000 to 90,000 in the same period.

"There were about 400 of us at Grant's Tomb today," he said, "but five years from now not a single veteran will be able to go there unless he is carried by an automobile."

YONKERS HONORS WAR DEAD

Unveils Monument to 170 as Part of Town's Golden Jubilee.

Unveiling yesterday of a monument to the 170 Yonkers heroes who died in the World War was the first large event of a series of exercises in connection with the celebration of Yonkers' golden jubilee, now in full swing, and which will last the rest of this week. Yonkers became a city fifty years ago.

The city is dressed in holiday attire, the national colors and also golden and white flags and bunting prevailing everywhere. The City Hall is decorated and is brilliantly illuminated nightly with thousands of electric lamps. A huge parade of military, municipal, fraternal and commercial interests will be held Saturday afternoon.

HARBORD AT BELLEAU WOOD

General Tells French No Friend Can Deny Their Right to Guard Against Germany.

Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 30.—The strength and endurance of France-American friendship were emphasized in Memorial Day exercises held today in Paris and the United States military cemeteries in France.

Speaking at Belleau Wood, Major Gen. Harbord, General Pershing's Chief of Staff and at one time commander of the Second Division, departed from the usual style of Memorial Day speeches and, in urging the French not to let passing political events make them doubt the love of America, said: "The politics of the day in neither country represents the great heart of the people." No one, he said, had the right to deny France the right to take the steps she thought best to forestall another invasion like that which the Americans helped to stem, and he added that America might well take lessons from the post-war conduct of France.

"Who can weigh the debt," he asked, "which the whole world owes to France—France, the Joan of Arc of nations? Bearing the greatest brunt of the war, our great sister republic has been permitted to bear the heaviest burden of peace.

"Fifteen centuries in which, at average intervals of fifty years, invaders have crossed the Rhine into France have colored French tradition. Such experiences have become part of her national consciousness. There has been no generation of Frenchmen in all these centuries which has not heard from its elders at the fireside and read in the national literature the story of the ravages of German armies on French soil, the latest and worst being that invasion of 1914-1918, in which these men of ours gave their lives. No friend of France can deny her right to shape her policies so that these bitter experiences can never again be repeated.

"Intimacy between nations, as between brothers, brings the penalty of frankness and sometimes criticism. We are frankest to those to whom we are closest. Let no doubt come to French hearts that America's love for France is undiminished. The politics of the day in neither country reflects the great heart of the people. The men who fought have not yet come into their inevitable control of the councils of the nations. The hour of bitter experience of France has drawn lessons our country would be wise to learn. She has not permitted her interest in the restoration of trade to blind her to the possibilities of war and the prudence of preparedness."

This morning the organization of American veterans marched to the Arc de Triomphe, where Ambassador Herrick laid a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in the presence of Marshal Foch and other French dignitaries. There were ceremonies at Fère-en-Tardenois, Romagne and Suresnes. At Suresnes Mr. Herrick said:

"There is a bond of sentiment which no force can destroy, nor can any future events affect the quality of our love."

Referring to the tender care which the French people give to American graves, wherever found in France, Mr. Herrick said, addressing Marshal Foch:

"Those gracious deeds repeated as Spring returns revive each year memories of so many deeds accomplished, so many hopes realized, so powerful an example placed before the whole world by our two great peoples, united in age-long confidence and affection."

Joffre Says France Will Never Forget.

PARIS, May 30 (Associated Press).—Memorial Day has significance in every French home where there are children, because several million French school pupils were told today what the American army and people did for France during the World War.

Americans decorating the graves of American soldiers buried in France found that one of the most touching features was thee propassions of children with flowers which they had picked themselves to place on the soldiers' graves with their own hands.

Expressions of gratitude for all that America had done for France furnished the chief feature of the principle memorial services held at the Suresnes Cemetery, near Paris. Marshal Joffre declared that France would never forget America's arrival in a time of utmost need, and said that despite political considerations the ties which bound the two republics were certain to grow stronger each year with the silent and eloquent encouragement which 40,000 American graves throughout France would give to such a cause.

At Suresnes, as at other cemeteries, the French people made the day their own. During the Suresnes ceremony a chorus of French orphans sang "The Star Spangled Banner" in English, having had three weeks of instruction. Ten thousand persons, including several thousand Americans, heard Myron T. Herrick, the American Ambassador, deliver an address, in which he asserted that the strong friendship between France and America would continue regardless of political developments.

Charles Bertrand, President of the Inter-Allied Federation of War Veterans, received an ovation when he declared that if the Government's failed to cement the friendship between France and America which had been wrought with the blood of millions these who had fought and lived would not stand by and see destroyed the thing for which they had dearly paid.

At Brest the day was celebrated in Kerfautras Cemetery with Mr. Williams, the American Consul, and Rear Admiral Schwerer and other French notables present. The children of the city and the Marine Band of Brest took part in the ceremony.

At St. Quentin General H. C. Sherrill, U. S. A., and Roland W. Boyden spoke. John Corrigan Jr., Consul at Havre, delivered an address at Fère-en-Tardenois. General Peter C. Harris was the principal speaker in the Romagne Cemetery, where every grave was decorated with the aid of French veterans and children.

At Cherbourg the Americans placed flowers on the graves of the sailors who died off that port in the fight between the Alabama and the Kearsarge. French veterans participated in the ceremony.

Special Church Service in London.

Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 30.—Memorial Day was celebrated here with appropriate ceremonies. Ambassador Harvey, accompanied by General John Biddle, went to the Cenotaph and laid at its foot a beautiful wreath of white lilies and red and white carnations, inscribed "To the memory of the glorious dead, from the American Legion."

Then they proceeded to St. Margaret's, Westminster, the church of the House of Commons, for a special service. In the congregation were Consul General Skinner, Lord Desborough, of the Pilgrims' Society; Evelyn Francis, of the English-Speaking Union; William Cross, of the American Luncheon Club; Mrs. C. H. C. Miller of the American Women's Club; Colonel Oscar R. Solbert, American military attaché; Captain Charles L. Hussey, American naval attaché, and Captain Louis A. Smith, of the American Legion.

The service began with "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." In place of the lesson the American chaplain read Lincoln's Gettysburg speech. Canon Carnegie delivered an address, in which he said that a service in the official church of the House of Commons carried with it some recognition from the chief representative assembly of the British people. It was one of the ways they had of expressing their gratitude for the part played by America in the great war and their desire to multiply and strengthen the bonds of mutual friendship and understanding between the two peoples.

Americans also laid wreaths and cut flowers before the statue of Washington in Trafalgar Square and that of Lincoln in Parliament Square.

Brookwood Soldier Cemetery Dedicated.

LONDON, May 30 (Associated Press).—Great Britain joined with the United States today in honoring the American soldier dead. At Brookwood this morning, the great plot of gorse-studded ground in which rest 450 American soldiers and sailors who gave their lives in the allied cause was solemnly dedicated as a national cemetery for the American illustrious dead.

Brookwood is twenty-eight miles from London, and the quiet cemetery in the Surrey uplands contains the bodies of the dead defenders of Great Britain and six of her overseas possessions. All around the American dead are those who were their near neighbors in life or companions in arms in death. Canadians, Australians, Newfoundlanders and Americans share the same soil for their final resting place.

Most of the American dead are those who died in English hospitals from wounds received in France and whose relatives wished that they might rest in the soil of Britain.

The dedicatory service was read by Chaplain H. S. Smith, U. S. A. The British army, the Government and the local authorities were represented, while the musical portion of the ceremonial was led by the Sherwood Foresters' band. Brigadier-General John Biddle, who commanded the American forces in the United Kingdom during the war, eulogized those who had given to America all they could give, "leaving the world a deathless legacy of unselfishness, help and devotion."

Gathered about the inclosure was a group of the residents of Brookwood who since the armistice had made the care of the American graves their own and who today lavished flowers and other tokens of reverence on the little grass mounds. Colonel Oscar R. Solbert, military attaché at the United States Embassy in London, represented the United States army; Francis E. Powell, the American colony in London, and Lieutenant Donald A. Smith of Michigan the London Post of the American Legion.

At Plymouth wreaths were placed on behalf of the American Legion in the church and the graveyard of Primestown in memory of the 250 Americans who died as prisoners of war in Dartmoor prison, 1812-14. Wreaths also were placed at the foot of the memorial window presented to the church by the Daughters of 1812.

There was an impressive ceremony in London at St. Gaudens's massive monument of Lincoln facing Westminster. Sir Harry Lauder, accompanied by a dozen Civil War veterans, the last survivors in England of the great American struggle, laid a laurel wreath on the pedestal of the Emancipator's statue. Private John Dowie of Buffalo, N. Y., 86 years old, who was a member of General Sheridan's cavalry, and Sergeant William McDougall of Chicago, who was one of Lee's bodyguard, stood on either side of the famous Scotchman, holding aloft the Stars and Stripes and the tattered standards of their respective regiments. Close at hand were groups of stalwart doughboys, veterans of the last war, standing at attention, completing the trinity of blue, gray and khaki.

Sir Harry said:

"For fifteen years I have placed a garland on the tomb of Lincoln at Springfield, Ill. I now deposit these flowers on behalf of those Americans whose forebears and relatives gave their lives in all the wars of American history."

PORTSMOUTH, England, May 30.—Battalions of American sailors and marines from the U. S. S. Utah, now in the harbor, came ashore today to do honor to the memory of a single comrade, Bertram Kinsell, a native of Utah, who is buried here. The Utah lowered her colors to half mast and was joined in honoring the American dead by all the British warships in the harbor.

COPENHAGEN, May 30.—The members of the American colony here, in observance of Memorial Day, placed flowers on the graves of the American and allied soldiers of Danish origin buried in the Copenhagen churchyards. Marion Letcher, the Consul General, delivered a eulogy at the principal cemetery.

WARSAW, May 30.—The graves of American soldiers of the army of General Joseph Haller, Commander-in-Chief of the Polish Army, were decorated by the American Legion today. Cardinal Kakowski officiated at memorial services in the Warsaw Cathedral. At Lemberg flowers were placed on the graves of American aviators of the Kosciusko Squadron.

COBLENZ, May 30.—The memorial services of the Rhine forces today were impressive. Units of the Eighth Infantry and of the American Legion attended services in the military chapel and from there marched to the military cemetery and placed flowers and flags on the graves.

DECK GETTYSBURG GRAVES.

Children Aid G. A. R. Veterans—Ceremonies in Other Cities.

GETTYSBURG, May 30.—School children of Gettysburg joined today with the veterans of the Civil War in decorating the graves of former Union soldiers in the National Cemetery here.

Many visitors were here to witness the simple ceremonies in observance of Memorial Day. These took place in the corner of the Gettysburg battlefield where the bodies of 3,564 men who fought in 1863 lie buried in semi-circular rows on a terrace sloping gently down from the National Soldiers' Monument.

While a band played a funeral march, the children—600 of them—and the veterans from Corporal Skelley Post, Grand Army of the Republic, passed among the graves, scattering flowers along the paths and between the mounds, 979 of which bear no names. Above each grave floated the flag for which the soldier beneath gave his life.

On a neighboring knoll stands a bust of Abraham Lincoln, marking the spot where on Nov. 19, 1863, the President delivered his immortal address dedicating the spot as the "final resting place of those who here gave their lives."

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—Veterans of three wars united today in paying homage to the memory of their comrades who sacrificed their lives in the cause of this country. In public squares and in all the cemeteries exercises were conducted by the G. A. R., the Spanish-American War Veterans and the American Legion, the places of honor being given to the organization of aged veterans whose ranks grow notably thinner each year. School children took a prominent part in the programs and also accompanied the veterans on their marches to the cemeteries, where they aided in placing flags and flowers on the graves of the nation's defenders.

The ceremony in Independence Square was in charge of Naval Post 400, G. A. R., and Naval Post 197, American Legion, and was perhaps the most picturesque of all. A notable feature of the exercises was the laying by the grizzled "sons" of '61 and the youthful "sons" of the World War of a wreath at the foot of the statue of Commodore Barry, hailed as the "Father of Our Navy."

HAZLETON, Pa., May 30.—Miners of the anthracite coal field took a prominent part in the celebration of Memorial Day. Thousands of young men employed in and about the collieries who fought in the World War marched with the veterans of '61-'65 in parades and helped to decorate the graves of the fallen dead.

YORK, Pa., May 30.—Twenty-five miles of the Lincoln Highway were dedicated today as a Road of Remembrance and planted with memorial trees. The Women's Club of York has been at work for two years on the plans.

Charles Lathrop Pack, President of the American Forestry Association, and Major R. Y. Stuart, Forester of Pennsylvania, were the speakers at the unveiling of the tablets at either end of the twenty-five-mile stretch.

Along both sides of the Lincoln Highway the memorial trees are allotted to the heroes of the World War. There is a marker at each end of the Road of Remebrance in York County, and individual trees will also be marked.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 30.—Major Gen. Clarnce R. Edwards, Commander of the Department of the Northeast, U. S. A., dedicated a memorial boulder on the village green in Longmeadow today to the men of that town who served in the wars from Colonial days to the recent world conflict. General Edwards also placed a wreath on the grave in the village cemetery of his ancestor, Lieutenant Nathaniel Burt, slain in an Indian war in 1675. An uncle of General Edwards, Colonel Oliver Edwards, commanded the Thirty-seventh Massachusetts Regiment, in which many Longmeadow Civil War veterans served.

VAN DYKE OPPOSES BONUS.

Princeton Memorial Day Orator Would Have the Disabled Helped.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 30.—Dr. Henry van Dyke of Princeton University Faculty strongl yopposed the Federal Bonus bill theda in a Memorial Da speech at the Princeton cemetery.

The Princeton student battery of the Field Artillery Reserve Officers' Training Corps, with representatives of the G. A. R., the Spanish-American War Veterans and the American Legion, marched to the cemetery, called "the Westminster Abbey of America."

"We shall honor our dead by upholding the cause and serving the country for which they gave themselves," Dr. van Dyke said, "not by pampering the unwounded and able-bodied survivors of the late war with a national bonus for doing their duty, but by helping the crippled and disabled with a wise and generous country; not by laying a heavier burden of taxes upon the coming generation, but by reducing taxation, improving business, encouraging industry, bettering our schools and making this country of ours in every city and town a healthier and a happier land for boys and girls to grow up in."

REFUSED $1,000 A NIGHT.

Sergeant York Prefers God's Service to Stage Movies.

WILMORE, Ky., May 30.—Sergeant Alvin York of Pall Mall, Tenn., in an address at the Decoration Day celebration here today at Asbury College, revealed that he had received offers of as high as $1,000 a night to go into vaudeville and motion pictures or on the lecture platform, but said he would rather be "a pauper and homeless, knowing that he was serving God and would have a home in heaven."

York said his faith in God carried him through the exploits that made him famous as a World War hero.

William Jennings Bryan followed him on the program, with an address on "evolution."

SHOPMEN THREATEN STRIKE ON WAGE CUT

that went into effect on July 1, 1921. The time was not deemed opportune, however, and the shopmen, through their refusal to join other classes, were largely instrumental in averting the general railway strike called last Fall.

Mr. Jewell, in announcing the ultimatum, asked to have a conference with the Labor Board Thursday. He will then formally request the board to take the action he has urged. The Labor Board is on record as sympathizing with the shopmen's grievance as to the farming out of work to contractors not within its jurisdiction and therefore not bound by its orders prescribing wages and working conditions.

In the Indiana Harbor Belt Line case the board recently ruled this procedure was in violation of the Transportation act. Similar cases involving other roads still are pending, but it is expected the decision will be virtually the same in each.

The complaint as to overtime pay presents greater complications, since the board, in prescribing working rules to succeed the national agreements made under Federal control of the roads, authorized elimination of time and a half pay to the tenth hour in the case of shopmen.

The move toward a strike by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, in national convention at Houston, Texas, in case their wages are reduced, excited less concern than the order for the issuance of a strike referendum by the maintenance of way and shop employes. The reason for this is that a reduction in the firemen's wages is not imminent, as they, like other train service men, are not involved in the present wage decisions.

Mr. Jewell said a reasonable time would be allowed for the board to order the roads to meet the shopmen's demands and for the roads to put them into effect and that even though a strike were decided on, it would not become effective before Sept. 1.

WOULD QUIT IF CUT.

Firemen's Convention Refers Preparatory Move to Committee.

HOUSTON, Texas, May 30 (Associated Press)—A motion to have the President and Secretary of the organization prepare complete instructions for firemen to leave the service if the United States Railroad Labor Board cuts their wages, was made today from the floor of the convention of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. The motion was referred to a committee which failed to report before the convention adjourned until Monday.

The motion specifies that the instructions be complete and that they should be placed in the hands of general chairmen, leaving blank the date for quitting the service of the various railroads. The instructions according to the motion, are to be mailed out in ample time to enable the men to walk out on the date the decision reducing wages becomes effective.

Wages of locomotive firemen and other train service employes were not raised in proportion to wages in other industries, the motion says. It states the belief of the brotherhood that it is the intention of the board to cut the firemen's wages.

CHICAGO, May 30.—No reduction of wages for firemen or any other classes of train or yard service employes not affected by the July 1 order is in prospect for several months, as these employes are not involved in the present wage decisions now being formulated by the United States Railroad Labor Board, it was said at the board today.

One of the stipulations on which the Big Four Brotherhoods agreed to call off the threatened strike last October was that no wage questions would be taken up before all rules disputes had been settled. The rules controversy between the Big Four and the roads is yet to be heard before the board and consequently no wage changes can be considered at this time, it was explained.

Even if an early date were set for the rules hearings and wage hearings should follow immediately, it was estimated that no decision would be possible before Sept. 1 at the earliest.

ACCEPT FREIGHT RATE CUT.

Eastern and Southeastern Lines Not to Contest Decision.

CHICAGO, May 30.—Acceptance by the thirty-seven railroads of the Eastern division of the Interstate Commerce Commission's 10 per cent. freight rate reduction and the decision by the Southeastern lines to make no fight against the ruling and not to demand a formal order from the commission was expected today to bring a prompt decision from the Western roads on the matter of applying for a formal order.

At a meeting yesterday the railroad executives of the Association of Western Railroads withheld their decision, pending action by other roads in the country on the $400,000,000 rate cut. S. M. Felton, Chairman of the association, and President of the Chicago & Great Western, said the action of the Western executives depended on decisions by the other roads, and he indicated that a definite announcement would speedily follow these decisions.

PUSHBALL GAME FATAL.

Brooklyn Boy Dies of Injury and His Rival Is Arrested.

Morris Abramowitz, 11 years old, of 116 Manhattan Avenue, Brooklyn, who was injured in a game of push ball near his home on May 25, died in St. Catherine Hospital, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon. The police arrested Abraham Meyer, 12, of 121 Johnson Avenue, Brooklyn, who, they say, admitted that he had kicked the other lad in the back after an argument in the game. He was charged with juvenile delinquency and sent to the Children's Society.

Abramowitz was captain of one team and Meyer the other.

APPERSON
MOTOR CARS

TIME-ECONOMY and ease in making adjustments are provided for in every mechanical unit of Apperson motor cars. For example, two positive and quick adjustments eliminate fatiguing back-lash and end-play in the steering gear. And the gear itself can be disconnected after 25,000 or 30,000 miles and turned to any one of three additional positions to take up possible wear. It's no trick at all for you to keep an Apperson in tune.

SERVICE THAT IS WORTH MORE THAN MONEY

THE man who demands and expects unstinted service of the very highest character is not disposed to haggle when he buys a motor car. He knows that such service is one of the most precious things one can buy, that it is not often found in a motor car or in anything else, that such service costs money, and is worth money. When he finds it, he is disposed to buy it, no matter what the cost, realizing that a few hundreds or even thousands of dollars is a poor compensation for the lack of it.

REICHSTAG MOURNS GIVING UP SILESIA

Flags at Half-Mast, Ministers in Black, as Geneva Agreement Is Formally Ratified.

PAN-GERMANS UNYIELDING

Spokesman Declares They Must Aim at Undoing the Measure—Protests Against League's Course.

By CYRIL BROWN.

Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Company.

BERLIN, May 30.—It was the blackest day in the Reichstag's history today. The republic's black, red and gold flags at the four corners of the Reichstag Building were half-masted. Chancellor Wirth, Foreign Minister Rathenau and all the Cabinet Ministers as well as Reichstag President Loebe wore funereal black and so did most of the Reichstag members. A huge yellow and white flag hung from the visitors' gallery was edged with mourning crepe and more than half a dozen heraldic shields were similarly trimmed. Those shields were the coats of arms of the corresponding "lost" German cities in that part of Upper Silesia going to Poland. The yellow and white creped flag was the colors of the partitioned province and the black-clad Ministers and Reichstag members were mourners for the lost portion of Upper Silesia.

Though officially the business of the hour was merely for the Reichstag to ratify the German Polish convention of Geneva regarding Upper Silesia, the occasion was fully exploited for funeral oratory for farewells to the "lost" provinces, and what few being aware of it the seeds of Germany's Upper Silesian revanche were sown into the Reichstag minutes, whence they are being broadcast through the press throughout Germany.

This is a historic day, for Germany's eastward revanche dream dates from it officially. The Reichstag Foreign Relations Committee's valedictory was delivered by Germany's foremost foreign political expert, Professor Otto Hoetzsch, member of the German National Party, who said:

The German Polish agreement is the result of the Council of Ambassadors' decision regarding the partition of Upper Silesia, which has been branded by all parties as a breach of the peace treaty, and solemn protests against it have been recorded from all parts of the Reich. The Foreign Relations Committee calls out to the Germans in the territory now become Polish: "Stay in the country!" Make use of the rights and safeguards which the Geneva Convention gives you. Make it the basis for cultural and economic Germanism in the land now become Polish."

Amid unanimous applause the Nationalistic spokesman bade farewell to the Germans of Polish Upper Silesia asserting they had always maintained inseparable spiritual ties with "the rest of Germany."

On behalf of the separated portion of Upper Silesia the Reichstag member Szczeponik, whose district is now Polish, said: "More than 400,000 Germans have been made Polish subjects by an arbitrarily drawn boundary. We will fulfill our duty as citizens, but our Germanism we will not give up."

BERLIN, May 30 (Associated Press).—The Reichstag today adopted the German-Polish agreement on Upper Silesia, which was recently concluded by a joint commission meeting at Geneva. The People's Party and Communist Deputies voted against ratification.

The Pan German, Dr. Hergt, declared that Upper Silesia would never perish in German hearts; its severance could never be permanent, it was an act of violence. Germany must resolutely and pertinaciously aim at undoing the measure and bring back their German brothers to the Fatherland.

President Loebe then bade farewell to the Germans in that part of Upper Silesia assigned to Poland. The members of the Reichstag stood throughout his address.

The Allgemeine Zeitung, commenting on the agreement, says that Germany's right to Upper Silesia is as clear as sunlight.

"The League of Nations has done what Napoleon in 1807 did not dare do when he created the Duchy of Warsaw," it adds. "Napoleon knew nothing of the right of self-determination, but the League has given Upper Silesia to Poland, though the Upper Silesians voted for Germany. There the Pole has neither racial nor historical right. Not an inch of Upper Silesian earth belongs to him, not a piece of Upper Silesian coal, not an ounce of Upper Silesian ore, not a pit nor a miner's shack."

French Minister at Cairo Receives No Reply to Request for an Explanation.

Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, May 30.—When I called at the French Legation this evening I was informed that the Minister had not received a reply to his telegram sent to Beirut yesterday asking for an explanation of how the French censors permitted the news of Charles R. Crane's alleged condemnation to appear in the highly censored Beirut press. The normal time for a reply to a telegram to Syria from Cairo is a few hours.

Since my interview with the French Minister yesterday I have obtained copies of three different Beirut papers containing accounts of Crane's alleged condemnation. The report appeared in Al Ahwal May 13, in Al Watan May 16 and in Al Hakikh May 17.

As Beirut is the headquarters of the French military censorship, it is obvious that the censors saw each paper as issued. It would be a slander on the painstaking care characteristic of the French bureaucracy, civil and military, to assume that such publications could have escaped the notice of the censors.

The Cairo native press publishes this evening a telegram from Haifa, the correspondent stating that reports of Crane's condemnation have been denied by the French Press Bureau at Damascus, but as the French Legation here stated it has no news from Syria I am unable to confirm this. In any event, it seems that the denial was published in Syria only after my inquiries here led to the original telegram to Beirut last Friday.

OLDFIELD WINS
in
"Battle of Tires"
at Indianapolis

(Special Telegraphic Dispatch from the Indianapolis Speedway, May 30th)

Jimmy Murphy wins 500-mile International Sweepstakes, average speed 94 48-100 miles per hour, on Oldfield Tires. Harry Hartz, second, average speed 93 54-100 miles per hour, on Oldfield Tires. Eight of the ten cars to finish in the money were Oldfield equipped. Murphy's time fastest ever made in this event---breaking track record by nearly five miles per hour.

Third Straight Victory for Oldfield Tires

Consider this latest Oldfield achievement—the official test conducted by Mayor Kemp of Wichita, Kan., on behalf of a group of automotive dealers, when—

Four Oldfield Cord Tires on a Studebaker car covered 34,525 miles over Kansas winter roads, without a single tire change. Mayor Kemp has made affidavit to this wonderful tire mileage record along with other features of the test, including oil and gasoline economy.

Another example of Oldfield's road endurance under severe conditions was—

The French Grand Prix, Europe's greatest race classic, where Oldfield Tires carried the winner safely and surely over 325 miles of rough, rocky country roads—the first time in history that American tires have won this event.

Races are won by skilled drivers at terrific speed. You will never put your tires to such a test. But the fact that virtually all racing drivers will trust no other tires but Oldfields is convincing evidence of that tire's inbuilt stamina and endurance.

You can enjoy this same safety and service by having your nearest dealer equip your car with Oldfield Cords at a cost no higher than you pay for other standard makes.

Sixty-one Branch Houses and dealers everywhere throughout the United States distribute Oldfield Tires.

1922 Records Made on Oldfield Tires

Earl Cooper, San Francisco, April 17th, broke world's record for stock chassis—average 93.24 miles per hour.

Jimmy Murphy, May 7th, Santa Rosa, Cal., new 10 mile world record—average 116 miles per hour.

Bar Association to Urge Move at Public Hearing—Fight Organized Crime.

Suggestion of a movement to prevent the manufacture of firearms and ammunition, except under governmental supervision, will be considered at a public hearing on methods of curbing crime to be held tomorrow by the Committee on Law Enforcement of the American Bar Association in the New York City Bar Association Building, 42 West Forty-fourth Street.

The hearing will open at 10:30 A. M. Former Attorney General William B. Swaney of Chattanooga, Tenn.; ex-Governor Charles S. Whitman of New York, Charles W. Farnham of St. Paul and former Attorney General Wade H. Ellis of Washington, D. C., are members of the committee.

The committee for several months has been studying the extent of lawlessness in this and other countries, and the causes and remedies for it. It is estimated that 90 per cent. of the murders in the United States are committed with revolvers, which the committee has found may easily and cheaply be obtained.

Measures for checking the activities of organized crime groups, which are known to exist and which are among the greatest forms of menace to this country, will be considered. The committee has evidence that these criminals have regularly retained professional bondsmen and expert witnesses, and that in many cities crime is protected.

HAWAIIAN CRATERS ACTIVE.

Lava Pouring From Napu, Makaopuhi and Other Volcanoes.

HILO, T. H., May 30 (Associated Press).—Volcanic disturbances spread today to Napu crater, four miles from Makaopuhi crater, which began filling yesterday, following an initial outbreak in an old crater half-way between the great volcano of Kilauea and the seaside village of Kalapana.

Today Napu was emptying a mass of roaring lava. Far off Haiemauuau, the central cauldron of the Kilauea crater, also active, continued to spread its lava surface, expanding, at last reports, to a pit 1,800 feet across, which was enlarging momentarily.

Experts expressed the opinion that the eruptions were caused by underground drainings at Kilauea.

In Mortgage Investments, Insist on a Definite and Adequate Guarantee of Payment

The mortgage field is as various, and in some respects, for the inexperienced, as dangerous as any other. It is being invaded by many dealers who are offering all sorts of mortgage investments to the public.

The simple and easy touchstone for the public is to inquire whether the principal and interest are guaranteed by a responsible guarantor or not. All other mortgages run the whole gamut from safe ones to poor and dangerous ones. Recommendations, history, and moral assurance weigh little as against an actual and adequate contract of guarantee.

Consult responsible people and buy only where reputation is backed by absolute guarantee and where responsibility for the outcome of the investment is covered by a contract with people you know, who can make good.

Mortgages guaranteed by this Company, as offered for sale by the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, meet all these requirements.

"Well!" said the little Eskimo, "I'll tell you all about it"

"Long, long ago there was a King whose boast it was that he had the best feasts that men could devise or cooks could cook.

"He had a beautiful daughter, as all Kings of olden time had. When she was old enough, the King announced that he would give his daughter's hand to him who would bring a new beverage that would be as beautiful as golden sunlight, would be icy-cold and hot at the same time, would sparkle and live through a whole feast, and which, while it quenched the thirst of the moment, would awaken desire for it in young and old, rich and poor, male and female.

"And in due time it came to pass that a handsome young Prince, aided by an old wizard, brought some roots from one island, some canes from another, and some fruits from a third. From below the ground, he drew the living waters of a magic spring. Then the old wizard blended the essences of the root and the fruits, sweetened them to a nicety and infused the whole with the bubbles that gave it life. And at the next feast the Prince won the King's daughter with the wonderful new beverage, which fulfilled all the King's conditions.

"'And what is the name of this beautiful, golden liquid?' asked the King when the feast was over.

"But the Prince had walked into the garden with the King's daughter, and there was no answer.

"So, my dears, we must assume that then and there was discovered the universal beverage, Ginger Ale—the one of which we say, 'They all like it.'"

Under the ground at Millis, Massachusetts, are springs of pure, cold water. The ginger used in Clicquot Club Ginger Ale comes from Jamaica. The sugar is from the cane. Lemon and lime juice are combined in the ginger ale that is cold and hot, is alive and golden, and which pleases everybody.

For your feasts, for meals and between meals, drink Clicquot Club Ginger Ale.

CHARGE COAL POLICE ASSAULTED PARTY

Attorney and Members of Civil Liberties Union Sue Vinton Co. for False Arrest.

UNTERMYER TO AID THEM

Hays Accuses Colliery Officials of Suppressing Free Speech—Breed Revolution, He Declares.

Arthur Garfield Hays, an attorney of 42 Exchange Place, who has been investigating conditions in the Pennsylvania coal fields for the American Civil Liberties Union, 138 West Thirteenth Street, announced yesterday that he was bringing action for "assault, battery and false arrest," on behalf of himself and the members of his party, against the Vinton Colliery Company, with New York offices at 50 East Forty-third Street. Mr. Hays alleges that he and the members of his party bringing the suit were attacked by coal and iron police in Vintondale on May 27.

Mr. Hays said he had spent yesterday afternoon in conference with Samuel Untermyer at the latter's home at Greystone-on-Hudson, and that Mr. Untermyer had promised to co-operate with him in his efforts to end repressions in the Pennsylvania coal fields. Mr. Hays charges that he was arrested by the coal and iron mounted police while he was trying to study conditions in the coal fields, and that he retaliated by causing the arrest of four of the police, their leader and three officials of the Vinton Colliery Company. The President of the Vinton Colliery Company is Clarence W. Schwerin.

On behalf of the American Civil Liberties Union, the United Mine Workers, and members of his party, Mr. Hays also disclosed that he was suing for an injunction restraining the coal operators and their police from interfering with access to the Borough of Vintondale and from breaking up proper assemblage and restraining freedom of speech.

Found an Armed Camp.

"I found Vintondale an armed camp," said Mr. Hays yesterday. "It is no longer an American city. The coal and iron police, mounted and heavily armed, acting under the directions of the coal company, permit no one to stand for a moment on the streets and greet arrivals with threats of arrest, obscene language and physical violence.

"No sooner had our party arrived in Vintondale to hold a meeting to test the rights of free speech than we were ridden down by armed guards who assaulted us and attempted to throw us back bodily into the automobiles in which we had come. They said to us: 'You bust up or we'll bust you up.' We left town to obtain warrants for their arrest and returned with constables from the nearby town of Nant-y-Glow.

"We identified the police who had assaulted us and the company officials who had given them orders, and I was on my way to see the Justice of the Peace, who was holding court in the coal company's office, when I was arrested on the charge of trespassing. I was seized by two troopers who threw me into a filthy cell, where I was held in confinement for an hour.

"When I appeared before the Justice of the Peace, he informed me that he would hear my case. He asked me if I was ready for trial, and when I replied in the affirmative his answer was: 'Guilty: I fine you $5.' I protested at this and he then announced that he would suspend the fine on condition that I would leave the town. When I refused to leave Vintondale and demanded a hearing, he then stated that the case was concluded; that I was not guilty and would not be fined, and he and the company guards left me alone in the court room.

Charges Rule of Force.

"This terrorizing of citizens on the part of the coal and iron police is no mere incident of the strike. The coal companies have exercised complete control over the civil authorities of Vintendale and other mining towns for many years. They employ their own policemen; they close post offices, eject visitors from the towns and hold court in their own offices. The American Civil Liberties Union, which I represent, will see this case through to the end. Such well-nigh incredible conditions are a disgrace to the State of Pennsylvania. They make for revolution. There is only one rule in Vintondale, the rule of force."

Roger Baldwin, director of the American Civil Liberties Union, said yesterday:

"The arrest of Mr. Hays proves conclusively that the rights of free speech and assemblage have been abrogated in the Pennsylvania coal fields. With the co-operation of Samuel Untermyer, the union, through Mr. Hays, will take every legal step to bring the coal operators to a realization of the fact that they are within the law. If necessary we shall send other representatives to speak in the closed towns in order to develop a genuine knowledge of American institutions among the foreign workers."

WAR FILES FOR PRINCETON.

Benjamin Strong Gives Fund for German Papers.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 30.—The Princeton University Library today received a cash gift for the purchase of a complete collection of German newspapers covering the period of the World War. The donor is Benjamin Strong, President of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

The newspapers will be bound in volumes and each page will be covered with a thin sheet of transparent paper. Experiments are under way for a chemical treatment of the newspapers to preserve them indefinitely.

The Bridal Procession Grows

Home life is not sacrificed on the altar of votes and financial independence. Marriage rates increase—but a new scientific attitude is taken toward the vocation of homecraft

MEN who fear lest financial independence and political equality for women is wrecking home life, and producing the Amazonian woman in America, have but to turn to the U. S. Census reports on the marital state of women.

There were almost twice as many married women in 1920 as in 1890, although the population did not show a proportionately great increase, and regularly, all through the past thirty years, the marriage rate has grown by tremendous leaps.

A new type of housewife

True it is, however, that woman's breaking away into broader business and social movements has wrought a new home life. The modern housewife seeks to systematize the complex tasks of home-keeping to allow herself greater freedom for a participation in the stirring activities of a new era.

She, the intelligent new home-creator, is fast substituting for a planless, haphazard, never-ending housekeeping, a home life based on definite systems, on an understanding of proper nutrition (vitamines, mineral salts, tissue building foods, calories)—a planned budget and menu—child rearing based on a study of infant feeding and child psychology—home decoration and dress through a study of designs, color schemes, new stitches and patterns.

Fully two-thirds of a million women are today reading regularly a magazine devoted almost entirely to such strictly instructional home-keeping data.

A trade journal for women

While all other leading women's general and housekeeping magazines devote the greater share of their pages to fiction and general feature articles, Modern Priscilla has been devoting the bulk of its space to authentic data on all phases of household activities—needlework, the culinary art, dietetics, infant rearing, dress for women and children, home decoration.

Only fourteen per cent of the pages of Modern Priscilla are devoted to fiction.

During 1920, Modern Priscilla devoted more space to cooking, housekeeping and needlework than all other leading women's magazines, housekeeping or general.

All recipes and housekeeping data are based on actual use and efficiency, passing through several stringent tests before publication.

Every needlework design shown in Modern Priscilla must be completely worked out before finding a place in the columns of the magazine, so that every stitch is authentic. This is true of all the embroidering, crocheting, knitting, weaving, tatting, appliqueing, and every type of needlework design shown each month.

A home laboratory

As a guarantee of the authenticity of homecraft data appearing in Modern Priscilla, a completely appointed home in the suburbs of Boston is occupied by its housekeeping editors, and there they test every recipe, every food product, every household appliance recommended to Modern Priscilla readers.

These products, after passing a stringent technical test, are put through three rigorous home tests under actual home conditions—(1) by an expert housewife with laboratory experience—(2) by an expert housewife without scientific training—(3) by a novice preparing for homecraft.

Products that pass these tests for home utility and efficiency are awarded a certificate of merit and the right to use the PPP seal—the guarantee of the Priscilla Proving Plant.

Manufacturers desiring the PPP seal, marked "HOME TESTED AND APPROVED—PRISCILLA PROVING PLANT." on their products, whether foods, textiles, art needlework or household appliances, as a guarantee to women purchasers—are invited to avail themselves of the four Priscilla home products tests. If interested, write to the Home Testing Department, Modern Priscilla, Boston, Mass.

Tire Competition — Good, Bad and Indifferent

THE average American was raised on the idea that the more people who competed for his trade the better off he was.

Like many good ideas, it has several sides.

They all show themselves clearly in the tire business.

There are tires which prefer to compete largely on a price basis. Believing that the public is more interested in the dollars and cents they pay than in the worth of what they get.

On the other hand, U. S. Royal Cords believe differently.

And car-owners who use Royal Cords have a plus feeling which they get both from actual experience, and because they realize the the integrity of the manufacturer.

People don't think of Royal Cords as high-priced tires. They think of them as better tires.

In the man who knows what a good, faithful product the Royal Cord is, the tire that makes price its main argument hardly arouses more than a little curiosity.

So which is better?

A tire that thinks a man has no judgment beyond his pocket-book?

Or a tire like the U.S. Royal Cord—which credits the public with the instinct for quality, and the sense to find out true economy?

Prices on United States Passenger Car Tires and Tubes, effective May 8th, are not subject to war-tax, the war-tax having been included.

THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY OBSERVES ALUMNI DAY

Degree Conferred Upon Patriarch of Greek Church and Two Other Clergymen.

Commencement exercises of the General Theological Seminary, Chelsea Square, which began with a baccalaureate sermon Monday night, continued yesterday—Alumni Day. Many alumni of the institution participated.

There was a morning celebration of the holy communion in memoriam of departed alumni and former students, followed by a business meeting of associate alumni in Sherred Hall. The alumni luncheon was served in the gymnasium.

In the afternoon the alumni attended services in the chapel, when the Rev. Herbert Parrish of the class of 1904 read the alumni essay, "A Chair of Mystical Theology." Later the Board of Trustees met in Sherred Hall.

There are twenty graduates this year.

The Board of Trustees voted to confer the degree of Doctor of Divinity on the Rev. Caleb R. Stetson, rector of Trinity; the Rt. Rev. Philip Cook, Bishop of Delaware, and Meletios Metaxkis, patriarch of the Greek Church, Athens Greece.

There was a reception by the Faculty to the trustees, the alumni and friends in the gymnasium from 4 to 6 P. M.

The degree of Master of Sacred Theology was conferred by the seminary on the Rev. Yoichiro Imasaki and that of Bachelor of Sacred Theology on the Revs. Charles Raymond Barnes, Frederick John Buttery, Arthur Roland Cummings, Walter Frank Hayward Jr., John William, Robert Heritage Harvey, Foo-Dang Huang, John Wesley Johnson, William Peter, Sixtus Lander, Charles Eldridge McAllister and William Gordon Thompson.

The Henderson Leaves Panama.

PANAMA, May 29.—The United States transport Henderson, with Secretary of the Navy Denby and members of the Naval Academy class of 1881 on board, sailed from here today on its way to Japan. Before sailing a group of Secretary Denby's party made a tour of inspection through the canal fortifications.

Florida Tarpon in English Channel.

BRIGHTON, Eng., May 15.—A tarpon, a fish commonly found in Florida waters but never before seen in the English Channel, was caught off Brighton recently. It measured twelve feet in length and did more than $100 worth of damage to nets before it was landed.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"La Tendresse," by Henri Bataille, was produced in San Francisco last night by Henry Miller. The cast included Mr. Miller, Blanche Bates, Ruth Chatterton and Bruce McRae.

Pedro de Cordoba has been added to the cast of "The Rivals," which will be presented at the Empire next week under the auspices of the Players Club.

Mitzi will again tour in "Lady Billy" next season, returning to New York in February to begin rehearsals in a new musical piece by Zelda Sears and Harold Levey. She will sail for Europe on June 3.

Walter Scanlan will tour as usual next season with a new play by E. E. Rose as his vehicle.

McIntyre and Heath are giving an additional matinee today of their new musical comedy, "Red Pepper," at the Shubert Theatre.

FINDS ROSENWASSER SANE.

New Decision in Slayer's Case Unofficially Reported.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, May 30.—With the unofficial announcement today that the State's alienists again had declared that Julius Rosenwasser, due to be put to death in the electric chair in Sing Sing Thursday night, was sane, it was learned that Governor Nathan L. Miller would hold a hearing in his case in Albany tomorrow.

Rabbi Jacob Katz of the Bronx, the Jewish chaplain of Sing Sing, has applied to Governor Miller to grant a respite because the execution date falls on the same day as the feast of Pentecost and Rabbi Katz has services in the Bronx. The Governor has notified the rabbi he would grant him a hearing tomorrow forenoon.

Rosenwasser has had two reprieves previously. The last one was given by the Governor in order to permit the State lunacy commission, headed by Dr. Raymond Kieb of Beacon, to re-examine Rosenwasser, in conjunction with other alienists selected by Rosenwasser's counsel, former Judge Leonard Snitkin of Manhattan. Dr. Mortimer Sherman of Brooklyn headed the alienists who examined the prisoner and conferred with the Commission. The Commission, it was reported today, has sent to Governor Miller a new report in which it stands by its original finding that the prisoner is sane.

The prisoner was convicted of the murder of Jacob Mazzura on Stanton Street, Manhattan, last year.

SHOOT 2 IN COCKFIGHT RAID.

Bay State Officers Arrest 100 Other Men Near Springfield.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 30.—Two men were shot, 100 others were arrested, 100 gamecocks were seized and a cockfighting derby of Massachusetts and Connecticut was brought to an abrupt end this afternoon when State Constabulary officers and Agawam police, under State Detective David J. Manning, surrounded and raided a three-ring game fight circus, staged in a tobacco barn in Feeding Hills.

Of the men shot, Robert McBride, 60 years old, of Suffield, was most seriously injured, having more than fifty small birdshot in his body. The second man injured was Walter Chapman of Norwich, Conn. According to the police, the men were trying to escape when fired upon.

The raid was one of the most spectacular ever seen in this section. Many of the men attending the fight made desperate efforts to escape and fought furiously with the officers.

LOCUST PLAGUE IN ITALY.

Masses a Foot Deep Destroying Gardens Near Naples.

NAPLES, May 30. (Associated Press)—Billions of locusts are destroying fields and gardens in the farming district six miles from this city. Within the last four days many acres of wheat, hops, clover and corn have been wiped out, and it is estimated that the pests are causing $20,000 damage daily.

Last year a few locusts appeared and their eggs are now producing a scourge of insects which cover the land in some places in masses a foot deep. The distracted population has implored the help of the Government, and measures are being taken to prevent the spread of the plague. The war stocks of disparating gases and flame throwers have been hurried to the stricken locality.

Woolwine Seeks California Office.

NERO
No. 3—WORLD
Its scenes of the burning of Rome are the finest things of their kind we have seen in pictures. . . . Yet it is without question the alluring, beautiful scenic effects and the fearfully realistic "action" views that mark "Nero" as being the rare picture that it is.
When a motion picture of the quality of "Nero,"—always entertaining, often heart touching and nerve tingling, never horsecome—comes to town the best thing to do is to advise every one you know to go and see it. This we hereby do.

Half a Million Trial Tubes of Kolynos Dental Cream

FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND trial tubes of KOLYNOS DENTAL CREAM are being given away, FREE, in New York City, at the present time.

They are being presented to passersby on the street by our own efficient force of distributors—a force of young ladies trained to this work.

These young women distributors easily distinguished by their picturesque yellow, white and green costumes—the Kolynos colors—you will encounter on the principal thoroughfares of the city, each with a basket from which she hands out the trial tubes.

Don't Fail to Get a Tube

One of these trial tubes is INTENDED FOR YOU. Do not fail to obtain it.

There is no need of giving this advice to the hundreds of thousands of present users of KOLYNOS DENTAL CREAM in this city. They will gladly take the sample, because THEY KNOW the unique value of Kolynos.

But you who HAVE NOT YET become Kolynos users—it is YOU PARTICULARLY that we want to reach with this trial tube.

Compare It with Others

If this dentifrice is what tens of thousands of dentists and physicians say it is—THE BEST FOR YOU TO USE—you deserve to have the proof put in your hands.

THIS TRIAL TUBE IS THE PROOF.

We have on file in our New Haven laboratories personal applications from over 47,000 American Dentists and 74,000 American Physicians for Kolynos Dental Cream, to distribute among their patients.

Give this sample of Kolynos a drastic test. Compare it with the dentifrice YOU ARE NOW USING, by brushing your teeth with them alternately. Use ONE-HALF INCH of Kolynos on your DRY tooth-brush, morning and night, JUST FOR A FEW DAYS.

Then, when you rinse your mouth with water, GARGLE YOUR THROAT WITH THE SOLUTION.

You will immediately experience a sensation of COMPLETE MOUTH CLEANLINESS you have never felt before—your teeth will feel satiny-smooth to your tongue.

You will have started a LIFE HABIT.

The Fascination of the Imagined World.

WHAT entrancing figures come crowding forward when we think of the world of imagination!

Ivanhoe, Jean Valjean, Macbeth, Becky Sharp, Robinson Crusoe, David Copperfield, d'Artagnan, Tom Jones, Tess of the D'Urbervilles, Maggie Tulliver—what a vast and varied company!

Many of that company are more real than the actual personages of history—than dusty kings, fusty generals, dull statesmen, stupid soldiers of fortune.

Why?

Because the imagination of the story-teller has seen into life, got hold of its essence, created human beings who not only interpret past ages and all time, but illumine our own lives now.

That is the reason for the eternal fascination of good fiction. It broadens the horizon. It widens the sympathies. It opens the doors of time and space into lives and experiences otherwise closed to us. But above all it helps us to understand ourselves.

And that is why you see the executive as well as the mechanic, the banker as well as the ranchman and the miner, the clubwoman as well as the rancher's wife, reading fiction.

THE ENTENTE A NECESSITY.

Sir THOMAS BARCLAY, who had a great deal to do twenty years ago with the formation of the Anglo-French Entente, had an article in the Figaro of May 18, lamenting the indications that the work then accomplished seems now to be in peril. He frankly analyzes the differences which have lately arisen between France and England. On both sides he sees a failure to understand the point of view of the other. Englishmen do not rightly grasp the pressing economic needs of France, nor the absolute necessity that she make her national life secure. As for the French, Sir THOMAS politely suggests to them that they do not comprehend the industrial and social anxieties of England. He reminds them that it is not dislike of France or sudden affection for Germany which has led the English Government to seek a general financial restoration in Europe, one result of which may be to give more work to the two millions of unemployed in England. In both countries, Sir THOMAS points out, bitter things have needlessly been said in the press, and statesmen have been guilty of hasty or foolish utterances. But he is hopeful that these are only passing clouds and that the Entente will emerge from them as a demonstrated benefit, and an essential of foreign policy, for both nations.

The desirability of maintaining a good understanding between France and England has just been emphasized in an unexpected way at the bankers' meeting in Paris. It is reported that both American and Dutch financiers have urged in the strongest way that a firm Anglo-French Entente is requisite to the floating of a German loan. They think of it as a part of the security. If France and England are closely bound together, and if Germany understands that, with or without a formal defensive alliance between the two, they will stand as an impassable barrier to any new German aggression that might be planned, the German Government would be driven to a policy of peace for many years. In any case, it has been impressed upon both the British and French authorities that they must somehow give this kind of united pledge as an inducement to foreign investors to take a share of the German loan.

Thus we find imperative financial motives reinforcing those which are political and moral. If the Entente did not exist, it would have to be invented. Being in existence, it should be supported and strengthened as the best of guarantees for the future welfare of Europe.

PRIMARY AND MACHINE.

Gratifying as the success of Mr. GIFFORD PINCHOT in the Pennsylvania Republican primaries is to all the friends of generous political aspirations and of good government, the believers in the saving virtue of the direct primary seem inclined to make too much of this illustration of its value. In many States the bosses have turned the new instrumentality to their own purposes without trouble. In New York, for instance, the old Republican and Democratic local gods of the machine reign undisturbed. If it be said that, under the old system, the voters of a party, after long neglect of their duties, would finally be aroused to foment the domination of the bosses by voting the other ticket as in the uprisings against PLATT and HARRISON in New York and the election of a Democratic Governor in Pennsylvania forty and thirty years ago, whereas in Pennsylvania the machine has been beaten in the party without disruption of the party, it is fair to point out that the recent Pennsylvania contest was not quite so simple.

The machine was divided against itself. Mr. PENROSE himself had fought and beaten the VARES, the great Philadelphia oligarchy. His death was the signal for a vain struggle for his mantle. In some important counties his former lieutenants were active on Mr. PINCHOT's side. If the machine had been united, there is no reason to suppose that Mr. PINCHOT could have won. It is for the Keystone mathematicians to determine whether Mr. PINCHOT, who carried so many counties, could or could not have got a majority in a State convention. Assuming that he could not, it must be conceded that for once the direct primary has done, in part, what was expected of it. Neither the delegate plan nor the direct primary plan is anything more than a device, to be judged by its usual results in the long run. Taking the country at large, those results have not been flattering to the new method. It needs ample justification, since it proceeds on the theory that representative government can't be applied successfully to party government.

Another consideration appears in Mr. PINCHOT's expense account. Pennsylvania campaign expenditures are not limited by law. Mr. PINCHOT personally expended some $93,000. Mr. ALTER, his opponent, spent some $1,100, of which $1,000 was given by a Pittsburgh committee. Of course, a lot of money was spent for him; and the inevitable expenses of a campaign in so large and populous a State as Pennsylvania must have been high. Suppose Mr. ALTER had been a rich man, and had contributed nearly $100,000 and got the nomination, what a howl the righteous would have emitted! Mr. PINCHOT's wealth is no argument against him; and he has notable intellectual and moral qualifications for popular favor and high office. But here again one old and common objection to the direct primary shows its head. It requires the use of a great deal of money. In many States it has brought forward the candidacy of rich men. It necessitates two sets of campaign expenses. If the candidate himself be not rich, rich friends must tap their pocketbooks for his benefit. Extraordinary sums have been spent in some campaigns. To reach the voters in the great States takes a large sum. To reach the voters of the United States in a "Presidential primary" campaign costs an immense amount. Indignation should burn against the system, not the candidates who make use of it.

Mr. PINCHOT spent $11,000 for copies of the voting list and $41,000 for postal cards sent to the voters. He couldn't have spent less with any justice to his prospects; and yet the bill looks large. But remember that the actual campaign is yet to come. We applaud him and his methods and his expenditures; but the devotees of the direct primary should not be blind to the obvious objections to it that appear even in the triumph of so meritorious a candidate.

MR. BORAH'S RUSSIAN MYSTERY.

Senator BORAH addresses the Senate every few days about the recognition of Soviet Russia, but he has said nothing lately about that phase of the Russian problem in which he was most interested a few weeks ago, the doings of BORIS BAKHMETEFF. General SEMENOFF is going to be investigated further, it appears, when Mr. BORAH gets further evidence; but in the meantime what about the man whom he regards as BAKHMETEFF's "principal," as "the counselor and harborer of a murderer"? And what about the overshadowing crime, the missing $187,000,000?

The Senator's questions about it remained unanswered by the State Department, but it was intimated that if they were embodied in a Senatorial resolution the information would be furnished promptly. Why doesn't Mr. BORAH, in his zeal for the truth, introduce this resolution and press it to passage? There is no reason for any Senator to vote against it. If BAKHMETEFF has counseled and harbored murderers and stolen $187,000,000 raised by American taxpayers, he is a bad character, and something ought to be done to him. Why does Mr. BORAH leave it to the daring TOM WATSON to remind the Senate, and the public, of the missing millions?

Possibly Senator BORAH is ashamed of some of the company in which he found himself. But any stick is good enough to beat BAKHMETEFF. First he was denounced for introducing SEMENOFF into the country and helping him plan a revolution to restore the empire that BAKHMETEFF's political associates overthrew. That didn't hold water, but immediately Mr. BORAH and his volunteer allies began to ask what he had done with American money. Then the issue changed again. The Nation, passing by the disposition of the $187,000,000 lent by America to the Kerensky Government, asked what BAKHMETEFF was doing with the money borrowed by Russia in England, or from private American bankers, before 1917, and on deposit in this country.

It is arguable that these funds from British or private American sources should have been confiscated when the Kerensky Government fell, and applied to the liquidation of that Government's debt to the United States. But that is a different thing from accusing BAKHMETEFF of buying real estate and opening wide with the money loaned by the Treasury. For critics of this sort, one assertion is as good as another. But Senator BORAH has a higher reputation and a greater authority. He put these accusations on the front page. Is he going to let them drop without either proof or retraction, in the familiar Senatorial way?

SELECTIVE IMMIGRATION.

The plan of establishing outposts for our immigration service in European ports, which was a part of the program of the present Administration, encountered difficulties in international law. It is good news that they are in a way to be overcome. In his speech before a luncheon of shipping men, the Assistant Secretary of Labor, Mr. E. J. HENNING, said that his department now "expects to perform the work through the co-operation" of the nations concerned.

So long as effective supervision is delayed until the immigrant's arrival, heartrending and indeed tragic injustice will be inevitable. Husbands have been separated from wives, parents from children. Not infrequently, whole families that have sold their scant belongings in Europe and invested the proceeds in the trip across the Atlantic have become liable to deportation, and thus rendered destitute. When our officials are stationed in European centres they will be able to study the intending immigrant in his former environment; in doubtful cases they will, presumably, have access to public records. It should thus be far easier to detect and debar criminals and anarchists.

Mr. HENNING uttered a growing conviction when he spoke against "the "immigrants who come for the purpose of making money, with no intention to become citizens, but return after having saved the largest "possible percentage of their earnings." In the merely economic sense, such immigrants are profitable to our great industries; but even economically the country as a whole suffers a drain on its resources. Socially, the transient immigrant is little short of a calamity. The squalor in which he lives and the low wages and long hours to which he submits drive out the American worker. Many such immigrants, moreover, end by remaining here. In the conditions under which they labor, true Americanization is impossible. The life that at first seemed a privilege becomes, by comparison with the life of other Americans, an oppression. Especially is this true in the case of their numerous children. Several of our basic industries have already become hotbeds of radical propaganda.

According to statistics which Mr. HENNING quoted, 70 per cent. of the immigrants from one nation which supplies cheap labor in large quantities have a "mental age" of eleven years or less. Among another nationality 20 per cent. are low-grade morons, having a mental age of nine years. The time is coming when the intending immigrant will be judged not merely as a "hand," but with regard to his brain and character—as a potential citizen.

MORE MEXICAN MELODRAMA.

Timed to fall in with Finance Minister DE LA HUERTA's arrival in the United States come reports of an imminent and widespread revolution in Mexico. Money, men and arms are notably lacking. Our State Department discredits the whole story. Such local uprisings as have occurred of late have been speedily suppressed by the Obregon Government. Nor is FELIX DIAZ a leader to be greatly feared. One bit of propaganda has, unconsciously, the force of understatement. ZAPATA, put forward as a supporter of DIAZ, is admitted to have "lost much of his power." Quite true. The last time he attempted to lead his peons of Morelos in uprising he was put to death by CARRANZA. A week ago the press of the City of Mexico professed to dissuade the Finance Minister from his mission, picturing him as a David advancing to slay Goliath. Doubtless the two utterances have origins widely different, but they belong together as indicating a significant feature of the present situation—which is its atmosphere of unreality.

The Wilson Administration exhausted all the offices of hopeful friendliness, including formal recognition, and the only result was a series of rebuffs, indeed of insults, that established CARRANZA in power as the champion not only of Mexico but of all Latin America against the "Colossus of the North." That spirit of hatred and distrust lives on. The cleavage has been widened by the Communist movement set on foot by the Madero revolution. From our point of view this also is a delusion; but in Mexican politics it is a power. It is the present expression of a purpose to right the ancient wrong from which the people of Mexico are still suffering. If not today, revolution is possible tomorrow. Señor DE LA HUERTA is an apostle of the liberalizing movement. If, as is reported, he is an out-and-out Communist, it must be added that he is a member of the Obregon Government, which has shown an administrative soundness and a force of common sense unexampled since PORFIRIO DIAZ. The present problem is to reorganize finances and re-establish diplomatic relations without giving a political lever to the protagonists of Mexican melodrama.

Our State Department feels a genuine sympathy for the neighbor republic and stands ready to give all possible aid. Stabilized government and renewed productivity afford the only possible basis for a free and happy Mexico. Whatever the immediate result of the Finance Minister's mission, it will serve the best of ends if it convinces him of this.

CANADA UNWILLING.

The project of an international waterway to connect the Great Lakes with the St. Lawrence River has been brought up with a round turn by Prime Minister MACKENZIE KING's reply to a communication from the United States Government. It is that the necessary preliminary of drafting a treaty will not be taken up at this time by Canada. Our Middle West has dreamed of the transformation of the cities of the Great Lakes into seaports in touch with Liverpool, London and Hamburg, and now will feel acute disappointment. The ship subsidy advocates will no longer be able to offer votes for the waterway in exchange for support of their scheme.

Whether the Canadian Premier's reluctance to negotiate a treaty is due to pressure from Montreal, which would be adversely affected by a Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway, or whether he holds his tenure by too narrow a margin to risk a controversy, the project is shelved at least for this session of Congress. That is not a calamity. In its optimism the West would have rushed a bill through Congress, with the co-operation of the subsidy log-rollers, in no time. It was disagreeable news to the Westerners that a treaty with Canada must precede legislation, but they must now yield to the inevitable. Time has been gained for sober second thought about the international waterway. The engineers' estimate of cost was not definite, as Governor MILLER showed in his debate with Governor ALLEN of Kansas. Instead of a quarter of a billion, the enterprise might cost twice as much, or even a round billion. The Westerners argued cheerfully that sales of hydroelectric power to the Eastern manufacturers would pay the whole bill. To paint a picture of Chicago or Duluth as destined to become another Liverpool or Hamburg might please the prairie farmer, but it seemed like a caricature when figures of draught and tonnage and comparative cost of operation of big cargo-carriers and tramps were produced. Nature, after all, has something to say about great seaports.

It will do no harm to set the best specialists at work upon the engineering and economic aspects of the business and relegate the partisans and propagandists to the rear to cool off. If the waterway can be proved to be feasible and profitable, it is bound to come, but the honest doubters must be shown. The further time for which Governor MILLER pleaded has now been assured by the action of Canada.

THE PACIFIC RAILWAY DECISION.

The decision by the Supreme Court that the Southern Pacific must dissolve its control of the Central Pacific is upon purely legal grounds, on the theory that their common ownership is obnoxious to the statute prohibiting combinations in restraint of trade. Courts do not think themselves free to consider economics in the construction of statutes. The particular statutes involved date from the time when it was thought that railway rate wars were of public benefit. But experience demonstrated that the public suffered in common with the railways by too low railway rates, and the Interstate Commerce law was passed to substitute regulation of rates for uneconomic competition between railways. A similar reason underlay the enactment of the Sherman law for the regulation of trusts.

In this case, as in the Trans-Missouri case, the Government succeeds only in the highest court, the lower courts having held that the Sherman law did not apply to acts before its enactment, and that the Sherman law forbade only acts in unreasonable restraint of trade. The Supreme Court feels bound by its decision in the Trans-Missouri case that the Sherman law forbids even reasonable railway combinations in theoretical restraint of trade. It is idle to surmise what the court might have held if such railway cases had been brought after the establishment of the rule of reason. Not even the Supreme Court can compel railways both to compete without restraint and to comply with the rates fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Only lawyers are interested in this legalistic phase. Only the owners of the properties are interested in their separation. The broad interest in the decision is in its economic effects. Presumably, they will be slight. The Interstate Commerce Commission will not cease to function. And even Congress has come to see that some methods of the railway managers are more economic than statutes. Railway consolidation is now favored even by statute. The Interstate Commerce Commission is today overseeing the grouping of the railways into systems. The separation of these Pacific railways might in due course have come about for railway reasons. The old "high financing" was obnoxious, but it is no longer practiced. It now has little to do with the regulation of railways in their service of the public.

ON GIVING ADVICE.

Lord DERBY has intimated that America seems to him to be "more "fond of giving advice than of taking responsibility." One might, in retort courteous, recall the lines in SPENSER's "Faerie Queene":

Right well ye have advised him
* * * the way to win
Is wisely to advise;

that is, wisely to ponder or receive advice. When the advice has been taken, the responsibility of him who gives it begins.

It must be admitted that we in America have been generous both in giving advice and in giving relief. Europe has seen our open hand. President HOOVER in a speech a few nights ago suggested that she should now see, or rather hear, our closed hand or fist on the table at The Hague, and that Russia should feel us gripping at her throat in promotion of an international mind and an international heart. It is not an altogether pleasing picture of a world conference—one member pounding vainly on the table and then rising to clutch the throat of another member who refuses to come to international order. It suggests a Trotskian method. But it is, after all, only a figure of speech, not to be taken too literally.

The soldiers of this Republic were able to take a determining part during the latter part of the war, as Lord DERBY knows, in penetrating the "entanglements" that stretched across Europe. If our interest in the good of the rest of the world (which, after all, conditions our own good, just as the freedom of Europe conditioned our freedom) were mobilized under such capable statesmen as could be commanded by our Government to assist in this post-war service, we should need have no fear in facing the new entanglements which jealousy, antipathy and misunderstanding have erected along the borders of most of the States of Europe. These estranging, wounding entanglements can be untangled and made into bonds of political and economic co-operation only through patient continuing conferences and by disinterested hands. And if America does not soon lend a hand to this tedious international stint, that which our soldiers helped so valiantly to accomplish by fighting through the trenches and barbed-wire fields of France, and which we celebrated over their graves yesterday, will all be undone—and some Mongol Alexander, with his hand closed upon a weapon more terrible than a sword, will cut the knots which a mocking Gordius has tied since the victory of 1918, and will become master of the "United Hates of Europe."

In the editorial of yesterday on "The Lincoln Memorial" a quotation from Cæro was, through an error in copying, ascribed to CATO. It was, however, unnecessary to go either to the Greek or to the Latin for the summing sentence of tribute to him who belongs to the ages, but first of all to our own time and to America. It has been written in the Doric memorial, by ROYAL CORTISSOZ: In this temple, as in the hearts of the people for whom he saved the Union, the memory of ABRAHAM LINCOLN is enshrined forever.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Change of the Laws Is Essential.

When Commissioner ENRIGHT calls his inspectors and Captains together and tells them that there must be a 100 per cent. enforcement of the laws and ordinances for the regulation of automobilists, he thereby admits—what everybody knows—that the enforcement hitherto has been considerably less than that. And it will remain so in spite of the new orders, for it would take many more policemen than the Commissioner has or ever will get to make all of the present drivers, professional and amateur, of the city's innumerable motor vehicles show the consideration for public safety which the laws and ordinances are intended and supposed to compel.

As a matter of fact, some of the regulations, and especially those relating to speed, could not be enforced, constantly and everywhere, without making the use of automobiles impracticable in many streets on account of the interminable delays that would result. A rigid limitation of speed, indeed, is wrong in principle, for there is no rate that always is safe, and none likely to be used except by madmen that necessarily is dangerous.

What really is needed to stop, or at any rate reduce, the killing and injuring now going on to such an alarming extent is the adoption of regulations placing far more emphasis on character and competence as qualifications for obtaining a license to drive cars of any kind, and imposing more effective penalties than fines on manifestations of viciousness, recklessness and unintelligence by drivers.

Of all penalties, the permanent revocation of the license for every serious offense would be most feared and therefore most likely to inspire caution. Drunkenness at the steering wheel, even once, is full justification for revocation, and if this were pitilessly enforced the number of so-called "accidents" would be diminished appreciably.

They Should Regulate Themselves.

Manufacturers and sellers of automobiles tend to resist the imposition of restrictions that limit the number of their customers. In this they are unwise, for the more cars there are in the hands of persons who for reasons of age, inexperience or temperamental incapacity handle them badly, the greater will be the number of "accidents" and the more likely is it that laws will be passed that go too far—that will impose unnecessary hardships and inconveniences on the many in order that the few may get their deserts.

Over in New Jersey the State Motor Commissioner has announced the intention of seeing to it that all automobiles coming within his jurisdiction are in such condition that they will not endanger either their own occupants or others. That is a good idea, but the number of disasters caused by brakes out of repair or steering gears that work imperfectly is not large, and it is not easy to believe that the traffic policeman can find time to examine cars without defects visible at a glance.

Of course, nobody is more interested, really, in the prevention of automobile accidents than the automobilists themselves. If they can be educated into realizing that consideration and carefulness on their part not only will save their lives and limbs, but will relieve them of harsh restriction, most of the problems now so difficult of solution would be solved almost automatically. In this field, as in every other, the existence of a punitive law proves the existence of an inclination to offend in the way that law punishes. The offenses that nobody commits are not mentioned in the statute books.

Americans Get All the Treasures.

A queer grievance, not exactly against Americans, but involving them, is expressed in a letter sent from Oxford to The London Times by Professor S. LANGDON, the Assyriologist. He writes that since the British came into control of Mesopotamia there has sprung up in Bagdad a too extensive and flourishing industry—the manufacture of spurious relics of the ancient civilizations that once existed there.

These fraudulent "antiquities," it seems, are sold to guileless British officials and tourists, while the real treasures, of which there are many, go for the most part to American purchasers, simply because our collectors and universities promptly have sent to Mesopotamia as purchasing agents men who are experts. They examine the articles that in reality or pretense are dug out of the ruins by the natives and can tell the difference between forgeries and the authentic tablets, seal cylinders, mace heads, inscriptions and statues that are offered. Professor LANGDON laments the situation he exposes and the humiliation and loss which result from it to British travelers and to science. He intimates, however, that it is characteristic of British officialdom and its slight regard for archaeology, and he fears that if his Government acts at all in the matter it will be only after the Americans have bought of the Arabs everything worth buying.

Treaties Are Not for Them.

At the farewell meeting in honor of Countess MARKIEWICZ, held in the Hotel Commodore by the members of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, the speeches were marked by a curious ferocity—curious, because the men and women making them have the Atlantic Ocean between themselves and danger, and few, if any, of them show the slightest inclination to go any nearer that fighting to the death for which they clamor.

Their voices were all for war and against any compromise with the hated Saxon. One vehement lady proclaimed that she "wanted bullets," and was "tired of treaties," and she cheerfully prophesied that a combination of Russians and Germans soon would teach the British a needed lesson. "Then there will be peace in the world," she said.

Perhaps, but, judging from what happened after 1914, the peace would not come until everybody who did not like that particular sort of peace had been killed off.

Irish of the sort that gave such a fond speeding to the militant Countess—who, by the way, is no long distance fighter—may think they would like a German-Russian peace, but nothing could be more nearly certain than that, when it arrived, they would be the first to call it intolerable, doing it, of course, from the other side of whatever sea lay between it and themselves.

New York History.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to the article entitled "City's Tercentenary" in the Sunday TIMES of May 21, there has been much progress in historical research concerning the settlement of New York since the writing of General Wilson's "Memorial History of New York." Neither New York City nor New York State was permanently settled in 1623. The Walloons referred to arrived in May, 1624, not 1623, and settled at Fort Orange. (See nineteenth annual report of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society for 1914. Pp. 401-408.) New Amsterdam, now New York City, was permanently settled May 4, 1625 (ibid., Pp. 497-500).

There has been no doubt about the discovery of New York Harbor in 1524 by Verrazzano under the auspices of Francis I., since the finding of the so-called "Cellere Codex" in the library of the late Italian Ambassador to the United States, Count Macchi di Cellere, in 1900. By Count di Cellere's permission, the undersigned translated and published this very important historical document in the fifteenth annual report of the above-mentioned society for 1910. The original manuscript is now in the library of J. P. Morgan.

Purchasing British Art Objects.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I notice in this morning's TIMES a reference to a cartoon recently appearing in Punch (of London), rather criticising the American idea of purchasing British art objects of great value, placing the entire onus for all these transactions upon Uncle Sam. It seems to me Mr. Punch is unnecessarily rambunctious and unjust in his criticism, because if the old gentleman would stop to think just a few minutes he would realize that these art objects could not be purchased either by American citizens or by the American Government if the English owners were not ready and anxious to sell them. Why not place the blame where it belongs?

CHILDREN.

Tiny little babies, you are very real!
Baby kittens, baby dogs, baby lambs—
all—all are very real!
But baby kittens and baby dogs and baby lambs bound straight away
Into grown-up-hood
And love and are married and die.
Baby babies toddle along into little unfinished ladies and gentlemen
Who bow and scrape in taffeta and lace.
Precious fairy things—then it is you are no longer real!
I look at you and in the secret places of my heart rush wild rivers of tears.
Small, tender, ruffled, rustful things,
My heart breaks with loving you so.
I love you so!
The door of my soul is open.
Walk you in, all the millions of you, and ask me endless questions—
I shall not say that you are naughty!
My heart breaks with loving you so.
You cannot be real.
Small, tender, ruffled, rustful things,
I love you so!

LAW OF PROPERTY BILL.

New Bill Before Parliament Is Modern and Revolutionary.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The important bill relating to the law of property, just introduced in Parliament by the up-to-date Lord High Chancellor of England, is a remarkable sign of the times.

It is a new broom that sweeps clean. All manner of reverend things will be swept away by it. Primogeniture, the statute of uses, gavelkind, borough English—these and a hundred more antiquities are now for the dust heap. The holy earth of England is to be bought and sold with no more ceremony than if it were cheese or butter; the custom of the manor shall be custom no more.

The principal object sought to be obtained is the assimilation of the law of personal and real property, which is obviously a radical step forward in English jurisprudence. It codifies six centuries of enactments relating to land tenure, and is a masterly handling of questions of great complexity.

Lord Birkenhead, the brilliant young man now presiding in the House of Peers, and England's highest Judge, is evidently an enemy of feudalism, for his bill makes an end of it in this realm.

As I read the clauses of the new bill, I am astounded by its modernity and radicalism. Nothing short of the abolition of royalty could be more fundamental than this proposed legislation.

It abolishes a wife's right of dower in real property as to which the husband dies intestate, and puts an end to tenancy by courtesy and every other interest of a husband in real property as to which the wife dies intestate.

Much of the present law of real property in England and in the United States belongs to the ages when the days were long, when time moved slowly. The pace of life has quickened. No longer are rents paid in honey and eggs.

Lord Birkenhead's bill, which is sure to become law, is splendid in every respect, but the old lawyers must be turning in their graves; the ghosts of Blackstone, Coke, Littleton and Chitty must be wailing like so many Banshees.

Prohibition in San Antonio.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The information as a special from San Antonio, Texas, under date of May 27, that the young Chief of Police of that city of 175,000 inhabitants had been suspended by the young Mayor of the city, under charges of "intoxication, release of prisoners whose terms had not expired, attempted assault on women and protection of vice," according to THE TIMES of today, is a news item of more than passing moment, for it comes from the largest city in Texas, as well as the oldest, most beautiful in history and natural scenery and most cosmopolitan in population. I have just come to New York for the Summer after having lived in San Antonio, where at the outbreak of the war I tried to co-operate with the Federal Government as an officer of the Law Enforcement League in the suppression of segregated vice.

This news item is significant in several respects: (1) The newly elected Mayor had pledged the voters if elected to enforce the law, all laws; the moral element went to the polls and voted; (2) the organized labor vote openly supported the ticket pledged to law enforcement; (3) about half the total votes were cast by women; (4) the public school teachers avowedly supported the ticket; (5) and lastly, the Ku Klux Klan, with a county membership estimated at about 4,000, secretly imposed their influence for the election of men who made the campaign with a promise to suppress "gamblers, bootleggers and prostitution."

The best element voted. The best element will prevail anywhere, if they will vote. But credit for the exposure of the Chief of Police (who is really the victim of the gang) is due to the American Social Hygiene Association in co-operation with the Public Health Service, who delegated Miss Bain of New York City and Dr. Valeria H. Parker of Washington to make a survey of San Antonio and speak to the people through civic organizations to bring to bear a pressure on the whole police force to co-operate with the Federal prohibition officers, whom they had refused to assist, in a campaign against the bootleggers that ply between San Antonio and the Mexican Border, for bootlegging and prostitution are inseparable institutions.

I am a Southerner and believe in States' rights, but I believe in the right of the Federal Government to help the States enforce the Eighteenth Amendment, as well as the other amendments above the Twelfth. So do the great majority of the people in all the States, according to the votes they have already been casting for the last eighty years. The majority of the people are good. They have voted prohibition.

A German on the Seydlitz Affair.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit a genuine German-Man and World War veteran a word about the unpleasant Seydlitz affair.

Being a German ship the incident apparently occurred on German soil.

After the fall of the Hohenzollern regime the official anthem, "Heil dir im Siegerkranz" (by the way, only an imitation of the British anthem, "God Save the King"), being senseless, the song "Deutschland, Deutschland Ueber Alles" implicitly and unanimously was accepted by the people as national events.

This song, besides, by no means intends to express any superior feeling over other peoples or imperialistic tendencies, but simply states the love to the native country, saying that, for the German-born, of all fair countries in the world Germany is to him the dearest. Interested malevolence only substituted such mentioned meanings and discredited the song.

I ask any citizen of this country what he would think about a foreigner who, on board an American liner, provokingly would rest sitting if "The Star-Spangled Banner" was sung?

Or about the foreign guy who dared to disregard the American flag at the occasion of a parade?

It seems to be a question of fact and courtesy how to behave in such a case.

If the 100 per cent. Philadelphians did not like 40 per cent tribute to the feelings of their hosts, why didn't they leave the room? Nobody would have annoyed them if they had done so.

Trades for Tuberculosis Sufferers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is an important public service that THE TIMES has performed in its recent editorial relative to the Reconstruction Hospital in this city.

Certainly any movement that shall aid in rehabilitating disabled men is worthy of all encouragement and approval.

We desire to extend an earnest invitation to the public to visit our "Race Workshop" at 460 Pierce Avenue, Long Island City, where we are at all times training men who have what are termed "arrested" cases of tuberculosis.

These men were formerly engaged in all the various trades and industries, but it is now our endeavor to teach them to do work that will enable them to become once more self-supporting and self-respecting members of the community, while not endangering their health from renewed tubercular activities.

Competent instructors teach chair caning, repairing, jewelry-making and fine cabinet-work. It will be a revelation to visitors. We are certain, to see the noticeably excellent quality of the work turned out and to come in contact with this highly interesting phase of the effort to fight tuberculosis.

JUSSERAND GIVES FLAG TO HARDING

Banner That Marked Our Entry Into War Presented to the Nation.

PLEDGE OF LASTING AMITY

To Endure, Says Ambassador, Till "Stars Shall Fly From the Sky or From the Flag."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The historic American flag which flew over the Eiffel Tower in Paris alongside the French Tricolor the day the news of the entrance of the United States into the World War on the side of the Allies reached the French capital was presented by Jules J. Jusserand, the French Ambassador, to President Harding this morning at the White House.

On their arrival at the White House, the French Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand were met by aides of the President and escorted to the East Room, where the presentation ceremony later took place. President and Mrs. Harding then entered the East Room, where they found a distinguished gathering, including besides the French contingent, John W. Weeks, Secretary of War; J. Mayhew Wainwright, Assistant Secretary of War; Theodore Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy; General Pershing and aides, Admiral Koontz and aides, general and flag officers of the Army and Marine Corps and Secretary Charles D. Walcott of the Smithsonian Institution.

Ambassador Jusserand, in presenting the flag, said that the first salute ever given an American flag in Europe was that accorded by a French fleet anchored at Quiberon to the national emblem—then containing only thirteen stars—flown by the Ranger, which was John Paul Jones's ship.

"As a souvenir of what was done in those momentous years," continued M. Jusserand, in a reference to the relation to the World War of the flag he was presenting, "this flag will be preserved from generation to generation and will continue fresh in the hearts of every freedom-loving inhabitant of the earth.

"Five years ago, when the fight was again for liberty, and the forty-eight united States decided to throw their mighty sword on the scale, a thrill of enthusiasm and gratitude went through the heart of every Frenchman and Frenchwoman from the farthest trenches to the remotest mountain hamlet. Richer in stars than that of Paul Jones, but representing the same impulse, the flag of America was hoisted, when the news came, at the top of the Eiffel Tower, side by side with the Tricolor of France, devised for us by Lafayette during our own revolution, and was saluted with 101 guns.

"This same flag, displayed on other great occasions relating to the common effort and the common victory, was brought to this country by Marshal Foch, with the papers testifying to its authenticity. I count it as one of the greatest honors that could befall me to have the privilege of presenting it to the justly admired chief of the nation which, at a most perilous hour, came to the rescue, and to do so on this day of commemoration.

"All things, we know, come to an end. Such will be the fate of the friendship between France and America—the day when the stars shall fall from the sky or from the flag of the United States.

President Harding, upon receiving the flag from the Ambassador, said that it meant a new bond of affection between the American and French nations.

"It is a very great pleasure to accept these American colors which have been so distinguished," said the President to M. Jusserand. "I am not a little impressed by what you have just said. It is a rather curious coincidence. I stood yesterday before all that is mortal of John Paul Jones, who gave expression to American independence at the same time that France gave recognition to the flag.

"Flags are measured only by what they represent. Probably it adds little to the charm and beauty of the Stars and Stripes and their wonderful coloring to have been saluted with the love and affection and reverence of your Republic; but it does add much to that for which the flag stands. It means a new tie, a new bond of affection between your Republic and ours. It means a renewed commitment of liberty-loving France and liberty-loving America to the liberty to which we have jointly and severally contributed.

"It means a new assurance of the cordial affection and reverent respect of the one Republic for the other, which each feels for the other, and which will endure, as you have suggested, for all time to come. It is a very pleasing thing to have this signal banner returned after having received these exceptional honors. It will be placed in the treasure house of America among its most valued souvenirs, where it will be preserved as one of the richest heirlooms of the war."

After receiving the flag the President turned it over to an aide de camp, who will deliver it to the War Department, to be deposited in the National Museum.

HUGHES ASKED FOR TREATY.

Suggested Negotiations for St. Lawrence Project Declined by Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 30.—Included in correspondence relative to the St. Lawrence waterways project tabled in the House today was a letter from Secretary of State Hughes stating that President Harding "favors the negotiation of a treaty to be framed on the basis of the report of the joint commission, or such modifications as might be agreed upon."

The tabling of the correspondence grew out of the reply made to the United States yesterday by the Prime Minister that the Canadian Government is of the opinion "that it would not appear to be expedient to deal with this matter at the present time."

The letter of Secretary Hughes suggests that if the present proposal is not deemed desirable some other basis of agreement which will expedite the project might be arrived at, and states that it might be practicable to conclude a treaty, pledging the two Governments to undertake the execution of the project, with the provision "for a joint commission charged with the duty of formulating such a complete plan which would be subject to the approval of the two Governments prior to the beginning of the work of construction."

EARL OF BALFOUR IS SEATED

House of Commons Adjourns for Ceremonial in the Lords.

LONDON, May 30 (Associated Press).—There was a brilliant house in the House of Lords this afternoon when the Earl of Balfour, recently created a peer by King George, was formally seated amid all the ancient ceremonials incident to such an occasion.

The Chamber and Peeresses' galleries were crowded and the House of Commons adjourned temporarily while old friends and political associates rushed in for a view of the oath taking. A bright sunshine fell on the gorgeous scarlet robes of the new peer and his sponsors, the Earl of Derby and the Earl of Selbourne, as the procession passed through the House in accordance to ritual. After the reading of lengthy documents and the writ of summons, the Earl of Balfour took his seat.

MAGISTRATE TOBIAS DIES SUDDENLY

Succumbs to Heart Failure While Convalescing After Minor Operation.

FIVE WEEKS IN HOSPITAL

Served as Assistant Corporation Counsel 8 Years Until Named City Magistrate in 1918.

City Magistrate Raphael Tobias died last evening in St. Mark's Hospital, where he went for a minor operation five weeks ago. He was convalescing when his heart failed. He had been a practicing lawyer in this city for thirty-two years and was a member of the General Committee of Tammany Hall. His residence was at 1,291 Lexington Avenue.

Magistrate Tobias was born in New Haven sixty-two years ago. His father was the late Julius Tobias and his mother was Julia Burchardt Tobias. His father, a Lieutenant in the Union Army, met his mother while she was serving as a nurse in the Civil War. After their marriage and their son's birth, the family moved to this city. The Magistrate married Julia Erlanger of this city, who died two years ago yesterday.

After graduating in law at New York University Magistrate Tobias entered practice in this city. Mayor Van Wyck appointed him an assistant corporation counsel and he served eight years. He was appointed City Magistrate by Mayor Hylan in 1918. His term would have expired in 1925. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Hattie Calo and Mrs. Arthur Kattenberg.

Magistrate Tobias was a member of the Bar Association, the Tanawaga Club of the Fifteenth Assembly District, the Society of Medical Jurisprudence, the Society of American War Veterans, the Sons of Veterans, the Order of Free Sons of Israel and the Masonic Order.

THESPIANS AT FUNERAL OF BARRY BAXTER

'Always in My Memory' Read Floral Piece From Teddy Gerard, Dancer, Now in London.

One hundred persons, many of them prominent actors and actresses, attended funeral services yesterday afternoon for Barry Baxter, actor, who died at 140 West Seventy-seventh Street last Saturday of pneumonia. The services were held in Campbell's Funeral Church, Sixty-sixth Street and Broadway.

The Rev. Dr. Nathan Seagle, rector of St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal Church, Sixty-ninth Street and Broadway, officiated.

Many floral tributes were banked about the coffin. Among those who sent flowers and were present were Ina Claire, with whom Baxter was playing the leading part in "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" at the time of his death; Roberta Arnold, Edmund Goulding, Leonora Harris, Margold Gillmore, Joe King, Harry Girard and Estelle Winwood.

As the services were about to commence a delivery boy brought to the Funeral Church a huge cluster of roses. He refused to state the name of the florist, or whom the floral gift was from.

A floral piece, sent by a local florist upon cable advice of Teddy Gerard, who is in London bore the dancer's card and the inscription "Barry. Always in my memory."

Miss Gerard, it was said, would leave England immediately for this country. She and Leonora Harris will accompany Baxter's body back to England on the Olympic on June 24. The body will be interred at Milnsbridge, England, where Baxter was born.

Alexander Parkhurst Fiske.

Alexander Parkhurst Fiske, who served as Assistant Adjutant General during the Civil War, died yesterday morning at his home, 157 West Seventy-first Street. He was in his eighty-ninth year. Mr. Fiske was born in Southbridge, Mass. When the war began he went to the front as Adjutant of the Fifty-seventh New York Regiment, but shortly afterward was transferred to brigade duty and served as Assistant Adjutant General until June 1, 1863, when he was severely wounded at the battle of Fair Oaks and invalided home to New York. Subsequently he served as Chief of Staff to the Commanding General of the Department until the close of the war, when he was made Brevet Lieutenant Colonel. Mr. Fiske was a member of the Army and Navy Club, the Loyal Legion, and since 1850 of the Mercantile Library, of which he became President in 1897.

Dr. John A. Wyeth Buried.

The funeral of Dr. John A. Wyeth, founder of Polyclinic Hospital, and one of the foremost surgeons in this country, was held yesterday. The services of the Episcopal Church were conducted at the grave in Greenwood Cemetery by the Rev. Dr. H. Percy Silver, rector of the Church of the Incarnation. Dr. Wyeth died suddenly on Sunday at his home, 243 Lexington Avenue.

CUSTOMS FIFTY YEARS AGO.

Who among us would say to-day, "I never use a Dentifrice, I never have to?"

Yet Fifty years ago, odd as it may seem, not one person in 1,000 used a Dentifrice—or even a tooth brush.

So to-day, after more than 80 years of persistent publicity of Allen's Foot-Ease, the Antiseptic Powder for the Feet, not many well-turned-out people care to confess, "You know I never have to use a Powder for the Feet!"

More than One Million five hundred thousand pounds of Powder for the Feet were used by our Army and Navy during the war.

The reason is this: Incasing and confining the feet in Leather or Canvas Shoes is bound to create friction, more or less. Allen's Foot-Ease removes the friction from the shoes, and freshens the feet. It is this friction which causes smarting, callouses, corns and bunions. You know what friction does to your motor-car axle. Why not remove it from your foot-wear by Shaking into your Shoes to-day, Allen's Foot-Ease, the cleanly, wholesome, healing, Antiseptic powder? Get the habit, as millions now have it.

In a Pinch, use ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE.

PROTEST RADIO BAN ON POLITICAL TALKS

Modification of Federal Rule Against Navy Wireless Use Will Be Sought.

VALUE IN CAMPAIGN CITED

Executive Officer of American Radio Association Suggests a Limit of Two Weeks.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The American Radio Association is dissatisfied with the decision of the Government to refuse permission for the broadcasting of political speeches by Government radio and intends to seek a modification of the new rule.

F. W. Brown, executive officer of the association, said today that he would take up the matter immediately with Secretary Hoover with a view to having him issue orders that beginning two weeks prior to the November elections and lasting until election day, candidates for public office shall be permitted to use the Government radio stations for broadcasting addresses during certain hours of the day.

"The majority of people are interested in politics," said Mr. Brown. "Through a canvass of the thousands of members in our organization, we find that approximately two-thirds are eager to hear the various men running for office. Such a step taken by the Government would meet with the approval of the majority of radio enthusiasts, we feel certain, providing that there is a limit of two weeks, and permissible during certain hours of the day only. We do not think that the air should be full of political speeches all day long, however."

The decision of the Government to refuse permission for the use of its radio service for broadcasting political speeches was announced on May 20, when Theordore Roosevelt, Acting Secretary of the Navy, notified representatives of the Woman's Party that he would be obliged to deny their application for the use of the naval radio service for broadcasting speeches and music on the occasion of the dedication of the Woman's Party headquarters in Washington on May 21. He gave as a reason that it had been decided to discontinue the practice of permitting naval radio to be used for political purposes.

The action of the Acting Secretary of the Navy caused surprise, as Secretary Denby was understood to have granted previously the permission sought by the Woman's Party. On the day of the dedication ceremonies the officers of the Woman's Party received a letter from President Harding withdrawing the acceptance he had given in December to the invitation to attend the dedication. No explanation for the declination was contained in the President's letter.

There has been considerable mystery over the action of the President and the Acting Secretary of the Navy. Nothing has appeared to indicate that either the President or Acting Secretary Roosevelt had any objection to the Woman's Party as an organization, but it is evident that the rule to refuse permits to use Government radio for sending out political speeches had a connection with the dedication of the party's headquarters.

B'RITH SHOLEM CONVENTION

Protests Blue Laws and Asks Recognition of Palestine.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 30.—Resolutions opposing the passage of Federal blue laws and a petition to the League of Nations asking the recognition of Palestine as the Jewish Homeland featured the closing session of the seventeenth annual convention of the Independent Order of B'rith Sholem on the Steel Pier this afternoon.

Assistant United States District Attorney Joseph L. Kun, of Philadelphia, chairman of the committee which reported the resolutions, declared that the passage of blue laws by Congress would have the effect of uniting the State and Church, which would be contrary to the provisions of the Constitution.

In regard to the petition to the League of Nations it was stated that no action had been taken by the League in reference to the declaration of Great Britain that Palestine was to be the Jewish Homeland. After a spirited debate action was postponed on the proposal to erect a monument in Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, in memory of the Jewish young men who died for their country during the war. The question will be studied by a committee and a report made to the next convention. The proposal to increase the rates of fraternal insurance also was referred to a special committee which will study the situation.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The gulf disturbance has decreased somewhat in intensity, but rain continued Tuesday in the East Gulf and South Atlantic States. Showers have occurred within the last twenty-four hours in the Lake Superior region, the Upper Mississippi and the Missouri Valleys, the Plains States, the Rocky Mountain region and at scattered points in the West Gulf States.

Fair weather prevailed Tuesday west of the Rocky Mountains and over middle and northern sections east of the Mississippi River, except Wisconsin.

The pressure was high Tuesday night over New England, the Canadian maritime provinces, the Plains States and the Northwest, and it was low and falling over the Pacific States and the Far Southwest. The temperature was lower Tuesday from the northern lake regions southwestward over the upper Mississippi and Middle Missouri Valleys, the Southern Plains States, the Southern Rocky Mountain region and along the New England coast, while unseasonably high temperature prevailed in the interior of the Pacific States.

EUROPE

TRAVEL COOK'S SERVICE

Our arrangements for travel to and in Europe are unrivalled. We plan special itineraries for individuals or small parties to align with their own ideas as to time and expense.

Escorted tours of limited membership via North Atlantic and Mediterranean routes leave twice weekly during June and July. Itineraries include the chief points of interest in addition to special features such as—the Passion Play at Oberammergau (for which we are Official Foreign Agents)—the Battlefields of France and Belgium, etc. Tours vary in price according to itinerary, accommodations on board and ashore.

Special Norwegian Fjords and North Cape Tour leaves June 13.

Ste

How did he ever get in there?

Two salesmen were discussing a third salesman who had secured a desirable order from an official known to be almost unapproachable.

"How did he ever get in?" one wondered. "I have been calling there for years and never got past his secretary." The answer was "By direct-mail advertising."

Long before the "lucky" salesman wrote for an appointment, his house organ and an occasional folder had been going straight into the hands of the man he wanted to see.

One by one these mailing pieces built up the impression that the firm they came from was an able, earnest firm, that knew its business and was in a position to render real service.

At last, when the salesman called, he was received almost as an old acquaintance.

Good printing which delivers interesting and valuable information will open for your salesmen doors that are closed to the others.

With the addition of the world's largest ship, Majestic, and the superb new Homeric to a fleet already including the magnificent Olympic and such famous ships as the Adriatic, Arabic, Baltic, Cedric and Celtic, the White Star Line provides amply for all classes of tourists.

The gratifying demand for bookings comes not only from those who seek expensive cabins and apartments de luxe. Many discriminating travellers, who practice economy, appreciate the fact that the ships of the White Star, Red Star and American Lines provide accommodations to fit any purse—with uniform standards of comfort and attentive service.

Whatever your destination and whatever the size of your vacation budget, come to our agents for advice.

SALOON MAN TAMED WITH A BLACKJACK

Flies at Raiders With His Fists When They Start Search of Bronx Place, but Is Beaten.

AGENTS DOUBLY ACTIVE NOW

Increase Follows Warning by Day—Watchman Reported Kidnapped by Liquor Thieves.

William Schmidt, owner of a saloon at 893 Brook Avenue, the Bronx, objected violently yesterday to a search of his premises by Federal prohibition agents, according to the agents' report to Chris J. Fortman, Chief City Enforcement Agent, and had to be beaten into submission. The agents, it is alleged, bought drinks in the saloon and then announced their identity. Schmidt at once manifested his disapproval of prohibition agents, and is said to have gone at them with both fists.

Two agents and a blackjack were necessary to stop his attack. Agent McCay grappled with the saloon owner, and then Sam Kursman, another agent, drew his blackjack and subdued the belligerent. In the search of the saloon only a quart and a half of liquor were found by the agents, according to report. Schmidt was served with a summons to appear before United States Commissioner Hitchcock today.

Agents Twice as Active Now.

Colonel Fortman remarked yesterday on the increased activities of his agents. The total number of raids this month with one more day to go is more than 200. These figures do not include raids from the Brooklyn office, which would greatly swell the total for New York City. The practical doubling of raids follows a recent warning by Director Day that agents who did not produce would be dismissed.

Agents yesterday raided a saloon at 2,949 Eastern Boulevard, the Bronx, said to be owned by Margaret Newman, leaving summonses, and the delicatessen store of Max Schoenick at 458 Ninth Avenue. Raids also were made on the saloons of John Feldman, 207 East Ninety-fourth Street, and Phillip Slodais, owner, 425 West Twenty-sixth Street.

Police of the West Thirtieth Street Station reported that they had found, early yesterday morning, that a stable and warehouse at 645 West Thirty-fourth Street, near Eleventh Avenue, was a depository for illicit liquors. They said they found 800 cases of French wines and 100 cases of Green River whisky behind a wooden partition in the stable. The police arrested Joseph S. Burrows Jr., 328 West Thirty-fourth Street, who, with his father, is said to be the owner of the place.

The police were called by a watchman at near-by buildings when he saw a horse-drawn truck leave the stable. The watchman ordered the vehicle to stop, but the men speeded up the horse and fled as the watchman fired three shots at them.

Stable Held Up, Watchman Kidnapped.

When the police arrived they were told that two men had come into the stable and held up the watchman. There was an automobile truck outside, it was said, and also a horse-drawn truck loaded with 150 cases of liquors. For some reason the motor truck was left behind and the horse-drawn vehicle, with its cargo, was taken away. The watchman of the building, it was reported to the police, had been kidnapped by the robbers and taken along with them on the vehicle. No trace of him could be found by the police.

While the police were at the stable examining the liquors, subsequently removed in ten patrol wagons to the Thirtieth Street Police Station, young Burrows ran up greatly excited. He claimed joint ownership of the stable with his father, but, according to the police, would make no statement concerning the liquors. After Burrows and the liquors had been removed to the police station, the father came in and reported the theft of a horse and truck. He was allowed to go but the son was locked up.

The police said that a warehouse two doors away had been robbed only a few days before in a similar manner.

POLICE CHIEF ORDERED OUT.

Third Official in Columbus, Ga., Gets Anonymous Threat.

COLUMBUS, Ga., May 30.—Close in the wake of the attack on City Manager Hinkle and the bombing of the home of Mayor Dimon, J. M. Hulins, Chief of the Muscogee County police, told newspaper men today that he had been served with notice to leave Columbus.

The notice, Chief Hulins said, reached him in an anonymous letter sent to J. B. Key, Chairman of the County Board of Commissioners. City Manager Hinkle after having been attacked by a gang of men on a street near his home, was warned to leave. This he did last week, returning to his home in Altoona, Pa. Shortly after Hinkle was attacked, Mayor Dimon was ordered in anonymous letters to remove the manager. This he declined to do with the result that his home was bombed.

Rewards totaling several thousand dollars have been offered for the arrest of persons who bombed the Mayor's home, but no clue has been developed.

The spreading patch on your ceiling

If you have one, you know how it affects you. Every rainstorm makes it bigger. Every time you go into the room you see that spreading patch and wonder how many days or weeks it will be before the plaster falls.

Perhaps your roof has given all the service it could be expected to give. Perhaps even now you are planning to re-roof your house. Or you may be planning a new home.

We have a real message for you

You can have a copper roof at a reasonable price. You can forget, forever, the spreading patches that come from a leaky roof. You can have a roof that storms can not hurt—that weather extremes and even the ravages of time will not injure. This roof will never need paint or repairing, and it has a beauty of its own that endures.

Copper roofings were expensive in the past because of their installation in sheet form. Now we have produced a form for copper roofing that makes the cost of laying no longer prohibitive. In this standardized form, copper roofings are manufactured in quantities. This, too, brings down the first cost; and with copper roofings the first cost is the last.

Perhaps you think you cannot afford a copper roof, even though it certainly would be cheaper in the long run. Let us show you that this new form has revolutionized the cost of copper roofings and that you may rightfully enjoy the beauty and service they give.

In any event, if you need a new roof for either an old house or a new one, it is an important enough investment to make it worth a little study. Let us tell you what we know about roofing as it applies to your particular house.

Come in and see us or write for a free booklet on "Copper Roofings."

On the Sidewalks of New York

There is no place in this world where Dr. Reed Cushion Shoes show to such advantage as in New York in the summer. The hot, humid weather, the blistering pavements and heated masonry would appall even a Dante. How hard it must be on feet that are unprotected. But with Dr. Reed Cushion Shoes it's another story. The felt and cork cushion sole absorbs the moisture from the foot, shuts out the heat of pavements and minimizes the heat of friction. They keep your feet cool, dry and mighty comfortable. Better wear them this summer.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Offers or bids are invited for the purchase of certain promissory notes, shares of stock and other securities which together are believed to constitute a controlling interest in the so-called "Empire Circuit," a common and popular name referring to the following motion picture theatres and the various corporations owning or controlling them.

Sealed proposals addressed to Cosmopolitan Trust Company, care of Henry O. Cushman, Liquidating Agent, and endorsed "Proposals for Empire Circuit," will be received by John F. Cronin, Clerk of the Supreme Judicial Court, Court House, Boston, Mass., at any time prior to 10 A. M. of the 21st day of June, 1922, and at that place and time, and not before, will be opened and read.

The right is reserved to reject any or all proposals or to accept the proposal or proposals deemed best for the Cosmopolitan Trust Company in liquidation. The sale is by law subject to the approval of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts.

A pamphlet entitled "Notice and Terms of Sale and Form of Proposal" will be furnished on request.

UNTERMYER WOULD DROP BUILDING SUITS

Disgusted With Fines Instead of Jail Terms, He Suggests Ending 500 Cases.

FINDS CRIMINAL LAW FUTILE

Asks Attorney General to Lend His Aid Toward Passing New Legislation.

FAVORS TRADE COMMISSION

Proposes New Bills Similar to Those Defeated in Albany at Last Session.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 30.—Supreme Court Justice Claude B. Alverson's action last Saturday in imposing fines of $500 on John T. Hettrick and Charles G. Witherspoon, convicted of conspiring to restrain trade in steam fittings, has destroyed all hope of enforcing the criminal statutes of the anti-trust laws, says Samuel Untermyer in a letter to Attorney General Charles D. Newton.

Mr. Untermyer suggests to the Attorney General, in charge of the prosecution of all cases arising from the Lockwood committee's inquiry, that pending cases against twenty trade associations involving 500 individuals, be dropped, and the effort of the Attorney General thrown toward the Trade Commission bill, defeated at the last legislative session but which will be introduced again in the Fall.

The failure of the courts to impose prison sentences in anti-trust cases, says Mr. Untermyer in the letter, has acted as an encouragement to commit crime and not as a deterrent. Mr. Untermyer's final gesture of despair over what he termed was the failure of the courts in anti-trust cases was the culmination, he said, of at least half a dozen object lessons.

All Hope Gone, He Says.

Mr. Untermyer's letter is as follows:

"120 Broadway,
"May 27, 1922.

"The Hon. Charles D. Newton, Attorney General, Albany, N. Y.

"My Dear General: I have struggled against the incomprehensible attitude of the courts toward the anti-trust laws about as long as the welfare of the State demands. The action of the Court today in refusing to impose prison sentences upon the conviction of Hettrick as a second offender and of his coconspirator Witherspoon—a man of great wealth, who is the President of Baker, Smith & Co., the greatest manufacturing concern in its line in the United States, that does a business of many millions annually throughout the country—coming as it does as the culmination of a long list of like occurrences in the State and Federal courts, has destroyed all hope of enforcing these laws as criminal statutes.

"Here was a case that developed the most vicious and corrupt features of coercion, fraud and moral turpitude, in addition to violations of the anti-trust laws, that could well be conceived. The head of the greatest manufacturing concern of its kind deliberately conspired with Hettrick to force unwilling competitors into an illegal combination to destroy competition and to hold the public in the throat, using the union labor leaders as pawns in their game by threatening to ruin employers by withholding labor from them unless they became parties to this unholy alliance.

"Not even our schoolchildren in the course of erection were immune from the matched bids and other fraudulent practices that constituted the machinery through which these swindles were perpetrated. A sneak thief's business is a gentlemanly occupation by comparison with what these buccaneers did.

"Before our committee proved the public temper in dealing with this form of crime, prosecuting officers were fond of excusing the non-enforcement of these laws upon the pretext that juries would not convict for violations of the anti-trust laws. Our prosecution of these building materials combinations has demonstrated that this was not true. We have not failed to convict a single case in the State courts. The trouble has been and is that after months of effort in each of these cases and the expenditure of large sums of money, and after securing prompt convictions, the courts refuse to punish this class of offenders.

Fines Not Sufficient.

"We have pending cases against twenty or more like combinations involving 500 or more individuals, firms and corporations, but I do not feel that we are justified in going further with these prosecutions except where indictments have already been found, since their only effect is to add instance after instance showing the futility of the law, we could doubtless secure the imposition of fines amounting to many hundreds of thousands of dollars which would again and again repay the cost of prosecution, but I have no disposition to act as a collecting agency for the Government in these repeated demonstrations of the futility of the law.

"You will recall that at the last session of the Legislature I endeavored to secure legislation that would take it out of the power of the courts to permit these offenders to escape with innocuous fines that in many cases amount to about one-tenth of 1 per cent. or less of the profits they have made by 'holding up the public.' The proposed law required the courts to impose prison sentences upon conviction. This legislation was defeated with the aid of the votes of men who held retainers from the defendants under indictment as a result of the investigations of our committee. Such a law if passed would of course have had no effect on past offenses, but I believe it would be a healthful deterrent against future offenders.

"I also prepared a bill for a State trade commission with the general features of which I believe you are familiar. The bill passed the Senate and had the enthusiastic support of the Governor, but was held in the Rules Committee of the House during the closing days of the session and was not permitted to come to a vote in the Assembly. This bill if enacted will in my judgment do more toward suppressing these criminal conspiracies that are mainly responsible for the maintenance of the high cost of living than could be accomplished by any number of criminal prosecutions. It would require every trade association to secure a license from the commission that is to be created under the bill. In order to secure such a license the association must satisfy the commission of the lawfulness of its purposes, and it will be subject to the supervision of the commission from the time of the issuance of the license so that unfair trade practices can be prevented. Any individual, firm or corporation that becomes a party to a trade association not having this license will be presumptively guilty of a crime, and there will be no alternative of punishment by way of fines. Prison sentences are made compulsory.

"Experience has demonstrated that these combinations cannot be exterminated by a series of judicial proceedings. They infest every branch of industry and are particularly rampant in the necessaries of life. The most that can be accomplished by criminal proceedings is to reach a few scapegoats among the smaller men in industry and by exposing and punishing them to present an object lesson that is supposed to be a deterrent against like offenses by others. If there are no prison sentences attached to these convictions, they cease to be object lessons. They become an encouragement instead of a deterrent. This is the present situation, due to the attitude of the courts.

Asks for Restrictive Bills.

"If the policy of the law is to continue to be, as it unquestionably should be, to suppress these artificial price-fixing, output-limiting, territory-dividing combinations, the sole purpose of which is to extort undue profits from the public, there must be an administrative body charged with the duty of investigating, discovering and exterminating these cancers upon the body politic. Such an administrative body was provided by the bill that failed to pass during the last session and which our committee will recommend at the coming session.

"If you agree with me as to the policy above outlined, my suggestion is that you lend your powerful aid toward this legislation and that we cease further criminal prosecutions, since it is apparent that the courts will not properly support our efforts in this direction. We have now had at least half a dozen distinct object lessons with substantially the same results, with a few exceptions.

"The judicial psychology that leads to the conclusion that men of great wealth and power who offend against the criminal laws and are convicted after long and patient effort are sufficiently punished by the humiliation of having had their crimes exposed is one that does not appeal to me. I had imagined, on the contrary, that men of that character who have no temptation to commit crime should receive much more severe punishment than the poor devils who offend against the law under the most terrible provocation.

"Nor can I understand the processes of reasoning by which the Court reaches the conclusion that a man like Hettrick, who has been lightly punished for one crime, ought not to be punished for others. It was upon that theory that another Court dismissed six indictments for extortion against Brindell because he had been sentenced upon the conviction of the seventh offense of the same character. It would seem that a man who commits one crime might as well commit a dozen from the point of view of punishment.

"I shall be pleased to know whether you agree with me as to the further prosecution of these cases in which indictments have not yet been found, as there is a considerable staff now devoting itself to this work which should be reduced with as little delay as possible if you are in accord with my point of view. In that event I will devote my future energies on this subject, apart from the prosecution of pending cases, toward preparing the necessary laws looking to the correction of the situation through administrative supervision.

"Very truly yours,
"SAMUEL UNTERMYER."

The Lockwood committee will resume its deliberations at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Pupils in Continuation Schools Under Truant Law

Magistrates have the right to commit youths to the New York Parental School as truants who refuse to attend continuation school, according to a decision handed down by Justice Cropsey in the Queens Supreme Court yesterday. He denied the application of Alex Boslesky, 15 years old, of the Bronx, for a writ of habeas corpus to get his release from the school to which he had been committed by Magistrate McGeehan.

Attorneys representing Boslesky contended that the Compulsory Education law applied only to boys and girls between the ages of 7 and 16.

The decision is the first given by a higher court since the passage of the act a year ago creating the continuation schools. This act requires girls and boys who are above the prescribed ages, but who have not completed a stated amount of schooling, to take time from their work to attend the continuation schools.

20,000 SEE PRIZES AWARDED FOR SINGING

Northeastern Singers' Association Ends Three-Day Festival at Richmond Hill.

Winners of prizes at the song festival, given under the auspices of the Northeastern Singers' Association, were announced last night, after the third day of the event at Dexter Park, in Richmond Hill. The final event of the series took place outdoors. About 20,000 men and women of German descent were present, it was estimated.

More than 200 singing societies were represented from the States of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and Connecticut. At Monday's session at the Thirteenth Regiment Armory in Brooklyn, a message from President Harding was read to the audience by United States Senator Calder.

The competition among the societies was keen. The Staats-Herold of Manhattan offered cash prizes amounting to $600 to be divided among the three classes in a competition.

Awards were announced as follows:

First class—first prize, Pennsylvania Society, $300; second prize, Newark; third, Hudson County. Second and third got diplomas.

Second class—first prize, won by the Bronx Singing Societies, $200 and bust of Beethoven, given by Ludwig Nissen, of Brooklyn; second prize, Elizabeth, N. J.; third, Queensboro, each society receiving a diploma.

Third class—first prize, Perth Amboy, $100; second prize, Atlantic City; third, Lancaster, Pa. Second and third got diplomas.

The festival was in connection with the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Northeastern Singers' Association. Mass singing by more than 2,000 men was part of the festival program.

THE TRAVELOGUE OF A BIRD.

Flight From Alsace to Martinique and Return Told in Notes.

Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 30.—Long voyages of migrating birds are well known, yet it is not always easy to obtain tangible evidence of their journeys, and bird lovers will be interested in the story from Alsace about a swallow's Winter travels and sojourn.

Last Fall a resident of Ostheim captured a swallow nesting in a gable and released it, with the following message on parchment attached: "During the Summer of 1921 I lived with ——, at Ostheim. He would be glad to learn where I passed the Winter when I return."

The bird now returns to its Alsatian home, bearing the following inscription: "Have been staying with a shoemaker, Joseph Body, on the Island of Martinique, who salutes my greatest host."

MUTINY PUTS CHANG BETWEEN TWO FOES

Harbin Garrison in His Rear Declares for Wu and Seizes Chinese Eastern Railway.

END OF WAR BELIEVED NEAR

Wu Advises Old Parliament to Meet at Once and Take Charge of Affairs of the Nation.

PEKING, May 30 (Associated Press).—The Manchurian mutiny against General Chang Tso-lin, the Manchurian leader, is spreading. The garrison at Harbin has joined the mutiny and declared in favor of General Wu Pei-fu, victor in the recent Peking campaign. Harbin is in control of the mutineers, who also have seized all the Chinese Eastern Railway from Harbin to the maritime province of Siberia.

An official dispatch received by the foreign legations said the only foreign troops along the railroad were 1,000 Japanese which are permanently maintained as a guard for Japanese interests. The dispatch added that reinforcements of foreign troops were contemplated.

General Wu Pei-fu, anxious to avoid foreign interference, is sending forces to replace the mutineers.

The prestige of Chang in Manchuria in general is said to be diminishing. Pressed from the south by 50,000 of General Wu's soldiers and threatened from the north by the spreading revolt, Chang's position is considered as becoming precarious. Several leaders of the Manchurian provinces who formerly supported him have declared their allegiance to General Wu.

The Peking Government regards the Manchurian mutinies as likely to lead to the overthrow of Chang and to closer unity of Manchuria with China proper.

General Wu announces that he intends to pursue Chang to Mukden, and if possible drive him from China.

A delegation of members of the old Parliament today conferred with General Wu, who is at Paotingfu. He advised the delegates to convene the Parliament at Peking immediately and said if it represented the Chinese people he would support it, remain aloof himself and devote all his energies to the removal of obstacles. He thought a formal call for the Parliament was unnecessary. All that was required was an announcement that the Parliament had assumed charge of the nation's affairs, he said, and it could elect a provisional president. He added:

"My duty is to remove the obstacles to the establishment of a free republic. I will use the army of the north and south if the factions insist on obstructing this move. As soon as Parliament is in control I will retire."

General Wu expressed the opinion that Chang Tso-lin eventually would be forced to take refuge on foreign soil. He said he hoped Sun Yat-sen would see fit to sacrifice himself for the benefit of the country.

The parliamentary delegates assert that as soon as they assemble President Hsu Shih-chang must resign. They claim that his election during the five-year recess of Parliament was not sanctioned.

HONGKONG, May 30 (Associated Press).—Strenuous efforts are under way to bring about a reconciliation between Sun Yat-sen, head of the Southern Government at Canton, and General Chen Chiung-ming, former Military Governor of that city.

The financial situation of the Southern Government is becoming more critical, and conditions in the money market are serious. The depreciation of the Kwangtung Provincial bank notes continues. At present these notes bring only 50 per cent. of the value of Kwang-tung silver and 35 per cent. of Hongkong dollars, hampering business and causing general unrest.

General Chen is controlling the revenues and is therefore in a position to stabilize conditions. The mediators between Chen and Sun are hopeful of a reconciliation, but both parties are stubborn. Fully aware of the strength of his position, Chen is demanding the dismissal of several officials and the abdication of Sun as President. The Chinese, however, think that a compromise will be reached.

Sun is continuing his northward advance in Kiang-si Province, and captured Kanchow, an important city, last Saturday. The possibility is being discussed of Sun assuming control of Kiang-si and remaining there, leaving Kwang-tung to Chen.

JAPANESE TO LEAVE HANKOW.

Withdrawal Announced as in Keeping With Washington Resolutions.

PEKING, May 30 (Associated Press).—Yukichi Obata, the Japanese Minister here, today notified the Chinese Government that Japan had decided to withdraw her troops from Hankow.

Japan for many years has maintained a garrison at Hankow for the purpose of guarding Japanese interests along the Yang-tze Valley. In his note to the Chinese Government, Minister Obata said:

"While conscious that the step now decided upon is in keeping with the spirit of the resolutions adopted by the Washington conference, the Government and people of Japan must at the same time express hope that the Chinese Government on their part will do everything in their power for the protection of the lives and property of foreign subjects in China and prevent the recurrence of such unfortunate incidents as have so often happened in the past."

URGES US TO HELP CHINA.

Kenyon L. Butterfield Says America Should Be a Pattern.

SOUTH HADLEY, Mass., May 30.—China's challenge to America is not only to sympathize and help but to be a pattern, President Kenyon L. Butterfield of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, declared here today in an address at the Memorial Day services at Mount Holyoke College. President Butterfield recently returned from a six months' trip through China, Korea and Japan as a member of the China Education Commission, of which President Mary E. Wooley of Mount Holyoke also was a member.

"In trying to turn her face from the past to the future, China looked to the West for guidance, President Butterfield said. "In many respects, he added, the Eastern problem constituted a real challenge to America.

"The first is a challenge to understand," he said. "The Far Eastern question, in which China is the central figure, should be made as much a subject of careful study in school and college and by all thoughtful people as any domestic American problem, simply because it is so intimately bound up with America's future.

"China also constitutes a standing challenge to America to be fair and square and helpful. It is to our everlasting credit that America, of all the nations that have dealt with China, has been the only one that has not grabbed territory or special rights. It should never be said of America by any future historian that she has been anything less than absolutely fair and honest and broad-minded in her dealings with China, or that she failed in the offices of true international friendship.

"And finally, China's faith in America is a challenge that we shall be a pattern. The worst skepticism in China today is a skepticism concerning the reality and honesty of our claim to be a truly Christian nation. . . . We can scarcely urge China to the right international relationship unless we ourselves can fulfill international obligations of leadership and influence."

Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcass beef in New York City for week ending Saturday, May 27, on shipments sold out, ranged from 11.00 cents to 15.00 cents per pound and averaged 14.07 cents per pound.—Advt.

Jump From Airplane Into Lake Michigan; 10,000 Persons See Two Aviators Rescued

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 30.—Two men jumped from a falling airplane into Lake Michigan this afternoon when the engine of their machine failed to work. They were rescued by the United States Coast Guard in the presence of 10,000 persons gathered in Juneau Park to witness air races and balloon ascensions.

Those who made the leap were Lieutenant J. S. Eldridge, attached to the Randoul Field aviation station, and Paul Carpenter, a local newspaper man. They were flying in a two-seated monoplane which was one of thirty in the air during the Milwaukee air regatta.

The men were over the lake when the engine of the monoplane went wrong and the machine began to descend rapidly. As it did so the two cut the belts which held them to their seats, and when the plane was about twenty feet above the water both jumped into the lake.

Lieutenant Eldridge made an almost perfect dive and immediately began swimming to shore. Carpenter, however, turned in his dive and hit the water with some force. He was partly dazed and, although he was able to swim, he was almost exhausted when he was picked up by the Coast Guards.

The airplane hit the water some distance from where the men struck and neither had any difficulty in keeping clear of it. It floated and was hauled to the shore by the Coast Guards.

YOUTH IS DROWNED AT CONEY; 7 SAVED

High School Student Stricken With Cramps and Sinks Before Help Arrives.

TWO MOTOR BOATS IN PERIL

Life Guards Rescue Occupants of Drifting Craft—A Few Are Hurt in Autos.

One bather was drowned and seven men, drifting in two sinking motor boats, were rescued at Coney Island yesterday while the resort was choked with 300,000 holiday makers. Except for the youth who lost his life in the water, the holiday was marked by a light casualty list, several persons being only slightly injured in minor motor car accidents.

The one who was drowned was Jack Markey, 17 years old, a high school student living at 267 Bainbridge Street, Brooklyn. He was in bathing with Joseph Smith of the same address and Morris Rosenberg of 290 Ralph Avenue, Brooklyn. They had put on their bathing suits at home and gone first to Manhattan Beach Point, where they had luncheon. Then they went for a swim.

They were only a short way from shore when Markey shouted to his companions for help. They understood him to say he had cramps. He disappeared before they could reach him. Captain William Acke of the United States Volunteer Life-saving Station swam out, dived several times and recovered the body, which was removed to the Kings County Morgue.

Crowds at the Municipal Baths at the foot of West Fifth Street were attracted late in the afternoon by the distress cries of four men in a motorboat fast settling in the water about 100 yards off shore. Members of the Volunteer Life-saving Station hurried to the rescue and took from the sinking craft the four men, who said they were Barney Clansky, 60 Rutgers Street; Philip Goldberg, 154 Monroe Street; Samuel Parneff, 167 Monroe Street, and Isidore Gold, 153 Monroe Street, all of Manhattan.

A little after 8 o'clock Patrolman Arthur Hanover of the Coney Island Police Station and Arthur Scheider and William Dowd, life guards, were informed that a motorboat had been in trouble for some time about a mile off the Atlantic Baths, West Eighth Street. They rowed in a lifeboat to the motorboat, made fast and towed it and the boating party ashore. There were three men in the motorboat and none of them could swim.

The rescued gave their names as Richard Lokin, carpenter, of 940 Van Alst Avenue, Brooklyn; Samuel Sussman, a post office clerk, of 188 South Second Street, Astoria, and John Demmer, a clerk, of 71 Eighteenth Avenue, Astoria. The three men were taken to the Atlantic Baths, where they dried their clothes and explained that they had developed motor trouble soon after leaving North Beach, L. I., and had been drifting helplessly for more than five hours.

Sitrad Marhalt, 30 years old, and her daughter Evelyn, 8, were slightly injured in an automobile collision at West Seventeenth Street and Harts Place, Coney Island. They were in a car with Mr. Marhalt, who gave his address as 63 First Place, Brooklyn, when it collided with another car owned by George Garrecht of 70 Washington Street. They suffered lacerations and bruises. The husband was served with a summons because he admitted he had no operator's license.

David Heimowitz, 9 years old, was struck while crossing First Avenue, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth Streets, late in the afternoon by the motor car of Dr. Morris Sherman, 2,299 West Thirty-second Street. Dr. Sherman took the injured lad in his car to the Coney Island Hospital, where he died from a fractured skull.

SOFIA PARADES CONTINUE.

Peasants' Banners Denounce the Bourgeoisie and the Universities.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, May 29 (Associated Press).—While the throngs attending the Peasants' Congress here are continuing to parade the streets of the capital in orderly demonstrations against the bourgeoisie, the outcome of the congress appears to have fallen far short of the expectations of the Cabinet, which has been engaged for three months in organizing it. The Conservative and Royalist leaders affirm that it has been essentially a failure, as instead of the 50,000 peasants who were expected in Sofia only 11,000 are in attendance.

The parades, which traverse mainly the Conservative and well-to-do quarters of the city, are displaying banners inscribed: "The people, not the King, should rule." "Close the universities." "Throw out the professors." "Down with the bourgeoisie!"

The peasants, who appear to be sturdy, substantial farmers, wear the national costume of long flowing cloaks lined with white, or dark jackets with wide red sashes.

Premier Stambulisky addressed a crowd from the balcony of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs today. He was greeted with an emotional outburst of cheering by his rural followers. The theme of the speech delivered by the peasant Premier was that henceforth there was to be but one front, and that front against the bourgeoisie.

Meanwhile King Boris remains quietly at his country residence, unmolested.

THRONGS SEE 3,000 OFF FOR EUROPE

Cunard Pier Packed With 6,000 as the Berengaria Sails—3,000 Watch Resolute Start.

BARUCH ON A VACATION

Takes Wife and Two Daughters—Colonel E. M. House and Herman A. Metz Among Voyagers.

More than 3,000 voyagers sailed for Europe yesterday. The holiday brought great throngs to the piers to watch friends or relatives leave port. It was estimated that when the Cunarder Berengaria backed out into the stream more than 6,000 persons were lined up along the pier. Care had to be exercised by guards to prevent spectators from being pushed off the pier, so great was the crush. Half as many persons witnessed the sailing of the Resolute of the United American Line.

Bernard M. Baruch, accompanied by his wife and Miss Belle W. Baruch and Miss Renee Baruch, their daughters, were among the travelers on the Berengaria. Mr. Baruch said it was purely a vacation trip. He and his family expected to remain away about three months.

Greeted at the pier by delegations from the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic and other organizations, the Countess Markiewicz, who came here to further the interests of the de Valera faction in Ireland, was among those on board. She said she had been called home by a cable message from de Valera. She said she was certain that Americans favored a republic in Ireland.

Herman W. Block, a trustee of the Federated Philanthropic Societies and Chairman of the Clearing Bureau for Dependent Jewish Children, sailed to study conditions pertaining to his work. Brig. Gen. Lawson D. Tyson left, United States and exported one-half of the crop.

"The British viewpoint held steadfast to the belief that with the breaking up of the Soviet Government only anarchy would return to Russia.

"Since one year ago an entirely new policy regarding the distribution of wealth has been adopted in Russia. The Russian peasant works twelve hours a day. Formerly the bulk of the wealth was created by men from him. In order to give him the incentive to work it has been necessary to give the peasant class, which means 90 per cent. of the population of Russia, all except 15 per cent. of the wealth he produces. And this gives to the peasant class a much larger amount of wealth than heretofore, it has placed him on the basis of capitalistic government."

H. C. Blackiston, Director in the United States of Burness, Wishy & Co., Ltd., returned after a month abroad. He said there is no discernible change in the shipping outlook.

Brings Novel Yacht.

William J. Daniels, another voyager, and since 1913 European model yacht championship holder, exhibited his model yacht Endeavor, 6 feet 1 inch long with a nine-foot mast and twelve-inch keel. Mr. Daniels said he had entered the Endeavor in the model yacht races at Great Neck, L. I., next week.

Sir Charles Higham, member of Parliament and Vice President of the Ep Club of London, an advertising club, also arrived by the Olympic. He is on his way to attend a convention of advertising men in Milwaukee.

William Fellowes Morgan, President of the Merchants' Association of New York; Thomas De Witt Cuyler, Chairman of the Association of Railway Executives; Matthew Brush, builder of the Hog Island Shipyards, and Count V. A. Constantini of the Italian Embassy at Washington, were others on the Olympic.

THE ST. PAUL ARRIVES.

Completes First Atlantic Round Trip Since 1916.

The steamship St. Paul, twenty years ago the pride of the seas, yesterday ended her first round trip of the Atlantic since 1916. Under the flag of the American Line, she made the trip from Hamburg in ten days, bringing 77 cabin and 49 steerage passengers.

The St. Paul was ordered into the transport service for the war in 1917, but while undergoing the necessary reconstruction, sank to the bottom of the Hudson River. The vessel was raised, but before she was ready to carry troops the Armistice had been signed. She recently was reconditioned.

Envoy Back From Chile.

William Collier, United States Ambassador to Chile, arrived here yesterday from Valparaiso on the Santa Elisa of the Grace Line. With Mrs. Collier he was taken off at Quarantine by a Coast Guard cutter to enable him to make connections with the Twentieth Century for Chicago. Mrs. Collier's mother is seriously ill at Auburn, Cal., the Ambassador said.

Party of Priests Meets Bishop McCort at Quarantine and Escorts Him Up Bay.

BARRON BACK FROM GENOA

Declares Real Good Was Accomplished at Conference—William Fellowes Morgan Returns.

The White Star Line steamer Olympic docked last night from Southampton and Cherbourg with 876 passengers. The police boat John F. Hylan met the vessel at Quarantine and took off Bishop John J. McCort of the Roman Catholic diocese of Altoona, who has been abroad six weeks. Accompanied by the Rev. Joseph Farran he made a pilgrimage to the shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes. He also vited London, Paris and Ireland. A delegation of thirty-five priests went down the bay on the police boat to greet Bishop McCort.

Captain T. H. Hudson of Dippingwell, England, brought over five Irish wolfhounds, including Dolly Shannon, three times champion of England and at present world champion. The dogs are being taken to their new owner, Mrs. Glen Stewart, daughter of Lord Archer, who makes her home in Washington.

Sees Gains at Genoa.

Clarence W. Barron, President of Dow, Jones & Co., who attended the sessions of the Genoa conference, was among the arrivals.

"The Genoa conference has been more of a success than is generally realized," said Mr. Barron. "The problem of Russia and German reparations are too big to be understood, but a great advance was made, for the reason that representatives of the nations of the world gathered to discuss common problems.

"Governmental heads in Washington and other capitals can tabulate statistics, such as ship dimensions and so forth, but the problem of Russia, on the other hand, is a psychological one. The real question at Genoa was to discover the problem confronting the world. This would not have been possible had it not been that the world has a great 'thirst for peace,' as the French say. Because this thirst is real it was possible for the delegates at Genoa to pile all their problems on the table.

"The three points that were gained in the conference consisted of highly educational matter along the lines of finance, economics and reconstruction. One unalterable fact which held the conference to its business at all times was the knowledge that 12,000,000 people are dying of starvation in Russia this year. This is due to the failure of the wheat crop. This condition can be contrasted with the fact that in 1916-17 Russia produced more wheat than the United

PARIS, May 30.—The vibrations of gay Paris are putting the world's greatest timepiece out of commission.

The Paris observatory, which daily sends the time throughout the world by wireless, is now, owing to the vibrations, incapable of calculating the time more closely than four or five hundredths of a second. This is not exact enough and M. Baillaud, Director of the Observatory, today presented to the Academy of Sciences a report on conditions and suggested that the observatory be moved from Paris.

NICE, May 30.—Following a banquet of local lawyers here on Saturday night thirty-five of them have been taken suddenly and seriously ill with symptoms of poisoning. There were but fifty persons present at the dinner.

Complaint was lodged today against the restaurateur and after considerable difficulty the Judge, aided by what legal talent was left in the city, found a clause under which to charge the man. The charge is "blessures par imprudence," which corresponds to the American term of criminal neglect.

50 Women Prisoners in May Makes Record at Bedford

Special to The New York Times.

BEDFORD, May 30.—Major Amos T. Baker, Superintendent of the State Reformatory for Women here, announced today that fifty new offenders were admitted this month, making a new high record. The crime wave, according to reformatory attaches, is increasing among women. The fiftieth prisoner of the month arrived today from the Tombs in Manhattan. Since Major Baker took charge, more than a year ago, the largest previous record for one month was thirty-three new arrivals, last February.

The reformatory prisoners attended brief Memorial Day exercises. Major Baker, a World War veteran, presided and spoke briefly. There was patriotic music and the prisoners sang.

PLAN HEARST BOOM WHEN MAYORS MEET

Hylan to Lead Cheerers, Hissers and Booers to Poughkeepsie Conference.

CONNERS IS BEHIND MOVE

Hylan to Discuss "Our Municipal Problems" While Miller Speaks on Urban Economies.

Cheerers, hissers and booers from this city, enlisted in the fight to make William R. Hearst the Democratic nominee for Governor, will go to Poughkeepsie Tuesday to attend the annual meeting of the New York State Conference of Mayors June 6, 7 and 8. Mayor Hylan will lead them.

The New York City Hearst contingent expects to meet a similar force from up-State, although it was said last night that William J. Conners of Buffalo, chief promoter of the Hearst boom up-State, would not be at Poughkeepsie. However, the plan to stage a Hearst demonstration in sufficient force to impress the Mayors is ascribed to Mr. Conners. It is upon the urban constituencies that Mr. Hearst's friends expect to concentrate in their uphill fight to make him Governor.

Mayor Hylan will address the conference on "Our Municipal Problems." Governor Miller also will address the conference, his probable topic being municipal government, from the point of view of efficiency and economy. As Governor Miller seems the most likely nominee for re-election on the Republican ticket, his part in the program has added an element of interest to the conference that it would not otherwise possess.

Although fully one-half of the Mayors' conference is made up of Republicans, Mayor Hylan has always been popular with the organization and his speeches have invariably been well received, a meeting resembling a joint debate between Governor Miller and Mayor Hylan is expected, it is regarded as certain that the Governor will deal directly with some topic upon which he and Mayor Hylan have disagreed. Transit, home rule, taxation and legislation affecting cities are expected to be among the chief topics of discussion.

Corporation Counsel O'Brien, Grover Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, and possibly David Hirshfield, Commissioner of Accounts, will accompany the Mayor.

William J. Wallin, former Republican Mayor of Yonkers, who was defeated at the last election by Walter M. Taussig, a Democrat, will be present as head of the Poughkeepsie conference by some other member of the organization.

These cities, it was said, would be among those represented at the conference: New York, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Albany, Troy, Utica, Schenectady, Watertown, Jamestown, Auburn, Oswego, Olean, Watervliet, Saratoga and Yonkers.

HEARST FOR WIDER LEAGUE.

Calls Race Question Big World Problem—Rape Britain on Debts.

Copyright, 1922, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

LONDON, May 30.—William Randolph Hearst, his wife and three sons, with Lady Astor, were the only Aquitania passengers who were permitted to disembark at Southampton last night. Mr. Hearst and his family came to London by automobile.

In a statement, published in The London Evening Standard, Mr. Hearst proposed a white league of nations, asserting that the race question was the world's compelling problem today.

Recalling former President Wilson's defeat on the League of Nations issue, Mr. Hearst forecast a Republican disaster as a result of the Four Power Treaty.

Regarding cancellation of the war debts, Mr. Hearst remarked:

"This is a good example of an attempt of Great Britain and other foreign Governments to use the United States to their own advantage and to the disadvantage of America. It illustrates what we can expect in the way of cooperation from countries which expect us to give everything and receive nothing. It makes clear to the average American why we should keep free from political entanglements with foreign countries."

Benjamin Kabatznick of Boston Resents What She Said of Him.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., May 30.—Benjamin Kabatznick, Boylston Street art dealer, whose name was mentioned in connection with the Commonwealth Avenue "pajama party," proposes, according to his own words, to satisfy himself as to whether Marilynn Miller, star of "Sally," was correctly quoted in her newspaper comments about him, and he says that if he finds she was, she must apologize.

"She called me fat and old and said that I was just a big joke," he asserts. "She told newspaper people that I was too old for any one like her and that the very thought of such a thing was absurd. She tried to make me ridiculous before the public, and this after a friendship of eight years. Why, only last Sunday she and Jack Pickford spent the day at my home. I took pictures of them there.

"I am more hurt than I can express because of Miss Miller's attitude. She has injured me both personally and professionally. I am going to demand that she explain everything she said."

Kabatznick said he had great sympathy for Geneva Mitchell, who, through her connection with the party, had been obliged to sever her connection with the "Sally" company.

"Miss Mitchell," he declared, "is a refined, ladylike girl, and her family is all that could be desired."

Mine Parade for William Blizzard.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 30.—The United Mine Workers today celebrated with an automobile parade through the streets of the capital city the return of William Blizzard, one of their officials who last Saturday was found not guilty of treason at Charles Town. Blizzard and his family rode in a flag-bedecked motor car just behind the band, which led the procession.

BIG TOBACCO MERGER HEADED BY J. B. DUKE

United Cigar Stores Absorbed in $157,000,000 Combine With Products Corporation.

J. M. DIXON ANNOUNCES PLAN

Even Exchange of Stock in Consolidation of Retail and Manufacturing Concerns.

1,000 CITIES ARE AFFECTED

Option Extended to Stockholders of Both Companies to Take All Common Stock.

Announcement of a new $157,000,000 tobacco merger between the Tobacco Products Corporation and the United Retail Stores Corporation, which controls by stock ownership the United Cigar Stores Company, was made yesterday by James M. Dixon, President of the Tobacco Products Corporation.

The merged companies will be under the guidance of James B. Duke, founder of the American Tobacco Company and the British-American Tobacco Corporation, and will mean his return to active participation in the tobacco business and the predominance of his influence in the retail end of that trade over important interests that have recently figured largely in that field. The arrangement for the merger, which provides for an even exchange of stock, was said to be entirely amicable.

The influence Mr. Duke will exercise in the new corporation is indicated by the fact that Mr. Dixon, who will head the merged companies, was associated with Mr. Duke from boyhood until he joined the Tobacco Products Corporation. Thomas B. Yuille, who will join the new Board of Directors as advisory head of the leaf tobacco buying department, was also trained under Mr. Duke, having entered the employ of Mr. Duke's corporation as a boy and working up to the position of Vice President in charge of buying tobacco leaf and of manufacture.

Dissolution of Tobacco Trust.

Although he retained extensive interests in the tobacco business, Mr. Duke has not been the dominant figure in that trade that he once was, after he resigned as President of the American Tobacco Company in 1912, following the success of the Federal Government in its suit to dissolve that company, then commonly known as the Tobacco Trust. Under the court decision, the old American Tobacco Company was split into three parts—a company which retained that name, the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company, and the Lorillard Company. At the time of Mr. Duke's resignation it was reported that he had been deposed by Thomas F. Ryan in a fight for control, but both denied this.

Mr. Duke continued to hold large interests in tobacco companies and was interested with George J. Whelan and others in the formation of the United Cigar Stores Corporation, which acquired a controlling interest in the United Cigar Stores Company. In explaining the purpose of the merger, Mr. Dixon said the Tobacco Products Corporation was a manufacturer of cigars, smoking tobacco and cigarette papers, that the United Cigar Stores Company was one of the largest retailers of these products and that it was believed that there would be an advantage in being retained from pooling their interests. An expansion of the business of the United Cigar Stores Company, which already is operating more than 2,200 stores in more than 1,000 cities, is one of the things contemplated.

"The new merger is to be effected by an increase of capitalization of the Tobacco Products Corporation and by an exchange of the stocks of that company and of the United Retail Stores Corporation for new Tobacco Products stock to be issued.

Under the terms of the proposed consolidation, the Tobacco Products Corporation will increase its capital stock from $33,000,000 par value to $157,384,000 par value. The new stock is to be composed of two classes, "A" and common. Class "A" stock will be 7 per cent. non-cumulative, on which dividends will be paid shortly after the completion of the merger. Officers of the Tobacco Products Corporation said they expected the common stock would receive a dividend of not less than 6 per cent. for the coming fiscal year beginning July 1, 1922, based on the present earnings of the two corporations and on an estimate of the increased earning capacity exp

YANKS BREAK EVEN; RUTH HITS HOMER

Lose Afternoon Game by 4-3 Despite Babe's Second Circuit Clout of Season.

SCHANG'S ERROR IS COSTLY

Wild Throw Enables Athletics to Gain Victory Before Crowd of 35,000.

HUGMEN WIN IN MORNING

Bambino's Single Aids in the Deciding Run in Eighth—Hoyt Allows Only Six Blows.

Babe Ruth hit a home run and so did Aaron Ward in the afternoon game at the Polo Grounds yesterday, but even with all this assistance the Yanks could get nothing better than an even break with the so-called hapless Athletics. The morning game was simple enough, the home lads winning by 3 to 2, but in the afternoon, when 35,000 people came out for the holiday doings, the Yanks tossed the game away while the big crowd groaned. The score was 4 to 3, and the two teams were right where they started at 10:15 in the morning.

The Yankees were so overcome by the holiday spirit that they tried to force both games on the reluctant Athletics. In the morning Aaron Ward achieved the heights of "bonehead" playing when he threw the ball into the dugout without asking the permission of the umpires; Aaron said the ball was bad and not fit to play with, but while he was discarding it a runner moved from first to third and later scored the tying run.

In the afternoon it was Wally Schang and Elmer Miller who undid all the good effects of Ruth's homer, which tied the score in the sixth, of Ward's four-bagger, which tied it again in the eighth. With two out in the final inning McGowan, on first by virtue of a single, stole second. Schang took a fast aim and then threw the ball past Ward and into right centre field. This was bad enough, but it became even worse when Miller, dozing peacefully at his post, failed to back up the play. By the time Elmer had come to with a start and pursued the rolling pill McGowan was around third and he slid into the plate with the run that settled the game.

Ward Also Gets Homer.

It was a very loose game, this afternoon contest. An error by Scott helped the Athletics to score their first run in the fifth; Schang's bad throw completed the damage in the ninth; Galloway's miserable boot of Ward's grounder put Aaron on first in the sixth frame, and Ruth followed with a homer that knotted the score at 2-all; Umpire Nallin missed a ball on Ward in the eighth and instead of walking to first, Aaron soaked a homer into the stand that tied the score again.

Evan after the Athletics had had the game pushed into their unwilling hands in the ninth it looked as if they would give it right back to the home clan. With one out Pipp hit an easy grounder to Pep Young at second base. Pep was turned loose by Ty Cobb because of his fragile throwing arm, Ty never knowing whether Young was going to throw to first base or graze a spectator in the seats back of the base. Yesterday Pep threw toward first and the ball hit the grandstand, Pipp getting to second. But the Yanks couldn't seize the opportunity. Scott filed to Miller, and after Schang had been walked, Devormer, a pinch hitter, gave Young an easy fly for the third out.

Add to all this excitement Ruth's second home run of the season, and you have a great ball game—loose but highly interesting. The Babe was all smiles yesterday. In the morning he scored the tying run and helped to drive in the winning tally with a single to right. In the afternoon—well, Ward was on first base and the Yanks were behind, 3 to 0, when Southpaw Helmach gave the slugger a low ball. Some people say he can't hit low balls, but this one didn't stop traveling until it had completed a three-cushion carrom off the right field seats.

Then the 35,000 let loose. They made a lot of noise, and Ruth, trotting from the plate to the bench, lifted his cap and smiled like a happy schoolboy. A couple of Pullman conductors left the park in disgust.

Bing Miller Hits Triple.

The Athletics had scored on Shawkey in the fourth by means of Walker's single and Bing Miller's long triple to left centre. They had got another in the fifth on Dyker's first double, Scott's fumble and Heimach's out at Shawkey's hands. Then Ruth's drive tied it until the seventh, when McGowan walked, Dykes doubled again and Galloway provided a sacrifice fly. In the eighth Ward, with the count three and two, lined a savage blow into the stand, and the teams were even again.

The ninth saw the end of Shawkey and the Yanks. Perkins hit to Pipp, who threw past Shawkey at the bag. When Schang backed up the play, Perkins was slipped rounding the bag. Bing Miller filed to Elmer Miller, and the skies were clear. But McGowan's grounder slipped Curves and Bingles.

Eddie Rommel, the Yankee jinx, was slightly ill yesterday, which explains why Connie Mack did not launch him against the Hugmen. Just as well that he didn't.

Local admirers of Scheer, the Athletics' reserve infielder, who is a New York boy, gave him a watchfob before the afternoon game began. This is considered a sure jinx in baseball.

Ruth is finding his batting eye, and every day sees his hitting mate go a couple of inches. It is almost 200 now, which is not much, but is better than it might be.

The Babe, incidentally, is of more cheerful Irish than in the distressing days of last week. Nothing like the hearty crash of a homer for frayed nerves.

On the strength of what they have showed in New York, there is no reason why the Athletics should finish in the cellar. Worse teams have been seen here, one of them being the esteemed Cleveland Indians.

Schang made a smart play when he backed up first base and caught Perkins in the ninth. But a minute later Wally uncorked his favorite heave to midfield, and the damage was done.

No game at the Polo Grounds today. The Red Sox arrive for a series beginning tomorrow.

Witt gave way to Elmer Miller in the afternoon game with a southpaw on the hill. But what did Elmer do? He filed out three times and grounded out a fourth time, indicating that left-handers are his particular meat.

Ward claimed Nallin had given permission to throw out the defective ball in the morning game. Nallin said he gave no consent at all. "One of them is lying and I don't know which," was the way Umpire-in-Chief Billy Evans put it.

CLEVELAND LOSES TWO TO CHICAGO

Drops From Third to Sixth Place in League Race—Scores Are 4-0 and 7-6.

CLEVELAND, May 30.—Cleveland dropped from third to sixth place in the league race today, losing two games to Chicago. The score of the morning game was 4 to 0, and that of the afternoon 7 to 6.

After holding the Indians to two hits in six innings, Courtney weakened in the second game and the locals tied the score in the seventh. Faber replaced the left-hander and held Cleveland safe.

Chicago won out in the ninth on Mulligan's single, a sacrifice, an out and Johnson's infield single.

GIANTS GET EVEN BREAK WITH PHILS

Lose Morning Game, 9 to 8, in Tenth, but Take Revenge in Afternoon, 16 to 7.

MEUSEL IS BATTING HERO

Drives Out Brace of Homers and a Double in Matinee Contest—Nehf on Mound.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—The Giants showed what they can do when they get their dander up this afternoon. The Phillies beat them in the morning half of the holiday attraction, taking the game in the tenth 9 to 8, after the McGrawmen had all but sewn it up with a lead of 8 to 2, which lasted until the eighth inning. The Giants, unused to such treatment from their usually docile opponents, turned upon them in the afternoon melé and smote them hip and thigh, turning the usually peaceful and subdued precints of the National League Park into a slaughter house. When all the returns were in and the accounts had been officially audited, it was announced that the Giants had won by 16 to 7.

In the course of this vengeful accomplishment the New Yorkers pounded five pitchers for 25 hits, Emil Meusel setting the pace with two homers and a double. Lee of the Phillies also clouted two home runs, but they were pretty much lost to view in the face of the visitors' overwhelming demonstration with the willow. In the morning, however, it was a home run by Parkinson of the Phillies that upset all McGraw's calculations, accounting for three of the four runs that tied the score in the ninth. Walker's triple and Henline's double in the tenth finished the job and made the chickens which the Giants had counted looks like overripe eggs.

Every man in the Giants' line-up hit safely in the afternoon game, Frank Snyder getting five out of five times up. Meusel's swats drove in four runs and he scored three himself, Young's four hits included a two-bagger, and Cunningham and Bancroft made three hits apiece.

Giants Begin Well.

The Giants made almost enough runs in the second inning to win. There were singles by Young, Snyder and Bancroft, a double by Groh and a homer by Meusel inserted at one time or another into this chapter of the pastime and six runs filtered over the pan. In the fifth, Young, Meusel and Kelly doubled, Cunningham singled, Snyder doubled and Nehf singled before a single man had been put out, and four runs came across. Welnert, who started the game for the Wilhelmites, had been replaced by Betts when Giant runs threatened in the fourth, and Betts and Baumgartner were both eased out of the game in the fifth, Pinto taking up the ungrateful task where they left off.

Pinto's case was attended in short outgoing fashion in the eighth, when in the Giants added six more markers. After Groh had walked and Young had singled, Meusel hit into the center field bleachers. This accounted for three runs and Bancroft's double, after Cunningham and Snyder had singled, added two more. Bancroft, himself, scored when Frisch slammed safely through Fletcher.

Nehf's task in holding the Phillies safe was an easy one. He didn't try to pitch fast and allowed them a run or two now and then just to keep the home fans good-natured. Lee's homer following a base on balls gave the Phils a two-run start in the opening chapter. Singles by Walker, Williams, Stratton and Fletcher figured in another brace of runs in the third and Lee's second homer, after Williams had singled, added two more in the fifth. Another purely ornamental run drifted in in the Phillies' half of the eighth.

Make Fourteen Hits Off Barnes.

Barnes pitched the A. M. game and blew a six-run lead. It was another heavy-hitting jamboree, the Giants making eighteen safeties off four Philly pitchers, Columbia George Smith, Sullivan, Pinto and Baumgartner, while the Phils made fourteen off Barnes before he was removed in the ninth, and three off Cecil Causey. Captain Bancroft made three hits and Barnes four for the Giants. Barnes' batting was offset in a measure by his carelessness in getting nipped off in the fourth, which action cost a run, and by two errors in the field. Young, Meusel, Kelly, Cunningham and Snyder made two hits apiece.

It looked like curtains for the Phils when they faced Barnes and a count of 8 to 2 against them in the eighth. They drew a bit nearer with a brace of runs chiefly attributable to a single by Henline and Fletcher and a double by Lee. Then, in the ninth, they tied it up. Wrightstone singled and scored on Williams's double. Henline beat out a hit and Parkinson's homer scored Williams and Henline ahead of himself. This made it 8-all. In the tenth, Walker tripled to the scoreboard. Wrightstone grounded out and Williams was purposely walked. Henline hit the ball into the left field bleachers but stopped at second, Walker scoring the winning run.

Mrs. Mallory Figures in Three Victories In First Appearance of the Year Abroad

CHISWICK, England, May 30 (Associated Press).—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, the American woman tennis champion, and Miss Edith Sigourney of Boston won their matches in the first round of the women's singles for the Middlesex championship, played here today. Mrs. Mallory defeated Miss Whitfield 6—2, 6—3, and Miss Sigourney defeated Miss Kelsey 6—3, 6—3. Later Mrs. Mallory vanquished Miss Head, 6—3, 2—6, 6—0.

In the first set of the match Miss Head led her American opponent, three games to one, but Mrs. Mallory took the next five. Miss Head repeated the same lead in the next set, and by hard driving and more accurate backhand shots she captured the set. In the final set Mrs. Mallory was much improved, but observers said that unless she produced faster strokes and greater accuracy she was not likely to defeat Mrs. Beamish in Wednesday's match.

In the second round of singles Mrs. Peacock, former woman champion of England, defeated Miss Sigourney, 6—0, 6—2. Miss Elizabeth Ryan of California displayed poor form against Miss Rodocanachi, but finally won the match 6—3, 8—6.

In the first round of mixed doubles, A. Wallis Myers and Mrs. Mallory defeated Silver and Mrs. Knight, British players, 6—4, 6—3.

Mrs. Mallory's appearance on the tennis court for the first time since her recent arrival attracted great interest. She told the correspondent she was feeling fine. In fact, that she never felt better in her life. She said she was looking forward to fully five weeks of playing until the Wimbledon tournament is over.

She will play in the Kent championship at Beckenham a fortnight before the Wimbledon matches begin, and will also play in the Roehampton invitation tournament a week later.

JERSEY CITY TAKES TWO FROM NEWARK

Skeeters Capture Both Ends of Double-Header From Bears Amid Much Tumult.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., May 30.—Bill Clymer's Newark Bears lost both ends of a double-header to the Jersey City Skeeters here this afternoon. The scores were 6 to 2 and 7 to 2.

The pastime was marked by a revival of the old inter-city rivalry between the clubs. Jersey City fans were on hand several thousand strong, armed with horns and other noise-making instruments.

The second game was punctuated by a fight on the bench between two of the Newark players, Pitcher Frank Loftus and Shortstop Fowler. The fight occurred after Jersey City had scored two runs in the fourth inning. One of them came as the result of a double steal, which Loftus figured that Fowler should have prevented. When the inning was over Fowler and Loftus went at each other hard, but their teammates pulled them apart and the rumpus was soon squelched.

In the first game the Skeeters drove Ben Fileshifter from the mound in the third inning, tallying three runs as the result of the same number of hits.

Kneisch finished the game on the mound and gave the visitors but three hits and one run in the remainder of the game. Metivier held the Bears in hand all the way, except for the fifth inning, when they scored two runs on three hits.

Loftus's wildness and loose fielding cost the Bears the second game. Tecarr did the pegging for Jersey City, and while he was touched for ten blows he kept the hits scattered.

FUTURE OF BASEBALL SECURE, SAYS HEYDLER

Declares Court Decision Is Great Tribute to Men Who Laid Foundation of Game.

John A. Heydler, President of the National Baseball League, last night gave out the following statement on the recent decision of the Supreme Court in favor of organized baseball:

"The Supreme Court's decision will prove a great stimulus to the future development of baseball. After years of litigation we finally have the clear-cut ruling of the highest court that baseball is a sport and not a trade, and that the Sherman Anti-Trust act has no application to our games as played under our interleague agreements and form of players' contracts.

"The decision, in fact, is a tribute to the foresight and wisdom of the men who laid the foundations of the sport and who foresaw that the reserve clauses, the enforcement of strict disciplines with the restrictive provisions in the players' contracts were all necessary essentials to properly conserve the game.

"All of these basic features of our mode of operation have now been safeguarded and made more secure.

"It is, of course, most gratifying to all of us to know that the game as conducted is legally as well as morally sound. The decision stabilizes the whole structure of American baseball. It insures protection for the owners as well as for the players, and will mean more attractive exhibitions for the public."

HARVARD BOWS TO BROWN NINE, 8 TO 3

Russell, Crimson Flinger, Is Driven From the Box in Opening Inning.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 30.—Brown fell on Russell, batted out six rounds in the first inning and defeated Harvard, 8 to 3. The game after the first inning showed some of the best baseball seen on Andrews Field this season, Gherke succeeding Russell and pitching fairly good ball. Leddy on the mound for Brown was given air-tight support and the nine hits off his delivery were well scattered. In the fourth two Harvard runs scored when Owens slammed out a home run with a man on base.

*New record. Old record, 5:33:55:51, made by Ralph de Palma in 1915. Winner's average, 94.48 miles per hour.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30 (Associated Press).—Leading from start to finish, Jimmy Murphy of Los Angeles, Cal., winner of the 1921 French Grand Prix, carved his name deeper in the hall of motor fame today when he flashed his Murphy Special across the wire winner of the 500-mile automobile race at the Indianapolis Speedway before a record-breaking crowd of 135,000 spectators.

Murphy smashed all records for the distance to smithereens, clipping more than 16 minutes off the best previous record. His time was 5:17:30:79, an average of 94.48 miles an hour, against the old record of 5:33:55:51, or 89.84 miles an hour, made by Ralph De Palma in 1915.

Murphy did something which had never been accomplished before at the Indianapolis Speedway and, to the knowledge of racing experts, never before in a race of major importance. He shot into the lead at the start and never relinquished it during one instant of five hours of thrilling driving. He was the first away, was the first over the line at the completion of the first lap, and was first under the wire when Captain Eddie Rickenbacker waved the flag for his victory.

The Los Angeles driver made only three stops during the entire 500 miles. He made his first stop at 185 miles, pulling up at the pits for two minutes to change all tires and replenish the fuel tanks. With a lead of about ten miles, Murphy pulled into the pits for another tire change and for more gasoline and oil after he had travelled 368 miles. The assistance of his pit men was nothing short of magical, as it took them just twenty-eight seconds to change a right front tire and provide him with fuel enough to assure his finishing.

Hartz Also Breaks Record.

While major honors went to Murphy, Harry Hartz, also of Los Angeles, who finished second, drove a remarkable race in a Duesenburg. He jumped into second place sixty miles after the start and held it throughout, always making a desperate fight to catch Murphy. Hartz's time was 5:20:34:50, an average of 93.54 miles per hour, which also was far in advance of the record.

Eddie Hearne, a veteran racer, piloted a French Ballot car to third place in 5:22:26:06, for an average of 93.04 miles an hour, while Ralph de Palma, one of the Duesenburg entries, was fourth in 5:31:04:65, an average of 90.61 miles an hour. Gra Halbe was fifth in 5:31:13:45, an average of 90.56 miles an hour. Jerry Wonderlich was sixth in 5:37:52:34, an average of 88.79 miles an hour. P. Fetterman finished seventh in 5:40:55:44, an average of 87.99 miles an hour. Eighth place went to Ira Vail in 5:50:07:42, an average of 85.69 miles an hour. Tom Alley was ninth in 5:57:34:13, an average of 83.83. Joe Thomas finished tenth in 6:05:01:47, an average of 82.19.

Confusion among the judges and timers resulted in the erroneous announcement shortly before the two-hundredth mile that Murphy had lost the lead and Hartz had gone into first place. Signals were passed to the drivers that Hartz was leading and even Murphy thought the checking was correct, as he began to force a much faster race in his fight to regain the lead. He jumped the average of 93.52 for 200 miles to 94.41 for 275 miles and then again to 94.54 for 300 miles.

Winner Gets About $35,000.

As winner of the event Murphy will receive approximately $35,000. Twenty thousand dollars was awarded first place and $8,000 as lap-prize money. In addition, automobile accessory companies provided cash prizes which will bring Murphy's total up to the $35,000 mark. Hartz got $10,000 for finishing second; Hearne, in third place, $5,000; De Palma, in fourth place, $3,500; Halbe, $3,000; Wonderlich, $2,200; Fetterman, $1,800; Vail, $1,600; Alley, $1,500, and Thomas, $1,400.

Barney Oldfield, a retired star of the racing world, with the customary cigar in the corner of his mouth, paced the field for the first lap, bringing them to a flying start at a speed of about seventy miles an hour. Then Murphy stepped out in front, leading for the first lap, with Leon Duray and Ralph De Palma following.

Howard Wilcox of Indianapolis was the first driver forced out, his car breaking a valve spring after traveling 17½ miles. Jules Ellingboe furnished the first big thrill when he threw a right rear wheel on the south turn. The speeding machine turned completely around on the track and crashed into a concrete retaining wall. Ellingboe and his mechanician remained in the car and neither was injured.

Wilbur D'Alene furnished a second thrill when his car caught fire on the back stretch. D'Alene and his mechanician jumped and escaped with a slight singeing. The fire was extinguished but the car was eliminated from the race. This was D'Alene's second narrow escape from death from fire. His previous experience was at the Chicago Speedway in 1917 when his machine caught fire and his mechanic was burned to death. D'Alene escaped with slight burns.

Milton Forced Out Early.

Tommy Milton, 1921 speed champion and winner of the 500-mile race here last year, was among the drivers forced out of the race early. A leaking gas line caused his withdrawal. Jules Goux of France went out of the contest on the sixteenth mile with a broken axle. He was among the leaders when the axle gave way.

Leon Duray, claimant of the 1921 dirt track championship and driving his first speedway race, gave Murphy a terrific battle early in the contest but was forced out on his 126th mile with a broken axle. Peter de Paolo, nephew of Ralph de Palma, was in the third smash-up of the day, his car hitting the outside retaining wall, skidding more than a hundred feet and landing at the bottom of the track. The driver was uninjured, but the car was unable to proceed.

The pilots of W. Douglas Hawkes of London, England, driving an English car, won the admiration of the crowd. Outclassed by many miles in speed, the machine nevertheless showed wonderful endurance. It was still running when the tenth car ended its journey and the race was officially closed. Hawkes was about thirty miles behind the last to finish.

One Driver Killed and Another Hurt in Missouri Auto Race

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 30.—W. M. Reynolds, of Detroit, Mich., was killed and William Jackles, of Des Moines, Iowa, sustained three fractured ribs when their cars crashed on the sixth lap of a six-mile automobile race at Independence, Mo., today. The drivers had swerved to avoid hitting a board torn from the fence by a machine ahead of them. Reynolds's car was demolished. He died beneath the wreckage with a crushed skull. Jackles's machine was also wrecked. He was removed to a sanitarium.

CORNELL SUCCUMBS TO PENN NINE, 10-9

Huntzinger Pitches His Ninth Straight Victory of Season—Has Poor Support in Field.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—The Cornell baseball team succumbed to Pennsylvania here this afternoon by 10 to 9. It was Huntzinger's ninth consecutive victory this season. Huntzinger held the Ithacans to eight hits and fanned nine men, but his support was very poor.

With three runs home in the ninth, only one needed to tie and two men out, Eddie Kaw, the Cornell football hero who wrought so much havoc on Franklin Field last Thanksgiving Day, ended the game on a force play. Three times before Kaw had struck out.

Horan Allows Only Four Hits in Defeating Boston College by 8-1 Score.

Special to The New York Times.

WORCESTER, Mass., May 30.—Holy Cross turned back Boston College in a slow game here today, 8 to 1. Horan was wild at times, but steadied down in pinches and allowed only four hits. Patten, the Boston southpaw, lasted a little over four innings. Gagnon's hitting was the feature. Palmer played a stellar defensive game for the visitors.

YALE SHUTS OUT TRINITY.

Ellis Win, 2 to 0, in First Visit to Hartford in Fifteen Years.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 30.—Yale shut out Trinity, 2 to 0, this afternoon, but the crowd that came out to welcome Yale's first baseball visit to Trinity in fifteen years saw a good contest in which the breaks seemed slightly to favor Yale. The Trinity fielders seemed nervous and erratic in the opening innings and later Norman at first and Robinson at third erred at crises, though they both acquitted themselves well of the stiff work imposed on them.

After two hitless and runless innings, Crane, the second man up in the third, landed safely, stole second and came in on Ged's nicely placed slam to right field. Ged scored the second and last run of the game when Aldrich lifted one over second base, which Ortgies just failed to reach.

Hits by Eddy and Mallory, combined with Norman's error in the fourth, filled the bases, but Tuck stood ready and the danger passed. With two out in the third, Norman slipped a two-base liner over first base, but was left on second, and other possibilities of scoring in the fourth and seventh were dissipated by the dependable work of White.

W. VA. WINS 6TH STRAIGHT.

Defeats University of Pittsburgh Nine by 9 to 6 Score.

Special to The New York Times.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., May 30.—By defeating the University of Pittsburgh here this afternoon, 9 to 6, West Virginia registered its sixth straight victory. The Mountaineers got off to an early lead and were never headed, the Panthers being at the mercy of Evans in every frame except one, the fifth, when they rallied and scored six runs.

KERRIGAN BREAKS COURSE PAR MARK

Makes Round at White Beeches Club in 70—Results on Other Golf Links.

Taking a leaflet out of Jesse Sweetser's notebook, George Kerrigan, the young home-bred professional whose deeds won him fame in the South during the past Winter, yesterday set a new record for the White Beeches Golf and Country Club, Haworth, N. J. Kerrigan clipped two notches off the par figures for the 6,818-yard course by shooting a 70.

His achievement was made in the course of a four-ball match in which he was partnered with R. W. Porter, one of the home club amateurs, against Peter O'Hara, former New Jersey open champion, and Mark Townsend of Shackamaxon, in the feature event on the program arranged in celebration of the opening of three new holes.

Kerrigan, a brother of Tommy Kerrigan, the Siwanoy professional who finished third in the British open a year ago, held strictly to the par path for the first five holes, but at the sixth he had a birdie 3. He continued at par for the remaining seven holes, but at the fourteenth he had another birdie and finished out in even pars.

His card with par:

Out—
Par	4	4	4	3	5	4	4	4	4	—36
Kerrigan	4	4	4	3	5	3	4	4	4	—35
In—
Par	3	5	4	4	4	3	4	5	4	—36—72
Kerrigan	3	5	4	4	3	3	4	5	4	—35—70

Kerrigan and Porter finished 2 up on O'Hara and Townsend at the end of the thirty-six-hole contest.

Frank H. Hennessy was the winner of the flag contest, while J. C. Hindle won the driving event with three tee shots that measured 619 yards. J. S. Ogsbury was second with 615 yards. The winner of the May tournament was H. S. Hosley.

At Wykagyl Country Club.

E. K. Gillette and C. M. Hanley tied in the thirty-six-hole medal play handicap event for the President's trophy at the Wykagyl Country Club, New Rochelle, yesterday, each having a net score of 144. Gillette had 85 in the morning round and an 87 in the afternoon, while Hanley had a pair of 86s. Both are handicap 32 players. The runner-up prize went to R. E. Christie. G. E. Folk won the morning sweepstakes event among the Class A players, finishing 1 down to par. E. K. Gillette and W. Sherer tied for the honors in Class B, all even with par. The afternoon sweepstakes went to W. K. Kreps in Class A and I. C. Rogers in Class B. Both were 2 down to par.

At Siwanoy Country Club.

Honors were evenly distributed at the Siwanoy Country Club, Mount Vernon, yesterday, the low gross honors of the day going to Lloyd Dwyer, with a 78. Al Hedley finished at the head of the low net division in Class A, with an 84 to 77, while Ben Wilson won in Class B, with 93, 20—73, and E. C. Riemer in Class C, with 104, 33—71. The flag tournament was won by B. Huyler, who planted the colors on the nineteenth green. Mrs. A. Cronlin proved to be the most accurate putter among the ladies, winning the prize in that event.

At Baltusrol Golf Club.

Ball sweepstakes was the only event on the program of the Baltusrol Golf Club, Short Hills, N. J., yesterday, the winner being H. M. Balsh, with 79, 7—72. Robert Barr and N. E. Stout were tied for second, the former having 81, 7—74 and the latter 89, 15—74.

WINS HALF OF PROGRAM.

Welland's Horses Scored at Nassau Club Opening.

MINEOLA, L. I., May 30.—The opening trotting matinee of the Nassau Driving Club at the Fair Grounds here today attracted a large attendance. Six races made up the card and all were closely contested.

Charley Welland, the New York sportsman, won half the program with State Post driving. The two-year-old event went to his new stepper Trumpet, which nosed out Jack Looney with Bill Talbert in straight heats.

His Peter the Great colt, Peter Pfaff, a three-year-old, took the 2:18 class trot in 2:16 from the Junior League Champion Lady Peyton Kelly. In the 2:20 class the Welland pacer Miss Ingomar had an easy time to win over the trotters Honest Bill and Panuco.

Edgar Shoemaker, President of the club, came out with The Frisco Belle in the 2:25 class trot. She trimmed five other horses, including Tonda, James Shevlin's fast trotter, and Royal Stokes. The summaries:

BARNES AND HAGEN LEAVE.

Sail for England to Compete in British Open Tourney.

"Long Jim" Barnes, the Pelham Country Club professional, who holds the national open golf championship, and Walter Hagen, P. G. A. and Western open titleholder, sailed for England on the Berengaria yesterday to compete in the British open championship which will be held at Sandwich this month. Barnes and Hagen, together with Jock Hutchison, the British titleholder, constitute America's only hopes in the famous event, which will have among its competitors the leading golfers of Scotland, England, Ireland and Wales, in addition to France and Australasia. The trio will return to this side immediately after the championship in order to get into condition for the national open to be held at the Skokie Country Club in July.

ARTHUR SPENCER IS VICTOR OVER PIANI

Cycling Giant Takes Two Straight Heats in Mile Match Race at Newark Track.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., May 30.—Arthur Spencer, the 220-pound giant, gave a great exhibition of riding at the Velodrome here this afternoon when he defeated Orlando Piani, the Italian star, who has been cleaning up, in two straight heats of a one-mile match race. Spencer rode from the rear on both occasions and then sprinted the last eighth mile in twelve seconds flat, which is the fastest ridden at the Newark saucer this season.

Raymond Eaton caused surprise when he defeated Frank Kramer in two straight heats of a one-mile match race. Kramer was the favorite. Eaton rode around him as they went into the last lap of the first heat and circled him on the first turn in the second heat.

Eaton also won the five-mile open, which was a hard race. He beat Alf Grenda, Alfred Goulet, Willie Hanley, Jake Magin, Reggie McNamara and Cecil Walker in the order named.

Eddie Madden won a three-cornered match race against Alfred Goulet and Harry Kaiser. Goulet won the first heat, just beating Madden. In the second heat, while Goulet was watching Kaiser, Madden dashed into the lead and beat Goulet to the tape. Madden caught Goulet napping again in the third heat and took the lead a lap and a quarter from home, beating Goulet and Kaiser.

Grenda won the two-mile handicap riding from scratch. He defeated Cliff Papworth, Bill Erskine, Willie Hanley and Charley Osterritter.

Willie Grimm won the one-mile class A invitation race for the amateurs, beating Willie Beck, Sam Gaatman, Walter Skarbeck and Frank Bartell. The half-mile amateur handicap went to Harold Bower, who led William Hueber, Harry Young, Frank Smith and Russell Lang over the line.

MISS WAINWRIGHT SETS WORLD'S MARK

Swims 150 Yards in 1:49 3-5 in Brighton Beach Pool—Miss Riggin Is Second.

MISS O'MARA A WINNER

Captures Metropolitan A. A. U. Junior 50-Yard Championship From Miss Ethel McGary.

Miss Helen Wainwright of the New York Women's Swimming Association added another women's swimming record to her list yesterday when she created a new world's pool mark for 150 yards. Miss Wainwright swam the distance at the Brighton Beach Baths pool in the remarkable time of 1 minute 49 3-5 seconds, eclipsing the best previous mark by one-fifth of a second. The old record was 1:50 4-5, made by Mrs. Charlotte Boyle Clune last year at Honolulu. The men's record for the distance is 1:48 4-5, made by Perry McGillivray, a Chicago swimmer.

Miss Wainwright accomplished her remarkable performance in a special invitation race at 150 yards, which featured the opening outdoor swimming carnival of the local season. The W. S. A. miss shewed the way to the Misses Aileen Riggin, Olympic fancy diving champion, and Ethel McGary, who recently made several records in a 300-yard swim. Miss Wainwright finished with a victorious margin of about eight yards over Miss Riggin, who carried off second position from Miss McGary by a comfortable margin.

Victory Not Unexpected.

The victory of Miss Wainwright was not, altogether unexpected. The spectacular young swimmer was the favorite for premier prize and entered the event with the avowed intention of making an assault on Mrs. Clune's year-old mark. When the gun bark sent the mermaids diving into the water at the start of their journey, Miss Wainwright bobbed to the surface first slightly in the lead. With a few powerful strokes she trashed her way to an advantage of a yard before the race had progressed beyond the first turn. Thereafter Miss Wainwright was in front, swimming with all the power she could muster for her arm and leg drives. Miss Riggin struggled valiantly to overhaul her rival in the early stages of the race and held close to the fast-swimming Miss Wainwright. Miss McGary, too, clung to a contending position with Miss Riggin. As the race progressed, however, Miss Wainwright's powerful strokes carried her to victory.

Miss Doris O'Mara of the Women's Swimming Association outswam her rival clubmates in the struggle for the Metropolitan A. A. U. junior 50-yard championship title. Miss McGary was a starter in this event, but experienced her second setback, finishing third, closely blowing Miss Frances Cooney, who sailed Miss O'Mara. Miss O'Mara's leading spurt won the title for her. The newly crowned champion went into the lead at the 30-yard mark, but her advantage was scant and insecure. Despite the spirited efforts of her rivals to overhaul her, however, Miss O'Mara clung to the lead, and finished with an advantage of about two feet in one of the closest finishes yet seen here. The time was 32 seconds.

Balbach Wins Diving Contest.

Louis Balbach of the New York A. C., captain of the Columbia University swimming team, captured premier award in a fancy diving contest from a 10-foot spring board. Balbach corralled the victorious total of 63.3 points. Thomas McKee was second with 52 points and Tom Hirschfield of the City A. C. was third with 50 tallies.

The summaries:

50-Yard Swim, Metropolitan A. A. U. Junior Championship—Won by Miss Doris O'Mara, New York Women's Swimming Association; Miss Frances Cooney, New York Women's Swimming Association, second; Miss Florence Briscoe, New York Women's Swimming Association (0:16), third. Time—1:25 4-5.

100-Yard Swim for Men, Handicap—Won by Thomas Stern, Central Y. M. C. A.; Brooklyn (0:15); Archibald Morrison, Central Y. M. C. A., Brooklyn (0:3), second; Gustave Kersten, Central Y. M. C. A., Brooklyn (0:0), third. Time—1:07 2-5.

Fancy Diving Contest for Men—Won by Louis Balbach, New York A. C., with 63.3 points; Thomas McKee, unattached, 52 points, second; Thomas Hirschfield, City A. C., 50 points, third.

CUBS ANNEX A PAIR.

Win Morning Game From Cards, 4-1, and Afternoon's, 3-1.

CHICAGO, May 30.—Chicago bunched its hits this afternoon and made it two straight from the St. Louis Cardinals, 3 to 1. The Cubs won the morning game, 4 to 1. The afternoon contest was a pitching duel between Doak and Aldridge, the former suffering one bad inning.

Heathcote and Flack, outfielders, who were traded each for the other by the two clubs after the morning game, played this afternoon with their new teammates.

off Scott's glove for a single, and then came Schang's three-base wild throw and the winning run.

Memorial Day ceremonies in honor of the late Captain Eddie Grant were held before the afternoon game. A detachment of Grant's former comrades from his company of the 307th Infantry marched out to centre field and placed a wreath on the shaft erected in memory of the first major league player who fell in action in the World War.

Waite Hoyt and young Jim Sullivan, late of Molina, hooked up in the morning battle, and the Child Wonder allowed only six hits. The Athletics scored first in the third inning, but the Yanks came up even in the fourth and went ahead in the seventh.

This looked like the winning run until Ward rocked the boat in the eighth. After Young had filed out, Dos Johnston singled to right, the ball bouncing briskly against the right field fence. Meusel threw the ball back to Ward, who examined it and found it considerably bruised.

"This ball is no good," said Aaron to Umpire Dick Nallin, whereupon Wardie blithely tossed the pellet to the Yankee bench. It was a beautiful throw, and the ball sailed straight to the dugout. But Aaron had overlooked one simple formality; he hadn't asked Nallin's consent before he discarded the pill, and the net result was that Johnston raced to third unmolested and later scored the tying run. The Yanks, however, went ahead in the same inning, Ward righting the wrong with a single, and the game was safe.

Score Is Tied Twice.

The morning session, which was attended by an audience of 12,000 was quite a battle. The score was tied twice, and it was not until the eighth that the winning run was jammed over the plate. The Athletics began tampering with Hoyt in the third inning, when Galloway singled to left with one out and stole second. Pitcher Sullivan, whose fame as a batter has not yet reached New York, now faced the Child Wonder, and Hoyt put one where James wanted it. The ensuing incident was a single on which Galloway scored the first run.

Not until Ruth got busy in the fourth did the Yanks tie. As a starter the Bambino shot a husky double against the right field stand. Pinch hitter Meusel rolled to young Welch was no good at all, and the best Busting Bob Meusel could do was to be thrown out by Galloway. On this the Babe creaked along to third, and he rumbled home when Pipp singled sharply to right centre.

A pair of doubles in the lucky seventh sent in what looked at the time like the winning run, nobody having figured on what damage Ward's intellectual processes would do later on. Scott hit down the first line for two bases, and Schang followed with a fly that Tilly Walker pursued to the corner of the lot and then dropped after he had his hands on it. The blow went for a double and Scott scored easily.

Then came Ward's little surprise party in the eighth, which compelled the Yanks to go out and win the ball game all over again. Having helped the Athletics to tie the score, Ward started the fuss which upset the Machmen. A moan opened the eighth with a solid single to centre. Ruth kept up his timely hitting with a single to right, a terrific smash which dropped at Welch's feet, and Ward scooted to third. Pinch Hitter Meusel batted to Welch the winning run came over.

ENGLAND FLOCKING TO EPSOM DOWNS

St. Louis Is Favorite for Derby Today, With the Odds at 9 to 2.

LONDON, May 30 (Associated Press).—Tomorrow is Derby Day. Dawn will find assembled at Epsom Downs the vanguard of the Gypsies, fakirs, peddlers and tipsters who annually go early in order to avoid the rush of dukes, dowagers, business men and costermongers who in airplanes, automobiles, donkey carts or on foot, arrive later to swell the attendance to hundreds of thousands for this the greatest of England's turf classic.

The Derby, originally merely a horse race, long ago became an institution—perhaps England's most democratic sporting institution. Not until some time after 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, the time when the barrier is due to be raised, sending away some thirty of the choicest bits of horseflesh on this side of the water over the mile and a half course, will the people, from the broker in his London office to the dockyard laborer in South Wales, lose their usual intentness, for the race has divided most true Englishmen into two classes, those who have backed the winner and those who have not.

This year Sol Joel's colt Pondoland, which is to be ridden by the American jockey Frank O'Neill, was the favorite to win the event until several days ago he developed a boil on one of his hind legs. Skillful treatment has now restored the horse to good condition and he will go to the post perhaps the most heavily backed of any of the other contenders, with the exception of Lord Queenborough's St. Louis, which is now booked as the favorite with the odds 9 to 2. Another American jockey, George Archibald, will have the leg up on St. Louis. Prior to his sensational victory in the Two Thousand Guineas Stakes St. Louis was regarded as an outsider for the Derby.

England's champion jockey, Steve Donoghue, the winner of three Derbies, will ride Lord Woolavington's Captain Cuttle, which is quoted at good odds. Other long-shot entries include Viscount Astor's Tamar and Sir Ernest Paget's Reecho.

Five horses were scratched out of the race today, but six additional entries were announced tonight as probable starters. Those scratched are Swithin, White Satin, Lord Bilberry, Royal Lancer and Flavius.

The probable starters, with their jockeys, are as follows:

Pondoland (O'Neill), Reecho (Gardner), Scamp (Lane)s Simon Pure (Jelliss), Ceylonese (Lister), Captain Cuttle (Donoghue), St. Louis (Archibald), Villars (Bellhouse), Galway Prince (W. Smyth), Le Fox (Winter), Double First (Taimon), Dr. Gull (H. Jones), Schiehallion (——), Diligence (McGee), Rung Ho (Ledson), North End (Wragg), Tamar (Frank Bullock), Bucks Hussar (Childs), Craigangower (Beary), Fast (Carslake), Irish Battle (F. Fox), Silpho (King), Batelles (Elliott), Lord of Burghley (Whalley), Psychology (Beasley), Noresman (Grigg), Baydon (Thwaites), True Knight (Cooper), Silvanus (Piper), Great Star (B. Smyth), Jacquot (Blades), and Moyode (G. Smith).

WINS IN POLO TOURNEY.

Philadelphia C. C. Defeats Bryn Mawr Reds and Greens.

BRYN MAWR, Pa., May 30.—The Philadelphia Country Club today won a round robin polo tournament from the Bryn Mawr Reds and Bryn Mawr Greens with a total score of 12 goals. Each team played the other four periods, the team scoring the greatest number of goals being declared the winner. The Reds scored 8 and the Greens 6 goals.

BROWNS AND TIGERS DIVIDE.

St. Louis Wins Afternoon Game in Sixteen Innings by 2 to 1.

ST. LOUIS, May 30.—St. Louis and Detroit broke even in today's doubleheader, the Tigers taking the morning game, 6 to 5, while the Browns captured the afternoon contest, 2 to 1, in sixteen innings. It was due to efforts of recruits that the afternoon contest went to the local team, after Shocker had held Detroit to eleven hits and one run in fourteen and one-third innings. Durst, substituting for Tobin in right field after the latter had blown up one of the game together with Shocker in the fifteenth inning, singled, was sacrificed to second and scored the winning run on a single by Collins.

Mad Hatter Gets Top Weight For the Suburban Handicap

The weight allotments for the Suburban Handicap, which will have its thirty-sixth running on Saturday at Belmont Park, have been given out by Handicapper Vosburgh. The place of honor in the list of seventy eligibles is accorded to Mad Hatter, the great stake horse of the Rancocas Stable, which ran second in the Suburban last season, when the event was captured by Audacious in the record time for the race of a mile and a quarter of 2:02 1-5. In 1921 Mad Hatter packed the burden of 130 pounds, and his rating is the same this year. Just below the brown son of Fair Play comes Jennings Park, the greatly improved campaigner from the Westmont Stable, whose weight for the Suburban is 127 pounds, one more than Yellow Hand and Grey Lag are asked to take up. Audacious, last year's victor and the holder of the American one-mile racing mark, 1:35 3-5, made on this track, gets in with 126 pounds.

Prince of Wales Gets a New Office as Captain of Golf Club

The Royal and Ancient Club, St. Andrews, Scotland, governing body of the game in the British Isles, will have a member of the royal family as its captain in 1922, according to Golf Illustrated, the British publication which is edited by Harold H. Hilton, open champion in 1892 and 1897; amateur champion in 1900, 1901, 1911 and 1913, and American amateur champion in 1911. The Prince of Wales, it is stated in the current issue, just resolved here, has signified his intention of accepting the honor conferred upon him and will play himself into office, according to custom, at the Autumn meeting of the club on Sept. 27.

ROCKET CAPTURES TOBOGGAN HANDICAP

but in other respects the spectators had a most enjoyable outing.

R. J. Murphy's bay filly Tammie had the speed of the field of six starters in the Woodside Handicap. She made all the pace, after indulging H. Alterman's Tufter with the lead for the first two furlongs of the course of a mile and a sixteenth. She tired somewhat in the stretch run, however, and Thomas had to ride her out to beat Tufter a length. W. R. Coe's Star Shoot gelding, David Harum, dropped into third place.

The Runnymede Purse, in which three-year-olds, which had never won three races except those of a selling variety, were asked to sprint six furlongs, was won in a thrilling finish by J. S. Cosden's Highheart. It was a two-horse race all the way between the winner and Siliveconard, the Sanford Stud Farm's entrant, and the latter was only a nose to the rear at the wire. Mustard Seed took the show end of the purse.

Equals Course Record.

Nine, two-year-old fillies, none of which had ever won a race, cantered out to Starter Cassidy's perch for the opening dash of the card. Of these J. S. Cosden's Crochet, a daughter of Celt-Network, made a show of her rivals, scampering off with the victor's share of the spoils without being extended and equaling the course record of 0:51 for four and a half furlongs.

John E. Madden's Disguise filly, The Kiss, was the public choice in this event on the strength of her nice race against Equinoctial upon her début last Saturday. The layers held her at only 4 to 5 in the opening betting, but heavy wagers on Crochet and also on Cherry Court, a newcomer from W. J. Salmon's stable, caused the recession of the favorite's price to 7 to 5 at post time.

The race itself served only to give Crochet a chance to display the blazing speed which has been storing up since her last appearance under colors. She spreadeagled the field, leading all the way and drawing into a long lead in the final furlong of the four and a half furlong course. At the close she was coming on galloping to beat Sister Sue by seven lengths. The latter closed a big gap in the final stages and nosed The Kiss out of the place.

Mohican, the Greentree Stable's entrant, proved the best of the quintet of jumpers which took the obstacles in the selling steeplechase. The old son of Isidor was an odds-on choice in the speculation. Mohican, which fenced well and cleanly all the way, had a duel with J. E. Widener's Wiseat Fool for the first mile and a half. Then the former drew into a commanding lead and crossed the finish line four lengths ahead of Wiseat Fool. New Haven was third, a block or so behind.

NEW YORK OARSMEN TAKE SEVEN RACES

Mercury Foot Boats Lead in Three Events of Memorial Day Regatta on Harlem.

N. Y. A. C. JUNIOR EIGHT WINS

Beats New Rochelle Crew by Half a Length—Stuyvesant H. S. Lads Are Victors.

Father Knickerbocker's sturdy oarsmen repeated their success of last year by capturing the major portion of the first places, and a goodly number of seconds and thirds, in the annual Memorial Day Regatta on the Harlem River yesterday afternoon. The New York Athletic Club set the pace, the Mercury Foot crewsters annexing first honors in three events and a third in another. The First Bohemian Boat Club took two first places, while the Union Boat Club and the Nonpareil Rowing Club, with one victory each, completed the New York contingent's total of seven triumphs to four for the out-of-town clubs. In the high school race the Stuyvesant crew was the winner by three lengths.

It was an almost ideal day for rowing. There was a slight wind, which barely ruffled the water in spots, and the tide was up-stream at 2 o'clock, the hour set for the first race, but the conditions were in favor of the oarsmen.

The tide necessitated the rowing of the races up-stream, instead of down, as the other races of the year have been run. This made it necessary to start the events at Washington Bridge, which ordinarily offers plenty of points of vantage as a finishing point, while the site of the United Power plant, the finish line yesterday, is difficult of access except by water. These conditions made the number of onlookers small. The heavy up-stream tide drove most of the smaller craft into sheltered coves, while there was an unusual scarcity of larger yachts and barges, so characteristic of rowing regattas.

New York A. C. Wins Close Race.

The junior eight-oared shell race, the principal one on the program, furnished plenty of excitement for those able to see the last quarter mile. The New York Athletic Club's octet, stroked by the veteran Terwilliger, poked its nose over the finish line a scant half length ahead of the eight from the New Rochelle Rowing Club after a neck-and-neck struggle over the entire mile distance. Yale University's graduate crew, conquerors of Penn's graduate crew at Philadelphia, the only other entry, was hopelessly outdistanced from the start and limped across the finish line five lengths behind the others.

Both the Mercury Foot eight and the Red and Black oared crew from New Rochelle got away to a good start and paced along for the first half mile on almost even terms. Then the out-of-towners began to draw away gradually, and when they had reached a point opposite the Union Boat Club House, the three-quarter mile mark, they were almost a half length in front. But the New York outfit had something in reserve. Using a long, steady sweep, they overhauled their opponents inch by inch, sped along for a few yards at a dead heat and just before they reached the finish line sent their shell a half length ahead to win.

In the intermediate single sculls event Joseph Cremins of the New York Athletic Club staged another final stretch rally but was so exhausted at the finish line he fell out of his boat and had to be fished out of the river by those on a nearby launch. Cremins and Quinn, of the Ravenswood Boat Club of Long Island fought it out for the entire mile, neither one allowing the other more than a foot or two advantage. Cremins's sprint came just before he reached the coal barge flying the finish flags, and it was partly due to a peculiar twist caused by the tide that he was able to win the event.

Mishap Beats Foley and Menne.

Dr. Walter Foley and Frank Menne, Metropolitan Rowing Club, were forced to cede the intermediate double sculls race to William Symington and Walter Klatt of the Nonpareil Rowing Club when their scull ran afoul of some floating wreckage, and in the effort to get clear of the obstructions the Orange and Black pair shot to the fore and crossed the finish line alone. It was a hard race to lose, as Foley and Menne had been riding along at least two lengths in the lead for practically the whole distance and were not being pressed when the accident occurred. Following the race they announced their intention of protesting the result.

Perhaps the greatest interest of the gallery was centered in the high school race, a new addition to the Memorial Day program, which was run late in the afternoon after the completion of the regular events. Stuyvesant High School's first crew ran away with the race, winning by at least three lengths. The result was a surprise even to the Red and Blue rooters themselves, for this season's crew is the first that Stuyvesant has had for several years, and De Witt Clinton, which came in third, after the New Rochelle eight, was generally considered the favorite, having come in fifth in the recent interscholastics at Yale.

The closest event of the afternoon was the race among the senior quadruple sculls, which was won by the First Bohemian Boat Club in a driving finish. The Harlem River oarsmen flashed across the finish line just two-fifths of a second ahead of the Undine Boat Club of Philadelphia.

More than fifty crews, representing twenty-two different rowing organizations in the city and vicinity, took part in the regatta. Following the races the victors were awarded the customary plaques, cups and medals at the Nonpareil Rowing Club boat house.

The summaries:

Junior Single Sculls—Won by F. J. Muff, Ravenswood Boat Club; William Haynes, Metropolitan Rowing Club, second; Thomas J. Molloy, Nassau Boat Club, third; Lawrence Balliere, Ariel Rowing Club, fourth. Time—3:37 3-5.

Washington Oarsmen, on Way East, Will Meet Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis., May 30.—Arrangements have been completed by Director of Athletics T. E. Jones of the University of Wisconsin to have the University of Washington oarsmen meet the Badgers on their way east to the Poughkeepsie regatta. The Washingtonians will arrive here on June 8 and remain until June 13, using the Badger course for training and racing with the Cardinal eight. The Badgers have been working on a heavy schedule and it was definitely announced that they would resume the eastern trips to Poughkeepsie in 1923.

CRESCENT TWELVE DEFEATS TORONTO

New Moon Lacrosse Team Again Wins Over Canadian Collegians—Score Is 9 to 5.

In a fast and well-played game, the lacrosse team of the Crescent Athletic Club defeated the twelve of Toronto University by a score of 9 to 5 on the field of the New Moon organization at Bay Ridge yesterday afternoon. It was the second meeting of the two teams, the club players having defeated the collegians last Saturday afternoon by a score of 3 to 1. The Canadian players have been the guests of the Crescents over the week-end.

The first half was very fast and closely contested, with the New Mooners jumping into the lead at the start on Scott's goal. The lead was never overcome and at the end of the first 25-minute period the club crosse wielders had shot four goals to the two driven into the net by the Canadians. From that time on the game became rather one-sided, although the visitors added three more goals in the second half.

While the visitors played just as close a guarding game as in the first contest, the Crescents opened up much wider and the Canadian college boys were less successful in cutting off shots in front of their own goal. It was the greater experience and generalship of the club players that enabled them to run up a score three times as great as on Saturday. Scott was the individual scoring star, the Crescents' second attack driving home four goals. One of these was the most brilliant effort of the afternoon. Scott rushed in on a pass, only to have the ball taken away from him. He lost and recovered it three times in front of Toronto's goal, finally driving it past Firth into the net. Kilpatrick, inside home, was the leading scorer for the visitors, making three goals. Toronto once more played without substitutes.

The line-up:

CRESCENT A. C. (9)		TORONTO UNIV. (5)
Barney	G.	Firth
Cypriot	P.	Henderson
Hartnett	C. P.	Irwin
Holmann	F. D.	McBride
Andrews	S. D.	D'Easum
Brower	T. D.	Wilcox
Collins	C.	Usher
O'Rourke	T. A.	Sparks
Scott	S. A.	Evans
Taylor	F. A.	Willcox
Meistrell	O. H.	McIntosh
V. Kennedy	I. H.	Kilpatrick

Goals—Brower, Scott (4), Taylor (2), Kennedy (2), Evans, McIntosh, Kilpatrick (2).

Substitutions—Crescent A. C.: Golden for Brower, McGee for Scott, Sims for Meistrell, Frank McCormick for Sims, Keeler for V. Kennedy.

Referee—C. W. Wardell. Time of halves—25 minutes.

OPENS YACHTING SEASON.

Indian Harbor Club Holds First Races at Greenwich.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., May 30.—With a volley fire from the flagship Pep, owned by Commodore William Hamlin Childs, at 2:30 P. M. today, followed by a display of fireworks, the Indian Harbor Yacht Club was formally opened for the season. Interest centred in a race between the six-meter boats and the narrow class yachts.

There was a light southwest wind blowing when the yachts started over the course, going once around. The Vauwa, owned by W. J. Wayte, in the meter class, crossed the line a winner but a few seconds ahead of Miss Katherine Lauder's Snapper, one of the arrow class boats.

The summary:

Vauwa, W. J. Wayte, Meter Class...4:55:23
Snapper, Miss Katherine Lauder, Arrow Class 4:56:09
Kiowa, Gordon Raymond, Arrow Class 4:57:00
Jack o' Lantern, Johnson Bradish, Arrow Class 4:57:22

Tonight a dinner dance was held at the club, which was attended by over 500 persons.

Special to The New York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., May 30.—Clarence Duryee, with a score of 145 out of a possible 150, won the high-gun prize in the registered trapshooting tournament here today under the auspices of the Arrowhead Rod and Gun Club.

S. J. Oehler won the Class A event with a score of 143. Oscar Mundy, Dr. Fred Hoffman, Dr. W. H. Anthony and Charles Brokaw tied for second place with 140. Mundy won in the shoot-off. William Stillwagon, with 144, won the Class B event. C. C. Carroll and Charles Case being tied for second place with 139. John Peakey won the Class C event with 136, Harry Snook and Fred Lambertson being tied for second place with 135. Theodore Townsley was the winner of Class D with 139.

PIRIE ELECTED CAPTAIN.

New York Boy Will Lead Princeton's Varsity Crew in 1923.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 30.—John T. Pirie of New York City, who has rowed stroke oar on the Princeton Black varsity crew this season, was today elected Captain of the 1923 Tiger oarsmen. Pirie is now a member of the sophomore class at Princeton. He prepared for college at St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., where he was a member of the crews for a number of years. He also stroked last year's freshman eight.

YALE CUB CREW WINS.

Defeats Harvard 150-Pound Eight by Half a Length.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., May 30.—Yale freshmen 150-pound oarsmen won from the Harvard lightweight first year crew by half a length in a pretty race over the Henley distance in the Charles River Basin this morning. The Yale crew won through its ability to keep a higher stroke steadily throughout the race. It was Yale's second successive victory in two years. The race last year was rowed over the Housatonic course.

Wesleyan Makes Tennis Sweep.

LEWISTON, Me., May 30.—Wesleyan made a clean sweep in both singles and doubles in a tennis tournament with Bates today.

NEW YORK SCHOOL WINS MEET HONORS

Walters Leads Manhattanites to Fore in Evening High Track and Field Games.

Joseph Walters led the athletes of the New York Evening High School to victory yesterday in the fifth annual championship track and field meet for the evening high schools, held at Brooklyn Athletic Field. The New York E. H. S. youngsters compiled the overwhelming score of 46¼ points, 15 points in excess of the total accumulated by representatives of the Brooklyn Evening H. S., winners of the title last year, who finished second with 25¼ points. Bay Ridge E. H. S. was third, with 19 tallies.

Walters shared the individual honors of the day with Vincent Saulino of Bay Ridge E. H. S., former scholastic indoor sprinting champion. Both these youngsters captured two events and were the principal scorers for their respective teams. Walters captured the quarter-mile run in 53 seconds and broke the tape a winner in the half-mile run, in which his time was 2:06.

Saulino captured the senior 220-yard dash in 25 seconds, and carried off premier honors in the running broad jump, in which he cleared 19 feet 5 inches.

YOUNG LOWERS RUN RECORD

Wins Five-Mile Race From Williamstown to North Adams, Mass.

Special to The New York Times.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., May 30.—Wallace Young of this city won the annual Y. M. C. A. modified marathon race over a course of a little more than five miles, from Williamstown to this city today, finishing about 600 yards ahead of the field in 19:32 2-5, which is nearly five minutes better than the previous mark, made by Carter F. Jones of Brooklyn, a Williams College runner, a year ago.

Kenneth Donald of Readsboro, Vt., was second; Frederick J. Swan of Dorchester, Williams College cross-country man, third, and Clinton Banks of this city fourth.

2 ATHLETES REMEMBERED.

Lamb and Bebout, Killed in War, Included in Penn State Memorial.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 30.—The names of two of Penn State's greatest athletes were included on the memorial tablet dedicated here today to the seventy-three heroic Penn State men who gave their lives in the World War. Levi Lorenzo Lamb, a member of the class of 1915, whose home is at California, Pa., was a three-sport star, winning his letter in football, wrestling and track; while James D. (Red) Bebout of Pittsburgh of the class of 1914 was a star guard on the undefeated football teams of 1911 and 1912.

Lamb and Bebout were both killed in action on the western front while leading their commands against the Germans.

Captures High Scratch Prize at Mineola With Card of 98.

MINEOLA, L. I., May 30.—An interesting shoot was held over the traps of the Nassau Trapshooting Club here today for the benefit of the Legion Community Club. The winner was Mayer Reed, who won the high scratch prize with a card of 98 out of a possible 100 targets. J. F. Simonson took the long-run prize with a straight string of 99 targets. There was a tie for the high handicap prize among Mrs. Livingston, W. R. Sweetman, J. Nobowed and R. S. K. Munsie. All had full scores of 100 targets. On the shoot-off the prizes went in the order named.

BENSONHURST BOWS TO STATEN ISLAND

Cricket Champions Defeated in Exciting Game—Score Is 148 to 146.

In an exciting finish and by a margin of two runs, the champion team of the Bensonhurst Cricket Club met defeat in an association fixture at the hands of the eleven representing the Staten Island Cricket and Tennis Club on the grounds of the latter at Livingston, S. I., yesterday. Staten Island batted first compiling 146 runs, whereupon the home bowlers succeeded in putting down nine wickets for 109 runs. A stand by J. Evelyn and T. Seifert, the last pair, together put on thirty-seven more runs.

Bensonhurst looked like a sure winner when Evelyn made a leg hit off Captain De Motte. A run was attempted, but R. St. G. Jones made so quick a return that Seifert was run out, giving Staten Island the victory by two runs. Jones, besides scoring fifteen himself, made three fine catches and altogether contributed greatly to the success of his side.

F. F. Kelly, with thirty-seven, led in the batting for Staten Island. Other doubles were scored by N. F. Hart, E. H. L. Stonington, L. W. de Motte, G. N. B. Watkins and W. S. R. O'Gilvey.

WRIGHT WINS FIRST HALF.

Breaks 100 Birds in a Row in N. Y. State Tourney.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 30.—Frank S. Wright of Buffalo, three-time national champion, won the first half of the New York State trapshooting championship here today, breaking 100 birds in a row. Wright also won the Maplewood Hundred, gaining the right to represent the state of New York in the Maplewood Hundred event at Maplewood, N. J., in July. He broke 98 out of 100 in this event. The second half of the championship shoot will be shot tomorrow.

Paulo, Disabled War Veteran, Enters Chicago Track Meet

URBANA, Ill., May 30.—Among the entries received for the National Collegiate Athletic Association track and field meet, which will be held at Chicago June 17, is that of Paulo, the Grinnell star, who was seriously injured during the war. In spite of the loss of one eye and a part of one heel, in addition to carrying a piece of shrapnel in one of his legs, Paulo won the century in last year's meet and recently stepped the century in 0:09 4-5 and the furlong in 0:21 4-5 in the Grinnell-Washington dual meet.

KYNASTON RETAINS LAURELS ON COURT

Defeats Von Bernuth Decisively in Final of Nassau-Queens County Tourney.

For the third successive year Percy L. Kynaston of the West Side Tennis Club became the Nassau-Queens County tennis champion when he defeated Anton L. Von Bernuth of New Jersey yesterday afternoon, 6—2, 6—3, 6—1, in the final round of the singles at the North Hempstead Country Club, Port Washington, L. I. Kynaston thus becomes the permanent possessor of the Great Neck Hills Challenge Cup, which required three victories to pass out of competition. Kynaston did not lose a set in the entire tournament and, in the three years in which he has been champion, he has dropped but a single set.

The doubles championship was won by Ralph B. Gatcomb and Dr. S. E. Davenport Jr., who defeated Kynaston and Donald M. Lay by scores of 10—8, 8—6, 6—3. This was one of the best-played doubles contests in the history of the tournament and the losers were close to victory in both the first and second sets. Better team-work was the chief factor in the success of Gatcomb and Davenport, who have played together more than any other opponents. Gatcomb has now been Nassau-Queens County doubles champion six times, though not always with the same partner.

With the prospect of permanent possession of the challenge trophy to urge him on, Kynaston made an exceptionally strong effort in the singles against Von Bernuth. He was severe and accurate in his driving and exhibited much sagacity in playing for the openings. He had the former Columbian on the defensive all the way, working him repeatedly out of position by his swift drives to the corners of the base line and then advancing to the net to finish off the points by accurate volleying and smashing. Kynaston was in full control of the situation at every stage of the proceedings.

This was the fifth meeting of Kynaston and Von Bernuth. Once before they met in the Nassau-Queens County final and with the same result.

The summaries:

Nassau-Queens County Singles Championship—Final Round—Percy L. Kynaston defeated Anton L. Von Bernuth, 6—2, 6—3, 6—1.

Doubles Championship—Final Round—Ralph B. Gatcomb and Dr. S. E. Davenport defeated Kynaston and Donald M. Lay, 10—8, 8—6, 6—3.

HARLEM CLUB SCORES.

Defeats University of North Carolina at Nets by Score of 5 to 2.

The Harlem Tennis Club defeated the tennis team of the University of North Carolina by a score of 5 to 2 yesterday afternoon on the Harlem Club's courts, taking four out of five singles matches and breaking even in the two doubles matches. Their defeat was a rare experience for the Southerners, who have had victories over Lafayette, Lehigh, Georgetown, Georgia Tech and other leading college teams this season. Every match in the series was close, however. Deuce sets were in order in every match save one, and the exception ran into three sets.

The summaries:

Singles—Walter Abels, Harlem Club, defeated P. Cox, North Carolina, 6—2, 6—3; Larry Steinger, Harlem, defeated P. Cox, North Carolina, 5—7, 6—3, 9—7; H. H. Galbraith, Harlem, defeated B. H. Bordin, North Carolina, 6—3, 6—3; Edwin Ery, Harlem, defeated J. Brunson, North Carolina, 9—7, 5—7, 6—3; Robert Johnston, North Carolina, defeated Paul P. Goold, Harlem, 8—7, 10—8.

Doubles—P. Cox and F. Cox, North Carolina, defeated L. Steinger and O. Steinger, Harlem, 8—6, 13—11, 7—5; Galbraith and Goold, Harlem, defeated Bordin and Johnston, North Carolina, 4—6, 6—3, 9—4.

MISS BALLIN IS VICTOR.

Defeats Miss Willard in Pennsylvania Women's Net Play.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—Miss Florence A. Ballin, New York, won her way to the fourth round of the tournament for the women's tennis championship of Pennsylvania and Eastern States today by defeating Miss Mildred Willard, Philadelphia, 7—5, 4—6, 6—3. In the only other singles match played Miss Katherine Gardiner of Bryn Mawr eliminated Mrs. Robert Herold of Belfield, 6—2, 6—4.

William Tilden 2d, world's tennis champion, put in a strenuous day at his favorite sport, playing four championship matches and winning them all.

After winning the semi-final and final rounds, the latter a hard-fought five set match, in the tournament for the Philadelphia and district championship he dashed across country to the Philmont Club and with sandy Wiener, his 14-year-old prodigy, won two doubles matches in the Eastern Pennsylvania championship tournament. In the first round Tilden and Wiener defeated H. Hayday and A. T. Galbraith, Philadelphia, 6—2, 6—1, and in the second round they eliminated A. May and S. Wieder, Philadelphia, 6—4, 6—1.

In all Tilden played twelve sets, several of which went to deuce a number of times.

RICE AND WRIGHT SCORE.

Beat Niles and Williams for Bay State Doubles Tennis Title.

NEWTON, Mass., May 30.—Lawrence B. Rice and Irving C. Wright today won the Massachusetts State tennis doubles championship by defeating R. Norris Williams 2d, former national champion, and Nathaniel W. Niles, 6—4, 6—4, 8—6. Last year's champions, Raymond E. Bidwell and W. E. Porter, were eliminated in the semi-finals yesterday by the new champions.

SHIMIZU-HUNTER PAIR WINS EASILY

Defeats Richards and Hardy in Exhibition Doubles Match at Amackassin Club.

BRILLIANT TENNIS SHOWN

King, Hammett, Hunter and Binzen Reach Semi-Finals of Eastern State Tourney.

Dr. George King and Alfred D. Hammett in the upper half and Francis T. Hunter and Elliot H. Binzen in the lower reached the semi-finals yesterday afternoon in the tennis tournament at the Amackassin Club, Yonkers, for the Eastern New York State championship in singles. King and Hammett will meet tomorrow afternoon and Hunter and Binzen Friday afternoon in the semi-finals, and the final and championship match will be played on Saturday.

Besides the interesting tennis that developed in the fourth and fifth rounds of the tournament singles, an exhibition in doubles was put on for the delectation of the gallery of 1,000 fans who congregated on the clubhouse porch and lawns. Zenzo Shimizu, premier player of Japan, and Francis T. Hunter, national indoor champion, defeated Vincent Richards, national doubles champion, and Samuel Hardy, former Davis Cup Captain, in three brilliant sets, 1—6, 6—4, 6—4.

It was the doubles match that drew the crowd and the quality of play in it amply repaid attendance. For swiftness of stroking, quickness of thinking, tactical alertness and excellence of court-covering, it has not been surpassed by any doubles match played here this season. Richards, who is the pride of the Amackassin Club, where he learned his tennis, was the star of the opening set. His half-volley pick-ups, which sent the ball across the net with astonishing speed and correctness of aim, and his running back and severe handling of deep lobs provided the most spectacular moments of the set. Hardy, one of the greatest of doubles players, had almost as much speed as Richards and his placing was well nigh faultless. He won several points by remarkable control in chasing drives and scoring placements at the volley. Richards and Hardy dropped only the second game of the opening set and thereafter ran through six straight games, including the first of the second set.

Show Reversal of Form.

Then came a complete form reversal. As a result of Hunter's terrifically paced drives and Shimizu's unshakable steadiness, Richards and Hardy were turned back in no less than eleven straight games, Hunter and Shimizu taking the second set, 6—1, and running up a lead of 5-love in the rubber. Hunter's bet drives in unplayable positions at Hardy's or Richard's feet as they ran in to the net accounted for many points. Shimizu's accurate lobbing and cross-court shots served to keep Hardy and Richards away from the net, and Hunter's speed did the rest. Hardy tried to continue sneaking the ball just over the net by unexpected change of pace in the second set but had bad luck in hitting the top of the net, and many of Richard's best efforts at smashing also found the top of the barrier. Hunter's finishing shots stood out as the most brilliant contribution to this set.

Trailing at 5-love in the third set, Hardy and Richards started a rally which nearly evened the count. This was the most brilliantly played part of the match. Hardy and Richards drew up to within a single point of 5-all when an unlucky shot by Hardy halted them. Then Hunter, whose play in the second and third sets was the best of the four, and Shimizu, who gave him wonderful support in covering court, ran out the set in the next two games with the gallery keyed to a high pitch with excitement up to the last rally.

Before the doubles started Hunter, who is the highest ranking player in the tournament and the natural favorite for the title which Richards, winner a year ago, is not defending, played in two matches and won them both without ever being in serious difficulties. In the fourth round he more than matched the forceful and well-placed drives of Kenneth D. Fisher, former Staten Island champion, while having a strong advantage in volleying and overhead shooting. Yet Fisher made the indoor champion work, especially in the opener, which he forced into deuce games, and in which he had the set point up with a score of 5—4 and 40-love. Hunter played his prettiest tennis at that point and won at 7—5. He took the set and set 6—3.

In the succeeding round Hunter won over James D.

2,000 WAITERS WIN ALL WAGE DEMANDS

Employers Avert Strike, but Announce That Food Price Cuts Are Now Impossible.

INDEPENDENTS WILL FIGHT

Union No. 1 Will Call Out Its Men From Places Which Refuse to Yield.

The general strike of waiters called to begin tomorrow morning was averted yesterday when the New York Restaurant Keepers Association reached an agreement with Waiters Union, No. 1, to continue the present wage scale for another year.

The association, which represents proprietors of more than 350 lunch rooms and restaurants on the lower east side and Harlem and the Bronx, originally asked the union to accept a wage cut of from 25 to 40 per cent. and a 60-hour week. This was rejected by the union and a strike was ordered, but a final conference was arranged at which the employers receded from their demands.

David Elfenbein, President of the association, in announcing the settlement, said the union agreed to permit the proprietors to hire waitresses instead of men, if they desired. The association, he says, employs about 2,000 waiters. Under the wage scale men are paid $20 a week and girls receive $15.

As we are forced to continue the present wage scale," Mr. Elfenbein said, "the restaurant keepers will be unable to reduce their menu prices further at this time. We do not intend to replace the men with girls at this time, but will continue our present help as it is now constituted, mostly men, as long as business keeps up."

Union officials said last night they were preparing to call strikes against all the independent restaurants refusing to sign the union scale. About a hundred of these eating places, it was stated, already have signed, but the prospects are that several thousand waiters will be called out of independent places tomorrow.

BRAVES THIRD RAIL TO FIGHT SUBWAY FIRE

Motorman Puts Out Blaze in Cross Ties Despite Warnings of Firemen.

At the risk of death from electric shock James V. O'Gorman, an Interborough subway motorman, extinguished a fire in cross trees at Broadway and 123d Street early this morning while firemen, straddling the wall that lines the cut there, begged him to desist and leave the job to them. O'Gorman feared that by the time the current was shut off, traffic halted and the regular firemen got into action his own train, which he halted alongside the blaze, would be afire.

The motorman used a hand extinguisher from his own train. As he squirted the smothering liquid toward the flame, some of it reached the third rail, and twinges of current ran through the liquid to him. It made him wiggle, but he stuck to his post until the extinguisher was empty. O'Gorman, perched on top of one of the running rails, explained that if he stood on the ground the shock would be even worse.

The blast from the first extinguisher failed to quench the fire and passengers began to grow uneasy as the cars nearest the burning ties filled with smoke. Guards led them to cars further back while O'Gorman tried a second time. Again he failed quite to drown out the fire, but by then firemen, who had been momentarily expecting to see him killed had got their own chemical apparatus working and in a minute it was all over.

The fire tied up traffic for about twenty minutes.

BASES LIFE HOPES ON BOOTS

Condemned Man Plans Appeal on Newly Discovered Evidence.

HERKIMER, N. Y., May 30.—Upon a pair of rubber boots Rutger Warder, awaiting execution at Sing Sing prison for the murder of Henry Werner here in February, 1921, is basing his hopes of escaping the electric chair. This week, in the Supreme Court at Watertown, attorneys for the condemned man will appeal for another trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence in the form of the rubber boots.

After the discovery of Werner's body in a ravine, suspicion was directed to Warder and the dead man's widow. Under pressure of questioning, Warder declared that he was in love with Mrs. Werner and that, as she would not leave her husband, he shot Werner while on a rabbit-hunting trip. After Warder's conviction Mrs. Werner was placed on trial and Warder was brought from Sing Sing as a witness. At this trial he changed his story, saying that Mrs. Werner killed her husband with an axe and that he helped her carry the body to the place where it was later found. In order to hide the axe wound, he said, he fired his gun at Werner's head. Warder also testified that when they took away Werner's body, Mrs. Werner put on a pair of rubber boots over her shoes.

According to Warder's lawyers, the rubber boots that have recently been found show on the inside the impression of the heel of a woman's shoe.

A few weeks ago Warder was removed from the death house at Sing Sing to the prison hospital, where an operation for appendicitis was performed upon him. He is said to be the only prisoner taken from the death house in order that his life might be prolonged by surgery.

LAUNCH BURNS IN HUDSON.

Craft of Ernest Heyman, a Columbia Instructor, a Total Loss.

Thousands along Riverside Drive from Ninety-sixth to 109th Street last night watched a fight with flames aboard the handsome forty-one-foot motor launch White Hawk, owned by Ernest Heyman, an instructor in the gas engine school of Columbia University. The fire appeared to be out when a second explosion occurred and the trim little craft was again in flames. Finally the fireboat Duane extinguished the blaze and towed the launch to the foot of 109th Street, where it was beached. It was said last night the boat was a total loss. Police placed the value at between $3,000 and $5,000.

Mr. Heyman had just returned to the Clermont Boat House at 104th Street with a party of six, who had spent the day on a picnic at Alpine Camp in Interstate Park. All members of the party had disembarked when a backfire of the engine set fire to the craft. As the flames quickly got beyond the control of Mr. Heyman and persons at the boat house, the craft was towed to midstream and down the river toward Ninety-sixth Street before two launches. Two tugboats of the New York Central Railroad and the fireboat rushed to the rescue.

Steamer Sets 5,534 Miles Wireless Record.

Copyright, 1922, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

BUENOS AIRES, May 30.—The Royal Mail steamer Almanzora established what is believed to be the South American wireless record when it exchanged messages with Cape Town when sixty miles north of Fernando Noronha, a distance of 3,451 miles. When off Montevideo it took a message from Losfield, near Oxford, England, 5,534 miles away.

KILLS WIFE AND CHILD, THEN CUTS HIS THROAT

Stableman, With Windpipe Severed, Still Lives—Quarrel Brought on Attack.

Following a family quarrel last evening George Krumpet, a stableman, cut the throats of his wife, Mary, and his seven-year-old son, William, with a penknife, almost severing their heads from the bodies, and then cut his own throat. Mrs. Krumpet and the boy were found dead by the police and Krumpet, in a serious condition, was taken to Bellevue Hospital.

The Krumpets lived in a five-room flat at 338 East Forty-fifth Street. Krumpet is 48 years old and his wife was 45. Mrs. Krumpet had three children by a former marriage: Ella, 14 years; George, 21, and Mary, who is the wife of Charles Ricker of 426 East Fifty-second Street. Ricker told the police that he and his wife had gone to spend the holiday evening at Krumpet's home, and that an argument arose between his mother-in-law and her husband. He could not recall what it was about. At the time Ella and George were out, and the Rickers left, leaving Mr. and Mrs. Krumpet still arguing, with William asleep in an adjoining room.

Neighbors heard the screams of Mrs. Krumpet and, rushing to the flat, found the three bodies on the floor. Detectives Walsh, Culhane, Andrews, Prather and Clark of the East Fifty-first Street station were passing in a police automobile, and they were called in. The detectives placed Krumpet in a chair, and in reply to their question as to whether he had killed his wife and son he nodded his head. On his arrival at Bellevue surgeons found that he had severed his windpipe, and said that it was a surgical marvel that he still was living.

Memorial to ZR-2 Victim Unveiled.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 30.—A simple ceremony marked the unveiling today of a tablet placed in memory of Lieutenant Henry Willet Hoyt of Clearwater, Fla., a graduate of the Naval Academy, class of '14, who was killed in the ZR-2 disaster last August, when the giant airship broke in two over Hull, England, while completing her final trial trip tests. The tablet, erected by classmates of Lieutenant Hoyt, is in Dahlgren Hall beside that erected to the memory of Lieutenant Coyle, who was killed in the same accident.

UNION HERE TO RUN NINE SOVIET MILLS

Clothing Workers' Plan Embraces Plants in Petrograd and in Moscow.

TO SEND STAFF OF EXPERTS

Lenin Has Signed Concessions—Project to Include Other Industries Later.

Details of the $1,000,000 corporation formed under the auspices of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America for the purpose of aiding in the reconstruction of Russia, were made public yesterday at Amalgamated headquarters, 32 Union Square.

The corporation is to be called the Russian-American Industrial Corporation and at the outset will concentrate its activities on the development of the clothing and textile industries in Russia but will expand to include other industries as the occasion warrants.

The corporation has an agreement signed by Lenin for the concession of six clothing factories in Petrograd and three in Moscow. Money to be raised by stock subscription will be used to purchase equipment and supplies. Dividends will be paid at rates to be set in accord with the economic status of the enterprise, which is to be managed by the Supreme Council of National Economy of the Soviet Government and by the American corporation, each side commanding an equal number of votes irrespective of the number of representatives.

A central board will be set up and charged with the general administration and technical management of the enterprises. The Soviet Government will transfer to this board the physical properties of the nine factories, together with raw materials. Provisions are to be made for Government priority orders to assure uninterrupted production. These orders will call for the production of clothing for civil servants and workers. It is not planned to send American operatives to Russia, according to Sidney Hillman, President of the Amalgamated, who said that 7,000 operatives were now employed in the factories covered by the concession.

"The corporation will send over a staff of highly trained experts familiar with up-to-date clothing production methods," he said.

Mr. Hillman declared that the idea of sabotage, of labor withdrawing its efficiency, was not known in Russia. Stock in the corporation will be sold in $10 shares and provisions will be made to prevent control of the stock by any group of stockholders, it was said.

SEEK CLOAK AGREEMENT.

Manufacturers and Union Have Final Conference Today.

Final efforts to reach a settlement between the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Protective Association will be made at a joint conference this afternoon. The present agreement between the manufacturers and the union expires tonight.

Notice has been served by the union on all the manufacturers in the New York market, employing 60,000 men and women cloakmakers, that no wage reductions or any change in working conditions will be considered. The union asks the extension of the present agreement for another year. The manufacturers want all the independent shop operators and the American Cloak and Suit Manufacturers' Association to take part in the joint negotiations and to make one general agreement. This is opposed by the union.

Benjamin Schlesinger, President of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, says that a general strike is not probable as many of the manufacturers already have offered to renew the present agreement. Should the Protective Association fail to come to terms with the union, he said, only the workers in association shops will be called out on strike.

TEXTILE CONVENTION ENDS.

Amalgamated Workers Approve Moscow Internationale Proposals.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 30.—The Amalgamated Textile Workers of America closed today their three-days' session in this city. New York was selected as the place for the next convention.

Among the resolutions adopted was one approving the efforts of the Moscow Internationale for a united front of all labor organizations of the world, and one favoring the release of all political prisoners.

The following nominations for general officers were made: General Secretary, Russell Palmer; General Executive Board, Adolph Blind, New Jersey; Thomas Harrop, Rhode Island; Adolph Drewitz, New Jersey; G. Sinisni, New York; Thomas F. McDonald, Massachusetts; Emil J. Wharama, Massachusetts; Peter Brustolon, Connecticut; Thomas S. Lester, Pennsylvania; Adolph Kratzer, Pennsylvania; Thomas E. Lynch, Massachusetts.

Mr. Palmer had no opposition for the secretaryship. Of the ten candidates for the General Executive Board, nine are to be elected by referendum of the entire membership.

Thomas Harrop, Russell Palmer and Adolph Koschade of New Jersey were elected delegates to the convention of the Federated Textile Unions at New York during the first week in August.

21-INCH WAIST PASSES.

Boston Corset Maker Says Women Have Grown Stouter.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 30.—A requiem over the twenty-one-inch feminine waist line was sung today in Chicago by Ernest P. Bennett, Boston corset manufacturer, who declared that within the last few years, due to the no-corset fad, the waist line has jumped, first from the exaggerated twenty-one to the average twenty-three inches, and then up to a point between twenty-seven and twenty-eight inches.

This new measurement, he admitted, was not especially pleasing to women returning to the corset.

"They do not realize," said Mr. Bennett, "that they and not the measures have changed. Women have grown stouter around the waist since they discarded corsets. The same thing is true of men who change from belts to suspenders."

BUSINESS NOTES.

BANK LOANS DROP AS BUSINESS GAINS

Federal Reserve Statement Shows Conditions Have Been Reversed Since 1920.

OUTSTANDING CREDIT CUT

But Advances on Stocks and Bonds Increase—Many New Securities Offered in Recent Months.

In discussing the money situation in its monthly review of business conditions in the New York district, the Federal Reserve Bank says:

"Revival in many lines of business, which has become increasingly well-defined in recent months, is not yet reflected in an increased demand for bank loans for commercial purposes. On the contrary, the volume of commercial loans in New York City banks still has a tendency to decline, though at a moderate rate, and the demands of member banks upon the Federal Reserve Banks are at a minimum.

"These small requirements for commercial credit are entirely in accord with experience during previous periods of recovery from business inactivity. The situation in respect of bank credit is precisely the reverse of the conditions which prevailed during the latter half of 1920. Then, business men in protecting themselves during the early stages of business reaction, borrowed not only for current needs but were obliged in many cases to grant extensions of loans owing to them by their customers, and to ask for extensions of loans owing by them to their banks. In consequence bank loans throughout the country did not reach maximum until about nine months after the tide of business activity had turned.

"Now, on the other hand, reviving business has made possible the further liquidation of slow loans, thereby tending to reduce the volume of commercial credit outstanding. Moreover, many business concerns, through the period of inaction, have accumulated readily available funds which have remained on deposit in the banks or have been invested in the most liquid form of credit instruments, such as bankers acceptances and Treasury certificates of indebtedness. Such investments, because of their very liquid character, will enable business concerns immediately to obtain cash for use as their needs expand, and so postpone the time when borrowing becomes necessary. It is true also that at present the rate of turnover of deposits in New York City banks is more rapid than a year ago, and instead of showing a seasonal decline since January 1, as occurred in each of the three preceding years, it has shown a considerable increase. Thus it appears that bank deposits are carrying an increasing load of business without requiring an added volume of loans.

"Just as the maximum demand for commercial credit came some months after business activity had started to decline, so a limited demand for commercial credit now prevails some months after business conditions have started to improve.

"As an indication of present tendencies in commercial borrowing, it will be of interest to note that the amount of commercial paper outstanding, as shown by reports made to this bank by principal dealers, has been increasing since last December and is now over $100,000,000 above the amount outstanding at that time. The increase reflects to some extent the usual tendency in periods of easier money for commercial concerns to borrow in the open market rather than to take advantage of lines of credit at the banks, and also the tendency on the part of some such concerns to borrow in the open market for the purpose of paying bank loans.

"In New York City the course taken in recent months by the commercial loans of member banks has been in general the same as that in the country as a whole. Since the high point of $4,154,000,000 reached on October 8, 1920, these loans have declined to $2,734,000,000 on May 17, 1922. In sharp contrast with them is the increase in the volume of loans on stocks and bonds. Since last September the increase has been $412,000,000, reaching a point on May 17 of $1,432,000,000. This large rise is owing not only to the activity of the stock and bond markets, but to the large volume of new securities which have been issued in recent months. The loans are higher now than at any time since the active period of Stock Exchange trading in the autumn of 1919."

MONEY.

TUESDAY, MAY 30, 1922.

The New York money market was closed yesterday on account of the holiday.

Money on call on the London market was ¼ higher at 2 per cent.; short bills unchanged at 2 5-16@2⅜ per cent.; three months bills unchanged at 2⅝ per cent.

Gold bullion in London was 4d lower at 92s 9d. Taking the British Mint standard price of 85s per fine ounce as par, the market quotation for gold would represent a price of 109 5-16 at London. On the same basis the highest London price for gold for the year to date was 115⅝ on Jan. 5. The highest price since open trading in gold was resumed at London in September, 1919, was 119¾, on Feb. 8, 1920; the lowest 109 5-16, established yesterday.

There is no separate school district or county debt in Norfolk and the above represents the total bonded indebtedness of the City.

THE CITY OF NORFOLK is the second largest city in the State of Virginia and is one of the most important seaports on the Atlantic Coast. It has been officially stated that the tonnage of its harbor is second only to New York. The City is served by eight trunk line railroads which are connected by a local belt line. The industries are well diversified as the City is unusually favorably located as a manufacturing, commercial and shipping center.

THESE BONDS constitute a direct and general obligation of the CITY OF NORFOLK and are payable from an unlimited ad valorem tax levied against all taxable property therein. The proceeds from these bonds will be used to enlarge and improve the City's present water system; for the construction of City-owned and operated docks and terminals; and for general City improvement purposes.

Secured by the
GRANADA APARTMENT HOTEL
Miami, Florida
Price: Par and accrued interest, yielding 8%

This issue is surrounded by our standard safeguards, under which no one has ever lost a dollar through investing in Miller Mortgage Bonds. The Granada Bonds are among the few remaining issues which we have been able to underwrite on a basis to yield the unusually attractive return of 8%, and it is evident that within a short time we shall be compelled to reduce the rate.

Since these bonds, like all our recent offerings, will be quickly oversubscribed, investors are advised to write or telegraph us at once, asking that a definite amount be reserved, subject to approval on investigation. Denominations $100, $500, $1,000. Ask for descriptive circular and booklet, "Creating Good Investments."

Winston-Salem, the largest city in North Carolina, is situated in the west central part of the State. It exceeds in total annual value of manufactured products such cities as New Orleans, Atlanta and Birmingham. The city is the largest manufacturer of tobacco products in the world and occupies a leading position in the manufacture of knit goods; other products are widely diversified. Power, light and fuel are readily available by reason of the city's proximity to the Pocahontas coal fields and to the substantial hydro-electric developments of the Piedmont Plateau. Winston-Salem is served by three railroads, the Southern, Norfork and Western, and the Winston-Salem South-bound. Banking facilities are furnished by seven banks with combined resources in excess of $35,000,000.

These bonds, issued for various municipal improvement purposes, are direct obligations of the City of Winston-Salem, payable from unlimited taxes on all taxable property within the City.

KISSEL MOTOR CO. SELLS BOND ISSUE

First Mortgage 7½s Are Being Offered at Par by a Chicago House.

$3,957,000 NORFOLK LOAN

Mamaroneck (N. Y.) 4½ Per Cent. Sewer Bonds, $325,000, Are Being Marketed.

The Kissel Motor Car Company has sold an issue of $750,000 of its first mortgage 7½ per cent. sinking fund 15-year gold bonds to A. C. Allyn & Co. of Chicago. The bonds are offered for subscription at par and interest. They are dated April 1, 1922, and secured by a closed first mortgage on all fixed assets of the company.

A syndicate composed of Hayden, Stone & Co., Lee, Higginson & Co., the William R. Compton Company and Brown Bros. & Co., is offering a new issue of $3,957,000 City of Norfolk, Va., direct obligation bonds. Of the total $3,165,000 5s, due May 1, 1952, are offered at 107.32, to yield about 4.55 per cent.; the $792,000 4½s, due May 1, 1954, are offered at par, to yield 4½ per cent.

J. B. Walker & Co. are offering a new issue of $325,000 Village of Mamaroneck, N. Y., 4½ per cent. sewer bonds, due June 1, 1927 to 1951. The 1927 to 1942 maturities are offered at prices to yield 4.20 per cent., and the 1943 to 1951 maturities 4.15 per cent.

An issue of $2,051,000 City of Winston-Salem, N. C., gold 4½ per cent. and 5 per cent. bonds is being offered by the Bankers Trust Company, E. H. Rollins & Sons, the National City Company and Watson & White, at 4.60 per cent., for any maturity.

The Louisville Joint Stock Land Bank, operating in Kentucky and Indiana, has sold $3,000,000 of its 5 per cent. bonds due May 1, 1952, to a syndicate including Halsey, Stuart & Co., William R. Compton Company, the Fidelity and Columbia Trust Company and Henning, Chambers & Co. The bonds are being offered at 103, at which they yield 4.60 per cent. to the optional maturity (1932) and 5 per cent. thereafter.

Edward B. Smith & Co., Halsey, Stuart & Co. and Edward Lowber Stokes & Co. are offering $3,561,000 New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad 6 per cent. equipment gold notes, maturing $197,000 annually Jan. 15, 1923, to Jan. 15, 1935, at prices to yield from 5 to 5.75 per cent. They are redeemable as a whole but not in part at the option of the company at 103. The notes originally were issued in fifteen series, the first two of which matured and were paid Jan. 15, 1921, and Jan. 15, 1922. They are a direct obligation and secured by equipment costing originally $4,440,200.

Notes Now Offered	$2,561,000

Under the Equipment Trust Agreement, dated January 15, 1920, between Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads, The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company and the Trustee, these Notes were originally issued in fifteen series, the first two of which matured and were paid January 15, 1921, and January 15, 1922. The Notes are a direct obligation of the Railroad Company and are secured by equipment which originally cost $4,440,200. The title to the equipment under the agreement remains with the Trustee until all of the Notes have been paid. Through a supplemental agreement, dated January 15, 1922, 33⅓% of the Notes of each maturity, held by the Director General, are to be stamped as subordinate in lien to the Notes now offered. Upon this subordination, the unstamped Notes will be outstanding to the extent of only about 58% of the original cost of the equipment on which they are secured.

The unstamped Notes are secured by a prior lien on the following standard railroad equipment:

1,500 All Steel Hopper-bottom Coal Cars, 55-ton Capacity.
10 Light Mountain-Type Locomotives.

FIX EXCHANGE BASIS FOR I. & G. N. ROAD

J. & W. Seligman & Co. and Speyer & Co. Announce Plans for Reorganization.

$4,000,000 WORKING FUND

Company, in Receivership Since 1914, Has 1,160 Miles of Line in Texas.

The reorganization plan of the International & Great Northern Railway Company, which has been in receivership since 1914, was announced yesterday by J. & W. Seligman & Co. and Speyer & Co., the reorganization managers, and has been adopted by the committee representing the holders of the three-year 5 per cent. notes of the railroad. Frederick Strauss is Chairman of the committee.

The road comprises approximately 1,160 miles of line located in Texas. Provision is made under the terms of the plan to supply the new company with a working fund of about $4,000,000, while an annual reduction of 26 per cent. in fixed charges is contemplated, amounting to $418,175, making fixed charges $1,179,000. The plan also authorizes three classes of new securities in the following amounts: $40,000,000 first mortgage bonds, to be issued in series; $25,000,000 adjustment mortgage bonds, issuable in separate series, interest on which will be cumulative beginning Jan. 1, 1928, and $7,500,000 common stock. The total capitalization of the new company is $44,150,000, as compared with a total capitalization of $36,990,977 for the old company.

Basis of Exchange.

Speyer & Co. and J. & W. Seligman & Co. have formed a syndicate to underwrite the cash requirements of the plan, amounting to approximately $18,000,000 when all considerations are allowed for, it was explained by the bankers. Holders of the several classes of securities are being requested to deposit their holdings under the terms of the proposed plan. The various security holders who agree to the terms of the re-organization will, on the completion of the re-organization, be entitled to the following exchange:

For each $1,000 International and Great Northern Railroad Company first mortgage gold bond (with coupon maturing Nov. 1, 1922); $1,000 first mortgage 6 per cent. bonds, Series A of the new company, carrying interest from July 1, 1922; and $55 in cash.

For each $1,000 Colorado Bridge Company first mortgage gold bond (with coupon maturing Nov. 1, 1922); $1,000 first mortgage 6 per cent. bonds, Series A of the new company, carrying interest from July 1, 1922; and $57.50 in cash.

For each $1,000 International and Great Northern Railroad Company three-year gold note (with coupon maturing Aug. 1, 1914; $1,222.92 adjustment mortgage 6 per cent. bonds, ranking for interest from January 1, 1923; and $222.92 in common stock.

For each $1,000 International and Great Northern Railway Company first and refunding mortgage bond (with coupon maturing May 1, 1914, and all subsequent coupons); $978.34 adjustment mortgage bonds, ranking for interest from Jan. 1, 1923; and $467.50 in common stock.

The plan also provides to pay off in cash at maturity, Nov. 1, 1922, holders of first mortgage bonds of the International and Great Northern Railroad Company and the Colorado Bridge Company who do not elect to deposit their securities under the plan. The stock of the new company, it is stated, is to be assigned to Willard V. King, James Speyer and Frederick Strauss as trustees, to be held by them jointly, subject to a trust agreement, for a five-year period.

Comparison of Companies.

*Capitalization includes securities issued in respect of the $4,000,000 cash working fund of new company, materials and supplies worth approximately $1,750,000, and approximately $5,000,000 additions and betterments made by the receiver to the property during the receivership.

J. W. Kendrick, who has recently completed an inspection of the International & Great Northern properties for the reorganization managers, estimates that the system will produce net income available for interest and dividends averaging more than $3,000,000 annually during the three years from 1923 to 1925, inclusive. About 71 per cent. of the revenue of the system comes from transportation of freight, 23 per cent. from passengers and 7 per cent. from mail, express and other sources. The business originating and handled within the State of Texas last year amounted to 56.66 per cent. of the total freight volume of the company.

Louisville Joint Stock Land Bank

(Operating in Kentucky and Indiana)

5% Bonds

ISSUED UNDER THE FEDERAL FARM LOAN ACT

Dated May 1, 1922. Due May 1, 1952. Redeemable at par and accrued interest on any interest date after ten years from date of issue. Coupon bonds fully registerable and interchangeable. Denomination, $1,000. Interest payable semi-annually, May 1 and November 1. Principal and interest payable at the Louisville Joint Stock Land Bank or through the Bank's fiscal agency in New York City, or Chicago, Ill.

LEGAL INVESTMENT FOR ALL FIDUCIARY AND TRUST FUNDS UNDER THE JURISDICTION OF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT AND ACCEPTABLE AS SECURITY FOR POSTAL SAVINGS AND OTHER DEPOSITS OF GOVERNMENT FUNDS

These bonds are obligations of the Louisville Joint Stock Land Bank and are collaterally secured by either first mortgages on farm lands or United States Government Bonds or Certificates of Indebtedness. The liability of the Bank's shareholders is double the amount of their stock.

The Bank operates under Federal charter and Government supervision. The issuance of its bonds and the collateral pledged as security have been approved by the Federal Farm Loan Board, a bureau of the Treasury Department of the United States Government.

The management and control of the Louisville Joint Stock Land Bank is vested jointly in the Fidelity & Columbia Trust Company, the Citizens Union National Bank and the Citizens Union Fourth Street Bank, all of Louisville. The officers and directors are experienced, successful and representative business men thoroughly familiar with the problems of safely lending money on agricultural property. The Bank's management will rest with men who, prior to their affiliation with this institution, were the officers of the Federal Land Bank of Louisville, in which capacity they made an enviable record for themselves and acquired a knowledge of agricultural conditions in the states in which this Bank will operate. The Bank's charter confines its loans to the states of Kentucky and Indiana, in which the agricultural development has been especially rapid.

These bonds are prepared and engraved by the Treasury Department. The Act under which they are issued provides that: "Farm Loan Bonds issued under the provision of the Act shall be deemed and held to be instrumentalities of the Government of the United States, and as such they and the income derived therefrom shall be exempt from Federal, State, Municipal and Local Taxation." This exemption clause covers all forms of taxation, exclusive of Inheritance Taxes.

By a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, rendered February 28, 1921, the constitutionality of this Act and the tax exemption features of these bonds were fully sustained.

4,000,000 KRONER

City of Copenhagen (Denmark)

5% Internal Loan of 1916

Issued: 30,000,000 Kroner. Dated September 15, 1916

Outstanding, March 31, 1921, 26,500,000 Kroner. Repayable in forty years from date of issue by Annual Drawings September 15th, at par.

Interest payable March 15th and September 15th in the City of Copenhagen. Coupon bonds in denominations of 1,000, 2,000 and 4,000 Kroner. Bonds held by foreign residents free from taxes.

Municipality reserves the right to increase the drawings or to redeem at par the whole loan on three months' notice after September 15, 1926.

The purpose of this issue was to provide funds for various municipal works.

Copenhagen, the capital of Denmark, situated on one of the largest harbors of Europe and at the entrance to the Baltic Sea, has a population of about 561,000, or nearly one-fifth of the population of Denmark. About 60 per cent of the population of Denmark is devoted to agriculture. The bulk of all the commerce of Denmark passes through Copenhagen, her strategic position for world trade being evident. Her Free Port, the most important in Scandinavia, has been in existence nearly twenty-seven years. The Free Port of Copenhagen is splendidly equipped —$25,000,000 having been spent on harbor improvements since 1915— and gives Copenhagen a decided advantage in the trade of Northern Europe. Within the harbor there are bonded warehouses, grain elevators, coaling depots with electric cranes, large shipyards with drydocks and practically every modern facility for the handling of goods. The annual tonnage entering the Free Port of Copenhagen increased from 260,096 tons in 1896 to 1,801,299 tons in 1913, the last complete year before the late war.

The total debt of Copenhagen in 1920 was $96,470,500, and its assets amounted to $111,465,000.

The income for the fiscal year 1919-1920 amounted to about $19,744,900. Only 21% of income required for service of her debt. Copenhagen loans have always been considered in highest favor with European investors; prior to the late war, her loans were issued at rates of 3½% to 4%.

We offer these bonds subject to prior sale at $214.00 when, as and if received by us

The par value of the Danish Krone is 26.80 cents. One thousand Kroner of these bonds, issued at 99½% flat Danish terms (which would include interest from March 15, 1922) with exchange at 22.70 cents per Krone, would give a dollar value of $214.00 per 1,000 Kroner, to yield 5.13% to maturity. Should the Krone return to normal (26.80 cents), the annual income from this investment would yield then 4.49%, and the principal amount at par Copenhagen, with exchange at normal, would have a cash value of $268.00, an appreciation of approximately 25%.

Delivery in the form of Cassatt & Co.'s interim receipts exchangeable for definitive bonds, when, as and if received by us

B. F. Cresson Jr. Declares What Hurts This Port Hurts the Whole Country.

CONDEMNS RIVAL ATTACKS

Port Authority Engineer Broadcasts by Radio the Advantages of New York Harbor.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., May 30.—"The people of the United States must remember that what hurts New York hurts the whole country," was the statement made tonight by B. F. Cresson Jr., Chief Engineer of the Port of New York Authority, in an address by radio from the General Electric Company's WGY station, the most powerful broadcasting plant in the country.

Mr. Cresson maintained that there is no more valuable asset to the people of the United States than New York Harbor, and charged that "insidious propaganda against New York has been circulated freely by rival ports and rival sections of the country." He asserted that "it is to the interest of the entire country that New York should grow and become increasingly efficient in handling its commerce."

WGY is frequently heard on the Pacific Coast, and it is believed that Mr. Cresson had an audience in at least twenty States.

"There is no one within the range of my voice who is outside of the range of the influence of New York," said Mr. Cresson. "You who are hundreds of miles away have a right to ask why the Port of New York is of interest and concern to you. We are all of us so concentrated in matters concerning ourselves that we are likely to lose the broader perspective and we fail to realize that there is no more valuable asset to the people of the whole United States than New York and its port.

"And why is this? In the first place, through the Port of New York there passes half of the foreign commerce of the United States. Anything that is done to promote, to hasten, and to cheapen the passage of this commerce will be reflected in increased returns and prosperity throughout the country.

"In the second place, the New York market fixes the price of commodities throughout a very large part of the country. Whatever is done to reduce the costs of distribution of produce within and through the district will tend to reduce costs throughout the country.

"And third, New York is an excellent customer of the farmers and growers of the United States of produce for its own consumption.

"These are reasons why the Port of New York's development should be followed and stimulated by all of the people, and why anything that happens in relation to the port has an interest for the country at large.

Advantage of the Port.

"Nature gave the Port of New York wonderful physical advantages—greater, in the opinion of many, than possessed by any other harbor on the face of the globe.

"It has a tremendous shore line, and within a radius of twenty-five miles of the City Hall in Manhattan, nature laid out more than 900 miles of good, protected waterfront available for shipping, for commerce, for industries and for transportation.

"Every part of the harbor proper is within a very few hours of the open sea. The channel leading to the open sea is direct and deep, and needs but little maintenance.

"The harbor waters are well protected against storm and wind, and convenient anchorages exist where ships may lie in safety awaiting berth or cargo. The normal tidal variations are little more than four feet; Liverpool has twenty feet to contend with and London nearly as much. But this tidal movement in New York is sufficient to admit clean salt water to oxydize the contamination that is poured into the harbor waters, but it is not enough to create swift currents or to cause any ship to delay its sailings for a favorable tide.

"There is scarcely ever any harbor delay caused by ice, and not for years has any part of the harbor waters frozen across.

"The records of the Weather Bureau show that New York is singularly free from interference with its water traffic by fogs.

"It is no wonder that with these great natural advantages New York has reached its pre-eminence as a port, and great are its responsibilities toward the commerce of the world.

Centre of Shipping.

"To meet the great demands of commerce, New York has built more than 700 piers projecting into its navigable waters. No estimate has been made of the amount of money that has been spent in providing dock facilities at New York, but it could easily run into $400,000,000 or $500,000,000, when you include not only the docks—public and private—but also the supporting warehousing and railroad connections.

"There is no port in the world where so many great steamship lines send their greatest ships.

"New York is the port of the Western Hemisphere for the giant White Star liners, the new Majestic and the Olympic; of the swift Cunarders, the Mauretania and the Aquitania; of the beautiful Paris and France of the French Line; of the commodious Rotterdam and New Amsterdam of the Holland-America Line; of the great freighters, the Lapland and the Finland of the Red Star Line, and of the St. Paul and Manchuria of the American Line; of the Resolute and the Reliance of the United American Lines; of the best of the Italian Line ships, and formerly such ships as the Vaterland and George Washington of the German lines.

"These ships represent the finest, the largest and the best of their respective lines, and New York is their port at this end of the run, but on the other end of the trip they have various home ports, berthing at London and Liverpool and Southampton, at Havre and Antwerp, at Rotterdam, Hamburg and Bremen, at Genoa and Naples. New York is called upon and meets the necessities of all of these lines.

"And then, from New York there sails the freighter that will touch at many ports, picking up its cargo at New York, touching at various ports to discharge and then load, and returning to New York with its full cargo in perhaps six months.

"New York Harbor is so vast that you could put the docking facilities of a half dozen of the greatest of the world's ports within its confines.

"More than 8,000 ships sail into New York every year and sail out again. On the average nearly thirty ships arrive every day and thirty ships clear every day.

Limit of Its Capacity Not Reached.

"The cry has gone far and wide that New York Harbor has reached the limit of its capacity. This is far from true. There are hundreds of miles of undeveloped waterfront within the port district ready for facilities to handle additional commerce.

"New York is unique among American ports. With the background of the great financial centre of the New World, commerce seeks this port, and it is the problem of New York how to meet the increasing demands of commerce. Other ports spread out and create facilities for the purpose of attracting commerce and shipping, and insidious propaganda against New York has been circulated freely by rival ports and rival sections of the country. Harm has been done to New York by those agencies seeking to belittle the port and seeking to drive commerce from it.

"The people of the United States must remember that what hurts New York hurts the whole country.

"Commerce passes through New York because it is the line of least resistance, because it is the natural gateway of the nation, because the great railroad lines have established themselves at New York, because the great steamship lines have sought to make New York their point of contact with the United States.

"In addition to New York's service to the country in possessing its principal harbor and in creating its facilities for the passage of commerce, New York draws her supplies from practically all over the United States; that is, the supplies for the maintenance of her people.

"Judge from the following figures how good a customer New York is to the farmers and growers throughout the country:

"New York each year buys from Minnesota more than 45,000,000 pounds of butter; from Wisconsin more than 14,000,000 pounds of cheese; from Virginia more than 3,700 carloads of white potatoes; from Texas more than 500 carloads of onions; from California more than 100 carloads of tomatoes, more than 200 carloads of celery and more than 5,000 carloads of grapes; from Florida 1,000 cars of cabbage and 1,500 cars of lettuce; from Washington more than 2,000 carloads of apples; from Colorado more than 500 carloads of canteloupes; from Georgia more than 1,500 carloads of peaches, and from Illinois more than 400,000,000 eggs each year. So that the whole country must be interested in New York, not only as a port but also as a city.

"The States of New York and New Jersey have been at arms in the past over the development and arrangement of the port; they have fought over railroad rates, but now the situation is different. Instead of the port being under the jurisdiction of forty or fifty different municipalities, separated by the State line running down the middle of the Hudson River, the two States have joined together to develop the port as a whole for the benefit of the nation. This treaty between the two States, which establishes the Port of New York District, embracing all of that territory within about twenty-five miles of the City Hall of Manhattan, created also the Port of New York Authority, to have jurisdiction over this district.

"This Port Authority is made up of six men, three appointed by the Governor of each State, having substantial powers, and this body has submitted a comprehensive plan to the Legislatures of the two States, and the States have adopted this plan and the Port Authority is now functioning.

"The country should be proud of New York Harbor; it should boost New York, because it is to the interest of the whole country that New York shall grow and become increasingly efficient as a port in the handling of its vast commerce."

S. E. J. COX HEARS ACCUSERS

Witnesses From All Parts of Country Testify Against Oil Promoter.

Special to The New York Times.

HOUSTON, Texas, May 30.—That faith in S. E. J. Cox's literature led them to invest their savings in his companies and that the value of their securities is now next to nothing was the testimony in Federal Court today of a mechanic, a photographer, a real estate man and others. They came from the far corners of the nation to testify against Cox in his trial for alleged use of the mails to defraud in financing three companies whose capital on paper aggregated $41,000,000.

D. A. Simmons, Assistant Federal Attorney, who is conducting the examination of witnesses, read literature of the Cox Realization Company estimating the value of acreage leases in West Texas at $5,000 an acre.

"Would you sell your leases for $5,000?" he asked E. A. Trombley of Flint, Mich., an employe of the Buick Motor Company.

"I'd sell them for a good cigar," the witness replied sharply, causing laughter among the spectators.

Huge stacks of literature mailed by Cox's companies were introduced in evidence by the Government. The witness Trombley identified a stack about nine inches high.

"But that's only part of what I received," he said.

Gray bearded but active in spite of his 73 years, Joseph H. Strong of Hartford, Conn., testified he paid $11 and $14 a share at different times for General Oil stock. The market price now is said to be about 9 cents a share. He said he owned in all 102 shares. He said he received three dividends, two of 5 per cent. and one of 5 per cent.

Cox took a keen interest in the trial, frequently offering suggestions to his attorneys.

What One Surrogate Said:

In a recent case before a Surrogate's Court, involving the continuance of the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company as Guardian for certain children, the Surrogate took occasion to say:

"In my opinion, the New York Life Insurance & Trust Company has lived up to every obligation, legal, ethical or moral, in its relationship to these children. It is an old established institution, well managed, solvent, making a specialty of trust business, careful in the management of estates, and its officers have had long and wide experience in trust investments. If this were an application de novo, in view of the situation, I rather think the respondent better qualified to be appointed than any other person or institution."

WHEAT TRADERS FIX EYES ON WINNIPEG

Quotations There Descend, to the Delight of Leader of Chicago Bulls.

RECEIPTS UNUSUALLY BIG

Expectations Were Shorts Would Import Canadian Grain to Meet Contracts.

CHICAGO, May 30.—Interest in the wheat trade centred today at Winnipeg, where, of late, big operations related to Chicago dealings have been reported as in progress. It has been the general understanding here that a huge spread, that is simultaneous buying at Winnipeg and selling at Chicago, was largely the basis of the sensational price changes which have characterized the Chicago wheat market during the last few weeks, and which have been to a great extent responsible for the sudden shipment of about 10,000,000 bushels of wheat to Chicago.

With a holiday suspension of business today on the Chicago Board of Trade, leaders in the wheat market watched closely for any unusual developments at Winnipeg. It was assumed in some quarters that by this time the original big spread between Chicago and Winnipeg had been practically evened up and that the principal Chicago buyers at Winnipeg had liquidated their holdings or had otherwise undertaken to dispose of ownership. Inasmuch, however, as no authoritative information appeared to be obtainable that such was the case, the course of prices today at Winnipeg received unusual attention.

The chief figure on the bull side of the Chicago market spent much of his time today in a secluded private room at the office of one of his brokers and seemed to take considerable delight in seeing Winnipeg quotations descend, for his main opponents, the bears in the Chicago market, were reputed to have been big bulls at Winnipeg. An effort to obtain an expression of his views on the present status of spreads was fruitless. Similar reticence was observed elsewhere in the Board of Trade district, where nearly all offices were closed, so far as the public and the bulk of the employes were concerned.

If the shipment of 10,000,000 bushels of wheat to Chicago were taken as a criterion for the amount that leading interests here were short on a final settlement of this month's dealings, the amount of purchasing for the same interests at Winnipeg would be approximately equal, according to the gossip which has been current here.

At one time there was much talk about possible wheat shipments on a large scale from Canada to fill trade requirements in Chicago. The prevailing steep duty rates on imports, however, appeared to prevent any action of the kind, except in a comparatively small degree.

Surprising amounts of wheat proved to be obtainable from domestic sources, and most of the wheat brought here this month has been from the Southwest and West. No greater general clean-up of wheat from American farms is said to have been witnessed at the end of a crop season.

SCHWAB SEEKING PLANTS?

Conferences With Pittsburgh Steel Man Start Many Rumors.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 30.—Charles M. Schwab, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Bethlehem Steel Company, slipped into Pittsburgh last night and had dinner with Emil Winter, President of the Pittsburgh Steel Products Company, at his home. Among the other guests were James H. Reed, a Director of the United States Steel Corporation and Chairman of the Philadelphia Company; Homer D. Williams, President of the Carnegie Steel Company; James Speyer of New York, and Willis F. McCook, President of the Pittsburgh Steel Company.

Mr. Schwab came from Loretto. At the Duquesne Club he found Mr. Winter and other officials of the Pittsburgh Steel Company in conference. Later Mr. McCook had a conference with Mr. Schwab for about two hours.

Following this E. R. Crawford, President of the McKeesport Tin Plate Company, appeared at the club, and he and Schwab conferred for some time.

Recently Mr. Schwab made an inspection of the plant of the McKeesport company, and it was said then in financial circles that he was taking steps to buy this concern. Many rumors are afloat as to Mr. Schwab's intentions regarding other steel companies. One steel man said that "Mr. Schwab will have something to announce in the very near future that will be of much significance to the Pittsburgh district."

HELD FOR OIL STOCK DEALS.

Salesman Wanted in Philadelphia Is Taken in Atlantic City.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 30.—Sought for two years Benjamin Miller, a salesman, 25 years old, who gives 200 West Eighty-eighth Street, New York, as his address, is held here a fugitive without bail pending extradition. He is charged by Major Wynne, chief of the Philadelphia County Detectives, with having perpetrated more than 200 sales of fake oil stock among small investors from whom it is alleged he obtained close to $25,000.

Miller was arrested on the boardwalk last night by Detectives Farley and Weakley on a description furnished in a warrant sent here by the Philadelphia County authorities. Miller denied he was the man wanted, and while being questioned, suddenly darted into the theatre crowds. The two detectives pursued and he was caught after a lively chase along the boardwalk.

The police were under instructions to hold Miller under $25,000 bail, but today word came that caused his detention without bond.

There is no such address in this city as 200 West Eighty-eighth Street.

WANT INQUIRY ON GAS.

Community Councils Censure Service Commission for Inactivity.

The Community Councils of the City of New York have written to Samuel Untermyer asking whether the Lockwood committee has power to undertake a thorough investigation of the methods of the various New York gas companies, in view of "the evident impossibility of obtaining any consideration from the State Public Service Commission."

The organization charges that the Public Service Commission has in many ways aided the gas companies in the hearings that are now on and has hindered the consumers' representatives in placing their case before the commission.

BURGLARS GET $20,000 IN SOUTHAMPTON HOME

Porch Climbers Make Haul While Mr. and Mrs. Goodhue Livingston Entertain Guests.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., May 30.—While Mr. and Mrs. Goodhue Livingston were entertaining guests at their home at Lake Agawam last night, burglars climbed the porch and stole $20,000 worth of jewelry, mostly heirlooms.

The Livingstons' Manhattan home is at 38 East Sixty-fifth Street. They had just opened their Summer home for the season. Servants report that the burglars made two visits to the house.

A few days ago the home of Dr. H. L. Keyes near Southampton was broken into and a quantity of silverware taken. The house was not occupied at the time.

The police are investigating the robberies. They have no tangible clue.

PLEISTOCENE SHARK TRACED

David Starr Jordan Hurries East to Show Teeth Found in Quarry.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 30.—Back in pleistocene times a shark 120 feet long ranged the California coasts, and he had some smaller cousins that scientists never even heard of before today.

This was declared by Dr. David Starr Jordan and Professor Chester Stark, an eminent geologist, after a hurried inspection trip to the quarries of the Torrance Lime and Fertilizer Company in the foothills of Palos Verdes, near here. The two scientists spent a few hours in the quarries and left for the East at once, saying the discoveries were of the highest scientific importance. Dr. Jordan is going to tell the news of the discoveries to the Geological Research Department of Yale University and invite that body's co-operation in their development. Both scientists will return later with others for more extended study.

They found the limestone beds particularly rich in shark's teeth and found one tooth about 4½ inches long and about 3 inches wide, which was perfectly preserved. This, Dr. Jordan declared, appeared to be of a completely new species, much larger than any living shark. Similar teeth of the largest man-eaters living now are not more than 1¼ inches in length.

"There are four species here at least," Dr. Jordan said, "that have never been found before."

Another tooth that interested the scientists was declared to be that of a long extinct crocodile and a very rare specimen.

INCREASES AUTO PATROL.

Enright Adds Four Sergeants and 86 Patrolmen to Night Force.

An increase in the number of detectives and patrolmen assigned to night patrol duty in automobiles was announced last night by Acting Deputy Police Inspector Dominick Henry, effective at midnight. Four more detective sergeants and eighty-six more patrolmen, to work in two shifts, have been detailed on the night patrol, because of the success of the system originated by Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright about a month ago. One of the shifts will be on duty every day from 4 o'clock until midnight, and the other from midnight until 8 in the morning.

The men on night patrol hereafter will not be required to report to their respective precincts, but will report through Police Headquarters to the headquarters of the inspection districts in which they are assigned. They will then receive instructions direct.

Acting Deputy Chief Inspector Henry said last night that under the system now in force it would be possible to concentrate the total night patrol forces, comprising 293 detective sergeants in automobiles and ninety men on motorcycles, at any given point in the city within half an hour's time.

The night patrol forces will be under the direction of Acting Deputy Chief Inspectors Henry and Cahalane.

It was said at Police Headquarters last night that Police Commissioner Enright was much pleased with the working out of the night patrol system, and believed it had lessened crime throughout the city.

POLICE RADIO SUCCESSFUL.

Chicago Authorities Plan to Extend Its Use to Patrolmen.

CHICAGO, May 30.—Experiments in the use of radio in the transmission of police messages have proved a complete success, George B. Carlson, Commissioner of Electricity, said today in requesting an appropriation of $68,000 for radio equipment and personnel.

If granted the appropriation a new duplicate sending station will be installed on top of the City Hall. The eight high-powered bandit cars used by the Detective Bureau will be equipped with both sending and receiving sets.

Mr. Carlson is working on a plan to extend the use of radio to every policeman on the force by supplying him with a miniature receiving set. Under the plan the city would be divided into ten zones, each with its own wave length, so that the central operator, by increasing or reducing the wave length could send messages concerning robbers or other crimes to the policemen in the districts in which the crimes occurred.

"I think the equipment of the bureau cars with radio sets will prove an important factor in arresting criminals," Chief Fitzmorris said. "I doubt whether radio development is sufficient to warrant its use by ordinary patrolmen, however."

FLAME OF FACTION IN ITALY.

Government Concerned Over Renewed Fascisti-Communist Conflicts.

ROME, May 30.—The Government is becoming concerned over the evidences of growing unrest in the Provinces where the feud is raging most fiercely between the Communists and the Fascisti. As a measure for the restoration of order, it has prohibited all parades and assemblies throughout the country.

The greatest attention is focused on the situation at Bologna, where the Fascisti are sacking the houses of the Socialists and Communists.

Pooler to Manage Power Company.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. JOHN, N. B., May 30.—M. A. Pooler, long associated with Sanderson & Porter of New York, was appointed today general manager of the New Brunswick Power Company, which furnishes this city and vicinity with street car service, electric light and gas. It is announced that big improvement and extensions will me made to combat with the new $3,000,000 power service of the New Brunswick Government. The bonds of the company are mainly held in New York and Boston.

Paul Cushlau, a tailor, of 200 Cherry Street, was killed last night when he fell five stories from the roof of 331 Cherry Street. Several friends were on the roof with Cushlau when he fell to the back yard in view of a dozen or more persons at windows of an fire escapes. He was 56 years old.

DISMISSED TEACHER ENDS LIFE BY POISON

Mother of Mary E. Long Holds Elgin (Ill.) School Board Responsible for Daughter's Suicide.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 30.—Feeling against the School Board in Elgin, Ill., which was fanned to fever heat at the election two months ago, expressed itself again at an indignation meeting tonight, following the suicide of Miss Mary Elizabeth Long, for twenty-seven years a teacher in the schools of the Kane County city.

Miss Long, who was removed at a meeting of the School Board Friday night as Principal of the Sheridan School—a post she had held for the last fourteen years—ended her life early today by drinking carbolic acid in her mother's home in Elgin. A few hours later, Mrs. Jennie Long, widowed mother of the teacher, wept at the inquest as she declared that the action of the School Board alone was responsible for her daughter's act.

While the School Board met tonight to pass a formal resolution of regret for Miss Long's death, more than thirty teachers who had either been dismissed or placed on probation by the same order planned to meet in the office of Attorney Frank A. Russell. So many flocked to the gathering, however, that it developed into a popular protest meeting and had to adjourn to a hall, where speeches bitterly assailing the action of the board as "un-American," and charging it with "the murder of Miss Long" were delivered.

A battle between the present School Board, headed by Dr. Edward H. Abbott, and the Elgin Teachers' Association has been waged ever since the birth of the latter organization, two years ago. Miss Long took an active part in opposing the recent re-election of Dr. Abbott and her dismissal followed.

TURKS CONTINUE TO KILL AND BURN

New Outrages in Asia Minor Are Reported Through Patriarch of Constantinople.

Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 30.—Sir John Stavridi, official representative in London of the Ecumenical Patriarch of Constantinople, has received news of fresh outrages by the Turks in Asia Minor. According to this information, Turkish troops, gendarmes and bands of irregulars burned down fourteen villages in the districts of Gallianis and Matsks and the vilayet of Trebizond. The inhabitants were killed, women and children outraged and houses and shops looted. A few inhabitants were saved in Trebizond and many were deported to an unknown destination. The same Turks attacked Livera, seat of the Metropolitan of Rodopolis, and herded all the inhabitants into a few houses, putting under arrest the Metropolitan Kyrillos. Their fate is unknown.

Seven Christians of Daevillisk have been decapitated and their heads exposed for many days in the market place on spikes. The Turks have attacked the village of Platana, near Trebizond; killed the Christians and burned down many houses.

CROWN PRINCE NOT LEAVING

If He Should Go to Germany He Cannot Return to Holland.

Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, May 30.—I am officially authorized by the Ministry of the Interior to deny rumors that the ex-Crown Prince is returning to Germany for a visit, as alleged by a Berlin paper. I am informed that not only has the ex-Crown Prince not requested permission but that the Dutch Government would not permit him to return to the Netherlands once he quits Dutch soil.

At the time of the ex-Kaiserin's death the former Crown Prince requested permission to attend the funeral at Potsdam and received the above reply.

JERSEY WOODS AGAIN AFIRE.

Fresh Blazes Raging Near Atlantic City and May's Landing.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 30.—Forest fires again are sweeping through sections of the mainland back of Atlantic City, menacing farmhouses.

The fire broke out afresh near the gravel pit on Pitny Road, and already has burned 200 acres of brush and quantities of timber. The fire is believed to be under control.

Another fire is burning near Clarkstown, east of May's Landing. Backfiring is being resorted to.

Takes Poison at Soldier Son's Grave

After drinking lodin as he knelt beside the grave of his son who was killed in the World War, Joseph Lacora, 62 years old, of 157 Duncan Avenue, Jersey City, ran from the Holy Name Cemetery, Jersey City, yesterday afternoon to the City Hospital where he told doctors what he had done. He was made a prisoner on a charge of attempted suicide. Physicians said he would recover.

Americans in Ostend Enterprise.

OSTEND, May 30.—A consortium of Belgians and Americans is negotiating with the City of Ostend with a view to the creation of a new port here comprising a drydock, a grain elevator and cold-storage warehouses. It is understood the city authorities are favorable to the enterprise, which must be authorized by the Belgian Government.

UTICA CO-OPERATIVE STORE A SUCCESS

Employes of Grocery as Well as Customers Are Members of Society That Fosters It.

ITS BAKERY A BIG FEATURE

From a Small Beginning It Has Attained a Large Growth—Big Saving in Money.

The story of the successful operation of the Utica Co-operative Society of Utica, N. Y., is told in a bulletin just issued by the Consumers' League of New York. At the corner of Court and Schuyler Streets in Utica, it is pointed out in the bulletin, stands a grocery store which is different from an ordinary store. It is different because it is a co-operative store, and it belongs to those who buy as well as to those who serve.

"There is no need for the purchaser to be on guard lest the bargain be to his disadvantage, for he is dealing with friendly clerks who are there to help him find what he wants, not to sell him something he cannot use," the bulletin says. "In this store the purchaser can find all the articles carried by a first-class grocer, canned goods, green goods, dairy products and, in addition, a complete supply of baked goods, baked by the Co-operative Society itself.

"The bakery is to be found behind the grocery. Large, high windows throw a flood of light into the mixing room. The oven is of a modern type, large, easily controlled and economical. Five men work at the baking and a boy wraps bread in waxed paper with a mechanical device which automatically folds and seals. The three delivery wagons bear the co-operative motto, 'Each for all and all for each.' They are used in the morning for the delivery of baked goods and in the afternoon for the delivery of groceries. It keeps three boys busy all day covering the territory between the co-operators' homes. The delivery system is essential because the membership is scattered throughout the entire city.

"There are fourteen employes in the grocery and bakery. Hitherto they have received wages higher than those generally prevailing throughout the city for the same kind of work, but recently on their own initiative they voted themselves a 10 per cent. decrease. In a co-operative all members may know the financial status of the business, and the employes found that, due to the diminishing margin of profit, the business could not support such a high scale of wages. Their wage cut followed because as members of the co-operative they were interested not only in their own wages, but in the good of the society as a whole.

"The Utica Co-operative Society was organized in 1915 by a group of Germans. Half a dozen nationalities are now represented, although Americans predominate. Although they had only ninety-two members and $1,250 to start, they bought out a private store and began co-operative business. Their bakery was originally in the cellar under the store. The former owner was employed as manager. For three or four years they experienced many difficulties. Within two years two managers proved inefficient and had to be replaced. Only the tenacious loyalty of a few kept the society alive. But they had the foresight and determination to fight through those lean years.

"Now for five years they have had the same manager. He insists upon scrupulous bookkeeping methods, careful buying, close supervision of his work by the board of fifteen Directors, strict regard for the needs and desires of the membership and exceptional precautions against waste and leakage. The President, a man having a private business of his own, has an idealism almost religious in quality. These two men cooperate closely on matters of policy and provide much of the leadership which has brought success.

"The membership is now 380. The capital stock has increased from $1,230 to $27,594. The business in 1921 amounted to $105,508, 40 per cent. of which was done by the bakery. Since 1915 the rebates to members on patronage have totaled $8,207, fluctuating from nothing at all in some years to 8 per cent. and 10 per cent. in other years. During this period the lump sum saved to purchasers, including rebates, the earnings on stock shares, and reserve fund, amounted to $12,642. This sum would have gone into the pockets of private storekeepers except for the co-operative store.

"The Utica society has succeeded because it has met the prime requirements for effective co-operation. The greater part of the membership was loyal during critical times when the easy way would have been to withdraw and trade at chain stores. The management worked unceasingly to put the business on an economical basis. Finally they won out because they put service over profit, and carried out that rule in the most practical and business-like way they could find."

HISTORY CONTEST CLOSES.

K. of C. Will Announce Prize Winners on or Before Aug. 1.

The closing of the Knights of Columbus $7,500 American history contest, under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus National History Commission, was announced yesterday by Edward F. McSweeney, Chairman. Thirty days grace were granted senders of late manuscripts. The contest provides a first prize of $3,000 for professors of history in American colleges and universities and the remainder of the fund goes toward five prizes for various classes of contestants.

The first meeting of the Knights of Columbus Board of Judges, of which Gaillard Hunt, Historian of the United States Department, is Chairman, is scheduled to take place at Boston on Friday. The judges will announce their decisions on or before Aug. 1, when the Supreme International Council of the Knights of Columbus convenes at Atlantic City.

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

TO THE CREDITORS OF THE SILK GUILDE, INC.:

The Receivers having filed their petition with this Court on May 16, 1922, IT IS ORDERED:

(1) That all creditors show cause at a Term of the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York, held at the Old Post Office Building, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, June 2, 1922, at 10 o'clock A. M., why the offer of the Receivers to sell the assets of the SILK GUILDE, INC., at private sale should not be accepted; and

(2) That all creditors file verified proofs of their respective claims with the Receivers at 106 East 29th Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on or before July 1, 1922, any creditor failing to file such proof of claim on or before that date being thereafter precluded from asserting any claim against the estate, or from sharing in the distribution of the assets; and

(3) That any interested party may within thirty days after the filing of such claims file verified objections thereto; and

(4) That all such claims and objections shall be referred to a Special Master to take testimony in support thereof, and determine any priority or preference, and report to the Court.

Dated, New York, May 18, 1922.

CHARLES M. HOUGH,
U. S. Circuit Judge.

CHARLES M. YOUNG,
DANIEL S. MERCEIN,
Receivers.

JOHN JULIANA VS. NORA JULIANA.—Additional order of notice.

State of Connecticut, New Haven County, ss.: New Haven, May 26, A. D. 1922.

Upon the complaint of the said John Juliana praying for reasons therein set forth for a divorce now pending before the Superior Court in and for New Haven County, it appearing to and being found by the subscribing authority that the said defendant is residing in the City of New York and absent from this State; therefore Ordered, That additional notice of the pendency of said complaint be given by publishing this order in The New York Times, a newspaper published in New York City, once a week for two weeks successively, beginning on or before the 1st day of June, 1922.

By the Court: ERROLL M. AUGUR,
Assistant Clerk.

HALMOVITZ & KLEIN, INC.

Resolved, That the name Halmovitz & Klein, Inc., be changed to Halmes & Klein, Inc., and that the Vice President and Secretary of the company are authorized and directed to sign, verify, acknowledge and file the necessary certificates required by law and to do any thing or act necessary to duly comply with the provisions of law applicable to the change of name of a corporation under the laws of the State of New York.

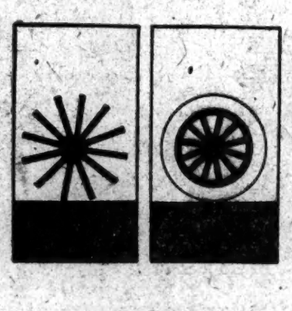
Why and How

A short, simple explanation of

(1) Why The Noiseless Typewriter is the only inherently quiet typewriter.
(2) Why it is the fastest stock machine built.
(3) Why it has the lightest touch of any typewriter.
(4) How it makes neat, clean carbons and produces accurately aligned work of the highest character.
(5) How its construction makes it so unusually durable.
(6) Why we claim it to be the most economical typewriter built!

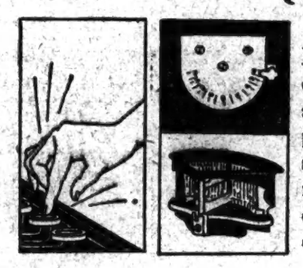
QUIET



A wheel, composed of spokes only, would rattle and bang every time it turned. But put a rim around the spokes and you get an even pressure with no noisy, hammering blows.

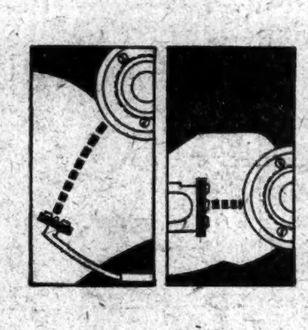
The Noiseless Typewriter writes by pressure. Every type bar prints by pressing firmly, but noiselessly, against the platen.

QUALITY OF WORK



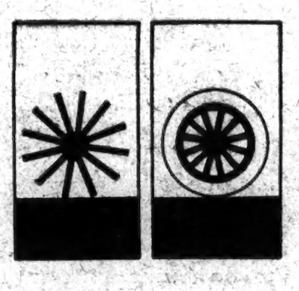
You do not pound the keys of The Noiseless to increase the strength of the type impression. An adjustable pressure dial varies the writing pressure so as to produce any reasonable number of carbons with minimum effort. The double type control assures accurate alignment, even spacing and beautiful work.

SPEED



The keyboard and mechanism of The Noiseless were designed for the touch system of speed writing. The type bars of The Noiseless travel a distance of only 3 inches, as against 8 to 10 inches on the ordinary typewriter. The printing movement of The Noiseless is one-third that of any other typewriter.

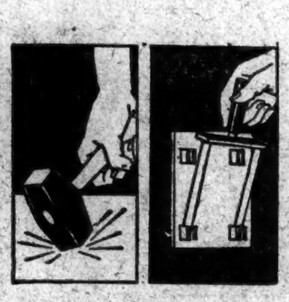
DURABILITY



The blows from a rimless wheel would soon jolt a car to pieces.

The elimination of the hammer blow method of writing increases the durability of The Noiseless. The dust-proof construction protects the mechanism from wear caused by exposure to dust and dirt.

LIGHT TOUCH



Machinery has taken the place of much tiring work that heretofore was done by hand. Instead of actually doing the work—the operator now only throws a switch.

With The Noiseless the gentlest touch of the finger causes the mechanism to write—a great improvement over the fatiguing finger work necessary in other machines.

ECONOMY

A man's capital is his thinking power. The Noiseless permits and encourages concentration of thought. It eliminates the hobble of NOISE and gives free rein to the increased productive power of quiet. It does not interrupt telephone calls or conferences. It pays for itself by saving valuable office space. Stenographers can work swiftly, silently and more efficiently close at hand.

The NOISELESS PORTABLE
Your Junior Partner

You will appreciate the unusual convenience of The Noiseless Portable. It is the only portable that you can use at any time, anywhere, without disturbing any one. Its quiet alone sets it above and apart from other machines. But in addition to quiet, it combines the most satisfactory speed, beauty of work, durability and economy in a small, compact portable typewriter. It produces standard work in every respect.

Descriptive circular mailed on request.

We would like to demonstrate these features of The Noiseless in your office. There will be no obligation on your part whatever. We simply want you to know the truth about The Noiseless and how it actually represents a great improvement in every phase of typewriter service. Call, write or phone.
